DEWEY OFFERS 5 POINT PLAN TO SPEED DEFENSE

Keep Out of Foreign War, He Urges.

TEXT OF SPEECH.
The text of the speech which Mr. Dewey delivered last night in Dallas, Tex., will be found on page 10.

Dallas, Tex., May 27 (AP).—Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, tonight criticized the administration's start of the defense program and proposed a five point plan of his own. His plan calls for a nonpartisan national defense board.

In an address before the executive committee of the Texas Republican central committee, Dewey suggested that national defense be based on these points:

1. "We must first decide what we are going to defend. It is imperative that the army and navy know what areas they must protect.

2. "A nonpartisan national defense board to plan and direct our program of rearmament should be immediately established. This board should have real power and full authority.

Demands Ouster of Reds.

3. "The national administration must remove from office its Socialists, communists and fellow travelers. It has been shown repeatedly that the government departments are plentifully sprinkled with subversive activities. We want no fifth column in our government.

4. "The administration must abandon its war on business. We cannot wait until next January. Enterprise must get going now. The unemployed must be given a chance to go to work.

5. "Our national morale must be revitalized."

Send No Army Abroad—Dewey.

Dewey asserted there is an "ever increasing tendency to yield to the feeling that this country should go into the war," and added:

"In the twenty years that followed the last world war the people of this country reached a solemn determination that they would not become entangled in any future European conflict. We resolved that we would not again send our young men to fight on foreign battlefields. That decision was made in the calm thoughtfulness of a period of peace and not under the stress of emotion. I, for one, stand by that decision.

"Our convictions and our sympathies are wholly and unhesitatingly with the allied nations," he commented, but declared "it is imperative that we should not allow our emotions to overcome our reason. Our first and imperative task is to create a strength of our own which must be respected."

Defenses Inadequate, He Says.

Dewey said defenses are wholly inadequate despite the expenditure of six and one-quarter billion dollars in the name of national defense in the last seven years.

"When the people became aroused to the urgency of this question the President called for another billion dollars for defense. He called for an air force of 50,000 planes and an annual productive capacity of 50,000 planes," Dewey said.

"We cannot produce airplanes the way the New Deal produces a billion dollars — by printing government bonds. You can't print airplanes. A blueprint is no protection against a bomb.

Demands Balanced Defenses.

"To produce 50,000 planes a year it will take a plant about four and a half times as large as our present plant, including all plant capacity now under construction.

"Airplanes are only part of any plan of national defense. We need tanks, artillery, rifles, ammunition, bombs; we need battleships. The national defense must be balanced and complete. France found that a Maginot line which protected only half of its frontier was no protection at all.

"For the next crucial eight months this country is under the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt. He is the President and on him rests the responsibility of obtaining prompt measures of rearmament. But this does not mean that the country should relax its efforts to free itself from the destructive policies of the New Deal."

SENATE LIMITS JOBS FOR REDS AND BUNDSMEN

Bars Employment in Interstate Output.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Vigorous blows were dealt in both houses of congress today against the fifth column within the United States. Developments were:

1. The senate adopted sweeping legislation to prohibit employment to communists, Nazis, or members of the German-American bund by firms engaged in interstate industry or in the production of goods for interstate commerce, and to require that at least 90 per cent of all employés engaged in such industry be American citizens. These provisions were embodied in the La Follette "oppressive labor practices" bill. [The story of its debate and passage will be found on Page 9.]

2. George Sylvester Viereck, world war propagandist for the imperial German government, and Carl Byoir, New York press agent, are the brains of Nazi propaganda in America, Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.] charged in the house. Patman said Byoir was Adolf Hitler's first "Trojan horse" in this country.

3. The house voted unanimous approval of President Roosevelt's order transferring the immigration and naturalization service from the department of labor to the department of justice.

4. The senate judiciary committee approved a bill requiring the registration and fingerprinting of 4 million aliens in the United States. The bill requires all aliens to report any change of address.

Traces German Connections.

Representative Patman told the house that Byoir's office is at the same address as the board of trade for German-American Commerce, Inc., in New York, and that Byoir is a public relations representative for business with assets of 13½ billion dollars.

"The first payment from Hitler to Byoir was $4,000 in cash from the German consul at New York," said Patman. "After that he was paid $2,000 to $3,000 a month, and on Oct. 1, 1933, he was given a contract signed by German interests and approved by the Nazi minister of propaganda. This contract gave Byoir $6,000 a month to assist in spreading German propaganda in America.

"Byoir established an office in Berlin and had bales of propaganda literature prepared and sent to this country to be distributed. Some of it was seized in the port of New York.

Hired to Set Up Spy Ring.

"I do not believe there is any doubt that Carl Byoir was hired to establish in the United States the greatest espionage and spy system ever organized on the face of the earth. Byoir rode into this country on Hitler's first Trojan horse."

House approval of the transfer of the immigration department was by unanimous voice vote, preceded by sharp criticism of Madam Frances Perkins, secretary of labor. If the senate concurs in the transfer, it will become effective in 10 days. If not, it will become effective in 60 days, since approval of only one house is necessary.

Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] declared that the President should have removed Secretary Perkins from office rather than to have deprived the department of labor of the duty to enforce the immigration laws.

Assails Lack of Courage.

"We are going to vote for this reorganization plan," Taber said, "because the President has not the patriotism or the courage to remove the secretary of labor, a notorious incompetent and one who for the last seven years has steadily and steadfastly failed and refused to enforce the immigration law and continuously admitted and kept here those who were not entitled to stay.

"It is our hope that Attorney General Jackson will do a better job; that he will either force Commissioner of Administration Houghteling to about-face on the position that he has followed under Mme. Perkins or will

Agents for the British air ministry are scouring the United States for a fleet of light commercial airplanes to be pressed into immediate service directing artillery fire on the western battlefront. It was revealed yesterday that a dozen of these planes have been purchased in the Chicago area and are to be flown soon to Halifax, Nova Scotia, for shipment to France.

The planes which are sought are 1939 models of the Stinson 105. This is a glorified puddle jumper plane which sells for $3,300. It has a 75 horse power motor and a top speed of 105 miles an hour. The plane is designed in such a manner as to prevent inadvertent stalls and spins and has a landing speed low enough to permit safe landings in meadows.

The British air ministry has signed a contract with the Stinson company for an unspecified number of these ships, it was learned.

If the planes prove useful for this type of work the Stinson company expects a British order for several thousand of them.

Germans Using Little Planes.

"The Germans are using a little plane with about the Stinson's performance for their field batteries," a spokesman for the Stinson company said here yesterday. "It is the Fieseler Storch. It lands at 31 miles an hour and is kept with the batteries it serves. The artillery uses it in the manner observation balloons were used in the war in 1918.

"We understand the British want to use the 105s in the same way. They land with flaps down at 43 miles an hour and carry just enough weight to accommodate a pilot, an observer, and some high frequency radio equipment. We are told that the 105s never will have to cross the lines but will simply climb up to about 3,000 feet near the guns so the observer can call the artillery shots."

Ship Has Four Hour Range.

Specifications of the Stinson 105 are: Span, 34 feet; length, 22 feet; weight, 1,580 pounds gross; cruising range, four hours. The motor is a four cylinder air cooled Continental of a type used in light airplanes thruout the United States.

The United States army air corps also has taken notice of the Fieseler Storch type of artillery observation plane. The Ryan company has produced the first of three slow flying airplanes recently, and the Stinson company is building a fleet of similar slow flying artillery observation ships. The army, however, is installing 350 horse power engines in its ships.

The theory in using these ships is that their slow speed will protect them from enemy fighting planes. The army is satisfied that a 350 mile an hour fighter would be unable to engage ships that would float around at less than 50 miles an hour.

SHUT-INS TO GET LILACS TODAY AS W-G-N TELLS STORY IN BROADCASTS

This is lilac day—the second and last in the 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" observance and the first ever to be woven into a series of radio broadcasts.

Station W-G-N will tell the story of the lilac bouquets from the time they arrive in Chicago until they reach north side hospitals and other institutions for distribution to the sick and shut-ins.

The first broadcast will be from track 15 at the Union station at 8:30 a. m. when the crew of train No. 48 of the Milwaukee railroad will describe the collection of the blossoms at stations from Deerfield to Chicago. At 10 a. m. a microphone on the loading platform of The Tribune Tower will pick up the story as trucks arrive with lilacs from terminal stations and others depart with bouquets for the hospitals.

At 1 p. m. Quin Ryan will continue the broadcast from Henrotin hospital. He will interview patients, nurses, and Miss Veronica Miller, superintendent.

Ten minutes later the final broadcast will come from Jahn public school for crippled children, where students, Miss Anna D. Lanz, principal, and Harold Kent, director of the radio council of Chicago public schools, will be interviewed.

Last Friday 16,000 patients in 96 hospitals on the south and west sides of the city received lilac boquets.

Lilac days are sponsored each year by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

British Intern Women Aliens on Isle of Man

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 27.—Three thousand five hundred Austrian and German women were rounded up and interned by British police today on orders of Home Minister Sir John Anderson.

All persons between the ages of 16 and 60 previously classified by alien tribunals as "grade B" enemy aliens are not allowed to own automobiles or cameras or to move more than five miles from their homes without a police permit.

The women were being interned in camps on the Isle of Man where four to five thousand men in the same category already are held. A home office announcement tonight says the women will be allowed to take children under 16 with them when the arrangements are complete.

1,500 Taken in London.

The technique of the roundup followed closely the recent police swoop on German and Austrian men in this country. Fifteen hundred women aliens were taken by Scotland Yard officers in London alone. The drive, launched secretly thruout the country, started at 7 a. m. The women, some still in bed, were ordered to pack a few belongings and then were crowded into trucks and police cars.

The roundup has disorganized domestic arrangements in a large number of British households, since most of the women involved in the swoop were hired as servants.

Political Groups Purged.

The British police departments also are working overtime in purging political organizations under Anderson's orders. In the last week more than 100 members of Fascist and other anti-war organizations have been arrested and jailed. The courts were busy today dealing with cases of antigovernment political speakers.

Jacob Lerner, 19 years old, who called the administration of Prime Minister Winston Churchill a "rotten government," today was sentenced to two months in prison by a North London court. Another speaker, Charles Findlay, 23, got three months in jail and a fine of 50 pounds [about $160] for describing Churchill as a "butcher."

FRENCH AND BRITISH FIGHT ON—REYNAUD

PARIS, May 28, Tuesday (via London by Radio) (AP).—Premier Reynaud announced today the capitulation of the Belgian army, without conditions, on the order of King Leopold. He said "France can no longer count on the Belgian army."

Premier Reynaud said the Belgian forces had capitulated before the German advance. King Leopold, he said, made the decision against the unanimous advice of his ministers.

"Since 4 a. m. (10 p. m., Chicago time, Monday) the British and French armies alone have been opposing the enemy," he said.

King Leopold ordered the Belgian army to lay down its arms, Reynaud said, without consulting the French or British governments, "which went to the aid of Belgium."

Reynaud Talks to Countrymen.

Premier Reynaud told his countrymen in an address before his announcement that the Belgian army had capitulated:

The premier said that "all France is thinking of her soldiers at this extremely grave hour."

"The French people and her soldiers make one solid block," he said, declaring that the French army was holding against German pressure along the Somme river line.

"We shall continue to fight on despite the tremendous difficulties we are now experiencing. The unfortunate circumstances of the present time will not prevent us from going on.

"We shall go forward to victory."

GERMAN PLANES BOMB FOE CAUGHT IN 'TRAP OF STEEL'

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 27.—In a man made inferno, German Stukas [dive bombers] and bombers today were bombing and machine gunning some 1,100,000 French, Belgian, and English forces held in the viselike grip of the German armies in Flanders and northern France.

It became a large scale repetition of the Kutno battle in Poland last September when relentless German planes rained death on 170,000 Polish troops encircled by the Germans.

The allied forces are surrounded on at least three sides—their backs to the English channel—and encircled in a number of smaller pockets on the Franco-Belgian border.

British ship communications with France have been bombed constantly in an effort to cut off supplies or means of retreat. The Germans reported a heavy toll was inflicted on transports and supply ships.

Deny Any French Successes.

The Germans emphatically denied French reports that the allied troops had proved successful in attempts to break or delay the German encirclement.

The Germans asserted that most of the French forces which are among those trapped are giving battle near Lille. It was stated the French are almost completely cut off from the sea, their only chance of escape.

[The British admitted last night their forces faced an "increasingly grave" situation in the trap. The Belgian cabinet meeting in Paris said that no matter what the outcome in Flanders, the Belgians had decided to continue in the war on the side of the allies. Premier Reynaud of France flew to confer with Winston Churchill in London, then returned to Paris for a meeting with his cabinet and the allied commander in chief Gen. Weygand.]

German troops of Col. Gen. Walther von Reichenau, advancing over Menin, west of Courtrai on the Franco-Belgian border, are nearing Ypres, where again the British and Germans appear destined to engage in a bloody battle as they did in the last world war.

Most of Von Reichenau's troops are heading for the coast, but their left wing is swinging southward. It will attempt to make a junction with German troops pushing northward from La Bassee and thus form a barrier, cutting off Lille, Roubaix, and Tourcoing from the sea. If this move succeeds, the great Lille fortifications will be completely encircled.

As the allied troops are pressed closer and closer together, the German Stukas and bombers bomb and machine gun them with increasing deadliness. At the same time the ammunition reserves of the encircled enemy are expected to dwindle.

Over by End of Week?

The Germans believe that the battle with the encircled forces will be finished before the end of the week. Then, it is expected here, they will strengthen the coastal defenses they win along the English channel in France and Flanders.

While this is being done Fuehrer Hitler and his aids will observe closely what is happening in France. Some circles consider it improbable that Hitler will launch a giant attack on England from his newly conquered bases in Holland, Belgium, and northern France unless he is certain that his left flank is impregnable.

With French forces still massed in the Maginot fortifications and big reserves of guns and ammunition in these fortifications, a number of experts hold that the Germans will first turn against the Maginot area.

Another New Weapon.

It also is pointed out that since Hitler plans to use a new weapon—more deadly than any used heretofore—he might decide to use it first in a region that is considered as truly military, in which no civilians are left.

The German air force, besides attacking the encircled allied forces, systematically attacked the ports remaining in French and Belgian hands and set fire to the harbor of Dunkirk. The air force also attacked the airports near Paris and at centers south of Rheims.

Today's communique, stressing air and naval achievements, reported these blows:

A British destroyer sunk in Ostend harbor and an allied submarine sunk off Den Helder, former Dutch naval base, by torpedo speedboats which the German navy has brought into increasing use along the channel coast.

The waterfront of Dunkirk set aflame by air raiders "to frustrate attempts of the English to bring parts of their encircled troops across the channel to England," it was said.

Heavy Tank Fighting.

Destruction of 73 allied warplanes, including 32 shot down in air fights and 15 by antiaircraft fire, to 15 German planes "missing."

The communique also indicated heavy tank fighting on both sides.

In a recent allied attack south of Sedan, it said, five of 11 heavy tanks were incapacitated by German antitank defenses and the others damaged "so seriously that their attack foundered."

"Furthermore," the communique said, describing air attacks, "we succeeded in sinking by bomb hits one merchant ship of 8,000 tons, besides hitting with a heavy bomb, with apparent fires and explosion effects, one large warship and two cruisers, as well as one transport of 18,000 tons."

Belittle French Leadership.

When The Tribune correspondent asked whether the desperate resistance of the encircled allied troops meant that the allied high command was trying to gain time to prepare a counteroffensive, an authorized German source said:

"We doubt that the French have enough material or fighting spirit left to be able to organize a big scale offensive. Their officers failed completely. The English, on the other hand, have only one worry in mind—the protection of their own country."

The Germans disclosed how they captured in one day France's Loretto Heights, north of Arras, a feat which took them 12 months in the world war.

An entire division of German armored cars stormed the hill on which the French had formed their defensive lines. The French fought fiercely and threw wave after wave of their own armored cars against the Germans but were unable to resist the superior fire power of the attacks, according to a report here.

Block French Escape.

At the same time, the German artillery heavily shelled the French communication lines to the rear, blocking the escape of the defenders and the bringing up of reënforcements. Along the road from Loretto to Souchez there remain a number of French armored cars, smashed by shells, torn by antitank bullets, or burned.

In the stubborn fighting to take Loretto in the world war the villages of Souchez and Givenchy were destroyed and thousands of men were killed. This time the casualties were light, the Germans said.

It was reported that the French national sanctuary, the church of Notre Dame de Loretto, with its 165 foot tower, was not destroyed. From this tower the whole district can be seen, including Lievin, Lens, and Loos.

RADIO REPORT OF GERMAN DEFEAT STIRS MYSTERY

Twenty-five thousand Germans were wiped out in a frontal attack against the main Maginot line, according to a mysterious French short wave broadcast emanating from Paris early yesterday and relayed to audiences in this country after being picked up by an NBC listening station.

The sensational claim, which if verified would represent the greatest allied success of the war, was made in the name of Gen. Maxime Weygand, generalissimo of allied armies, altho he did not speak personally. His message was read over Paris Mondial, the French government short wave station.

Many Chicagoans who heard the rebroadcast in English in this country were anxious for details. Inquiries by the Associated Press in Paris only added to the mysterious features of the case.

Fail to Confirm Report.

It was said by French authorities that Gen. Weygand had not broadcast, but that he had gone on the air some days ago to appeal to the French people to "stand firm for a month"—an appeal that was incorporated in the new broadcast under his name.

The inquiries failed to bring any confirmation of the supposed French victory on the Maginot line or to fix any definite date for the success, if it is a fact. Gen. Weygand's spokesman described the rout in these terms:

"Along the Maginot line, the German command tried to cut thru the Maginot forts, feeling out the actual strength of the line. After several hours of artillery fire, the German sentries swarmed out of the Siegfried line to attack.

"Wave after wave came over. It was not a battle, it was a massacre. Eyewitnesses estimated that the number of German dead and wounded outside the Maginot line was at least 25,000."

Flag of Truce Sent Out.

After the Germans were repulsed, the spokesman said, the Nazis sent out a party under a flag of truce to make the appeal:

"We wish to ask you to cease firing for 24 hours so we can clear away our wounded and bury our dead."

Attempts to obtain further information by newspaper men in Paris resulted only in the statement that Paris Mondial frequently carried news dispatches not made available to foreign reporters, and that in this instance the broadcast might have been put on the air before a censorship was clamped down.

One dispatch from Paris said reports of great battles on the Maginot line are an exaggeration. "There has been sharp fighting in the region of Montmedy," said the dispatch, "but Montmedy is a strong permanent bridgehead, and not part of the Maginot line proper. Moreover, the German forces engaged there did not exceed one division. However, that may be, there have been no further German attempts."

Appeal to Stand Fast.

NBC short wave listeners said the broadcast came on suddenly, interrupting a musical program.

The remainder of the broadcast by the spokesman for Gen. Weygand was an appeal for the French people to stand fast until the tide of the present crucial struggle has been turned into a "French march to victory." The speaker said:

"In a month France will be on the march to victory. Tonight we feel that this one month might well be cut down to a fortnight. Yet, in any case, the military situation is improving faster than any one could have imagined earlier in the week.

"The allies are going thru a period of holding the Germans at any cost and readjusting their troops and their lines in the situation forced by the great German break thru. Gigantic work has been done in this direction, and the French, all of them, with their commander in chief, are convinced that they and their allies will not have long to wait for their chance to come. There is something in the air in Paris now. It is something big."

Some observers believed that it was significant that the "Weygand broadcast" apparently was not offered over other French stations for home consumption, but was put out over the government short wave station which would carry it to listeners outside France upon whom it might have an impact as propaganda.

French and Nazis' Big Guns Shell Five Towns Near Rhine

BULLETIN.

BASEL, Switzerland, May 28, Tuesday (AP). — The great French forts along the Rhine north of Basel shelled Germany's west wall forts and railroads across the river this morning for the fourth successive day.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, May 27.—The battle begun Saturday between French and German artillery on the east section of the Maginot and Siegfried lines was resumed today with increased intensity.

All day long, at a rate of about one shot every two minutes, the French heavy guns have been in action. Their targets are the German railroad running north from Basel along the east bank of the Rhine, the German towns of Istein and Weil, and the German batteries located in Kandern valley, about 12.5 miles north of Basel. An important observation post at Efringen, near Istein, also was shelled.

Germans Shell 3 Towns.

The Germans permitted the French to do most of the firing, but retaliated by shelling the towns of Altkirch, Michelsbach, and Ransbock.

Reverberations from the big guns frequently rattled windows thruout Basel. A gunflash or smoke from shellbursts could occassionally be seen from vantage points. The amount of damage inflicted by both sides was not known since the boundary lines are guarded against investigators.

The people of Basel are taking the artillery battle calmly. Outdoor tea terraces at prominent points are having a good business. The people gather for tea and to listen to the shellfire.

French Fire Routs Plane.

There has been little air activity. A German reconnaissance plane, flying about 12,000 feet up, appeared this afternoon. French antiaircraft guns opened fire and the pilot turned for home.

TRIBUNE WRITER FINDS ITALY ON BRINK OF WAR

Sees Nation Resigned to Role in Conflict.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MILAN, Italy, May 27. — As if fascinated by a dark and tremendous abyss, Italy is being drawn closer and closer to the brink of war. She already has reached the edge of the precipice and her only hope seems to be to plunge forward.

From Premier Mussolini and other Fascist spokesmen and newspapers, one hears and reads such phrases as, "Italy's hour is approaching," "The time is ripening," and "Events are quickly maturing" for Italy to take a positive stand on the war.

For years she has prepared her people for the ordeal of fire and blood. Time and again they have been told that they must pass thru that in order to "fulfill their historic destiny."

Some sources said that Germany and Italy are attempting to induce France to make a separate peace by offering mild terms. Italian agitations are said to be calculated to soften the French mood as well as to contribute to the growing public sentiment for war.

When and How Are Questions.

I have been in Milan two days and have not met an Italian who seems to think of Italy remaining outside the conflict. The only questions seem to be when and how.

Shop windows display charts outlining why Italy must go to war. She must become free and independent, the charts say. This means she must obtain freedom of action in the Mediterranean.

The causes for which Italy must go to war are enumerated as Djibouti, Suez, Tunis, freedom from British domination—and sanctions. The latter is another shot at the British who are described in the press as an arch enemy.

No One Excited.

No one here, however, seems excited or worried. It is hard to explain, but every one is going on about his business as if by force of habit. The people do not seem to want war, but are not complaining and are resigned that they will be involved as soon as Mussolini decides that the hour to strike has come.

There are those who say that Italy is not getting into the war until victory is certain. Others say that the day already is fixed. Today some suggested the date was between June 6 and 10, and some declared that Italy was keeping out of the war until the crops, usually ripe around June 15, have been harvested.

British Urged to Leave.

ROME, May 27 (AP).—British nationals who called at the British embassy for advice about leaving Italy were told today they had better go unless they had urgent reasons for remaining, especially if they had families in this country.

British newspaper correspondents said they had been instructed from home to be prepared to leave.

Newspapers clamored with more insistence for "freedom" in the Mediterranean.

The Rome newspaper, Il Tevere, published a full page map showing how Italian warplanes and ships could overcome British and French forces in a triangle formed by Alexandria, Haifa, and Cyprus.

The blocking of the Suez canal by sinking a steamer in it would cut the allies off from reinforcements and supplies, it said, while an immediate Italian air attack from Sicilian, Libyan, and Dodecanese bases would "overthrow" French and English air forces in Egypt, Palestine, and Syria.

Points of Friction

NAZIS CRACK LYS RIVER BARRIER; PUSH ON CHANNEL

PARIS, May 27 (AP).—Sledge hammer blows from a revitalized German offensive, rivalling the violence of imperial Germany's world war assaults on Verdun, forced the allies to fall back and take their stand today on a new line defending the English channel.

To offset somewhat the Nazi gains in the north, where at numerous points they crossed the River Lys, last important water barrier on the way to the channel, the French central army in the Somme sector, south of the Nazi salient to the sea, hammered the Germans back to regain several villages.

The Germans put everything available into the campaign to crush the French, British and Belgian forces in the battle of Flanders. They threw wave upon wave of infantry, a thundering artillery bombardment as well as their dive bombers and armored columns into their drive for a quick decision over the allies.

Rages Thru the Night.

The battle raged overnight into the first major night operations of this war while the allies withdrew from their Scheldt river positions in the Valenciennes sector to a prepared line farther west toward the channel. Heretofore the Germans had confined their principal thrusts to daylight operations.

The struggle raged with undiminished fury thruout today with the allies reported checking the Germans on their new front.

The French high command's night communique said British troops counterattacked on the northern front in the region of Aire [nine miles southeast of St. Omer] on the Lys river, while the French persisted in their cleanup on the Somme.

To the east, the Germans launched fresh attacks in the Argonne forest, famed world war battlefield, where their objective in that sector, east of the Aisne river [and west of Montmedy], appeared to be to outflank the French front established on the Aisne to defend Paris. The French communique said the attack broke against firm French positions.

Claim Calais Still Holds.

On the English channel, Nazi forces pushed up thru Boulogne toward Calais, 22 miles from the channel washed shores of Britain, in an effort to cut the allies off from the sea. The French claimed they still held Calais but the city's fate would not be determined here tonight.

The severity of the combat was not disguised in military dispatches reporting seemingly unending streams of German troops rolling over the allied lines in an effort to submerge the northern armies under a sea of gray clad Nazi infantrymen.

With the Lys crossed, the Germans were in an improved position tonight to move toward Ostend and Zeebrugge on the channel.

The success of the attack was particularly evident in the way it widened the wedge between the northern allied armies and the central French armies from Bapaume to Arras.

First Withdrawal Sunday.

Until the admission tonight that the River Lys had been crossed it had appeared that the allied retreat was largely a strategic move into prepared positions, and that the might and precision of the French military engine was beginning to stop stop the rout.

The first withdrawal took place on Sunday under cover of the initial major night operations in the battle of Flanders.

The bottleneck of the German corridor to the sea, which once ran between Bapaume and Peronne, now is bounded by the Somme on the south and the heights around Arras on the north. From Bapaume to Arras is approximately 15 miles.

BRITISH BOMB GERMANS

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—British forces in Flanders were described in informed quarters tonight as facing a situation of increasing gravity, despite violent counterattacks against massive German forces pressing for a grip on the entire seacoast of northern France and Belgium.

The royal air force sought to relieve the pressure by heavy bombing raids.

The German air forces meanwhile were centering attacks on shipping, including hospital ships, and inflicting serious loss of life, authoritative British sources said.

The day was one of incessant fighting on the northern front, with street clashes in Calais, whose fate was still in doubt tonight, while battle planes thundered overhead. British naval guns pounded away at Nazi columns. At the end of the day the British war office reported the British lines remained intact.

Down 28 Enemy Planes.

Twenty-eight German planes were reported destroyed or seriously damaged by British fighters today. Five British planes were reported missing.

In the last 24 hours the royal air force made far-flung raids.

The air ministry said 150 high explosive and incendiary bombs were rained on airports at Brussels and Charleroi, the latter a German held French town on the Belgian border.

In other attacks, the air ministry asserted, a bridge on Belgium's main rail line was believed destroyed, a direct hit scored on the railroad tracks south of Aachen [Aix-la-Chapelle], in Germany, an important rail junction in Belgium wrecked, and a convoy of 24 vehicles blasted to pieces.

BODY OF GERMAN PRINCE, KILLED IN WAR, GOES HOME

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 27.—The body of Prince Wilhelm of Prussia, second member of the Hohenzollern family to die fighting for Adolf Hitler, tonight was en route home from the front for burial at Potsdam, near Berlin.

Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and grandson of former Kaiser Wilhelm, died yesterday in a hospital near Brussels of wounds suffered on May 23 during the Nazi push thru Flanders. He was 33 years old and held the rank of first lieutenant of infantry. His cousin, Prince Oscar, fell while fighting in Poland.

Just before his death Prince Wilhelm received the iron cross, first class, the same symbol of valor as in the days when the house of Hohenzollern ruled Germany.

[Lord Frederick Cambridge, 33 years old, first cousin of King George VI. of Great Britain and a captain in the Coldstream Guards, also has been listed as missing in action in northern France. He was the second son of Queen Mary's oldest brother, the last marquess of Cambridge.]

Died as True Soldier.

Funeral services will be held in accordance with Hohenzollern traditions in the Church of Peace at Potsdam which nestles at the foot of the hill crowned by Frederick the Great's summer castle, Sans-Souci. The body will be interred in the castle park beside the grave of his grandmother, Augusta Victoria, first wife of the former kaiser.

In announcing Prince Wilhelm's death, his father said he had "lived and died for the fatherland as an exemplary officer, true to the soldierly traditions of our house."

Prince Wilhelm began his military career when he was 10 years old and at 21 entered Bonn university which his father and grandfather also had attended. Two years later he enrolled at the University of Koenigsberg. It was at Bonn university that he met Dorothea von Salviati, an ardent Nazi and descendant of an Italian family, who became his wife in 1933. Two daughters were born of this union, Princess Felicitas, now 6 years old, and Princess Christa, nearly 4 years old.

Marriage a Surprise.

His marriage came as a surprise, for the prince a year before had promised his grandfather he would consult him before taking such a step. Immediately after the marriage the former kaiser announced Prince Wilhelm had "renounced all rights" to the German throne. Since then there had been no announcement that Prince Wilhelm had been reconciled with his grandfather.

Prince Wilhelm had been a member of the Stahlhelm, German organization of war veterans, until its dissolution in 1934, and often figured in its news as a battalion commander. From that time until resuming his place in the German army he devoted himself to management of his estate at Sternalitz.

U. S. Diplomat in Berlin Attempts Vacation Again

BERLIN, May 27 (AP).—For the second time Alexander C. Kirk, American chargé d'affaires in Berlin, left for a vacation today. He left for Rome and embassy officials said it was uncertain whether he would sail for the United States. He left May 10 but returned hastily when the Germans invaded Holland and Belgium.

Orders Surrender

KING LEOPOLD.

KING LEOPOLD'S ACTION RECALLS FATHER'S FIGHT

Ruler's Sire Battled Thru World War.

King Leopold III. of Belgium, who today ordered the surrender of his valiant army against the wishes of his cabinet, went to the front to command his soldiers immediately after Germany had invaded his land on May 9.

His prompt action aroused the admiration of his people. It recalled to them the heroic conduct of his father, the late King Albert I., who in August, 1914, also took command of his soldiers to resist German invasion in the first world war.

But where young Leopold capitulated after three weeks of fighting, his father battled to the end, fighting with his troops thru four long years of intensive warfare, and risking his life again and again. The end for Albert was not surrender, but victory. In 1918 he proudly marched at the head of his seasoned veterans back into his homeland.

Father Killed in Accident.

Leopold became king in February, 1934, thru the accidental death of Albert, who was killed while mountain climbing near Namur. He was only 32 years old then. He was tall, thin, and shy. He blushed easily, and his disposition was considered gentle.

His ministers prepared to groom him for his royal office, to instill what they considered more steel into his makeup. Leopold, however, surprised them. He soon demonstrated he had not only a keen mind but a powerful will, and he shortly became ruler in fact as well as in name.

Routine Like His Father's.

His daily routine followed his father's. He worked long hours. He made his Brussels palace an office rather than a home. He watched world conditions—economic, military, and political. In 1936 he declared that henceforth Belgium would cast aside its military dependence on France and Great Britain. Soon afterward he obtained guarantees of neutrality from those countries—and Germany.

At the same time Leopold maintained close personal contacts with France and Great Britain. He visited England twice in 1937, the first time to explain more clearly Belgium's desire to avoid alliances. It is believed this position was prompted by a desire not to offend any other nations.

The death of Leopold's father was his first great tragedy. His second—and greatest—was the death of his wife, Astrid, who was killed in a motor accident in August, 1935. She left him with three children, who only yesterday were reported to be safe in Paris.

BRITISH JAM ALL RADIO PROGRAMS FROM GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—For the first time since the war began the British tonight resorted to wholesale jamming of German radio transmitters. Strong interference signals blanketed all German short wave stations, including four special bands to North America and a dozen Spanish and Portuguese language transmitters to South and Central America.

The jamming war was brought home to the American public at 7:22 p. m. when the National Broadcasting company tried to put on its Berlin correspondent for the nightly round-up of war news from European camps. The American announcer finally stated: "We regret that the Berlin broadcast is unintelligible and so we switch you to London."

The news comment and propaganda talk of Lord Haw Haw, as the British call him, also was drowned out by interference signals this afternoon.

[The official German short wave news broadcast at 5:45 p. m., Chicago time, yesterday was heard quite clearly over The Tribune's short wave receivers.]

Belgian King Orders Army to Capitulate to Germans—British and French Fight On in "Inferno"

AIR FLEDGLINGS ALL HOPE TO FLY MILITARY PLANES

Eager to Serve Nation, Instructors Say.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Most of the young men who took up flying in the civilian aviation schools of Chicagoland last year hope to be able to do some military flying eventually. This was the consensus yesterday of veteran flight instructors at airports visited by a TRIBUNE reporter during the day.

"All these men are a potential fighting reserve force whether the army acknowledges it or not," said Bun DeWeese, director of Palwaukee airport at Milwaukee and Palatine roads. "They all hope that somehow they will be more acceptable for defense forces if they know something of flying.

"They read of the European war, see that German airplanes are playing a most potent rôle in the fighting, and then come out here to get themselves into the air. There must be thousands upon thousands of them thruout the country who are ready, if given half a chance, to get into military planes."

Many Pay Own Expenses.

At Palwaukee field 60 Northwestern university students are receiving flying instruction under the Civil Aeronautics authority training program, De Weese said. And there are 250 men ranging in age from 18 to 38 years who spend their own money for flying lessons there. Only about half of this number have pilots' certificates, he declared.

"A lot of these are fellows who once owned planes and held licenses but who are active no longer," De Weese said. "They fly occasionally, not every day or every week, but they get in from 15 to 40 hours a year, renting ships from us."

Another organization at Palwaukee field is the North Shore Flying club. It was formed by enthusiastic young men who bought their own airplanes in order to keep flying costs down to a reasonable level. There are between 50 and 60 members of the club taking instruction from or having their flying supervised by Elwood Wamsley.

Typical Club Group.

This group is more or less typical, according to DeWeese, of many similiar organizations thruout the United States. The members are literally spending their last nickels and dimes in an effort to fly. They are the most ardent of the flying bugs, he said, making their own repairs on their ships whenever possible and sharing all costs equally.

Mrs. Mae Wilson, who operates her own airport at Lawrence avenue and River road and has soloed hundreds of students in the last five years, agreed that virtually every one of her fledgling pilots is anxious to play some part in the expanded army training program.

"I have 25 steady students and about 100 girls and young men who come out to fly my airplanes from time to time," he said. "Every one of them, even the girls, would like to have some army training so they could be of use in war.

Military Trend Apparent.

"As a matter of fact, the Civil Aeronautics Authority's program of re-rating all flying instructors to provide uniformity in primary instruction thruout the country is a move in the military direction. It makes it possible for us to turn out students who are already started in the military mold."

"The war definitely has had an effect on student business. We have new students every day who walk in and say they want some flying training so that they can prepare themselves for the defense expansion program."

500 Students at Elmhurst.

Mrs. Wilson said only a third of her casual customers have licenses. Most of them can't afford to keep up their certificates and so they fly whenever they have enough money to buy an hour of dual instruction. This usually consists of her riding with them while they fly the ship, she said. All these flyers hope that the federal government will assist them.

At Elmhurst airport on Lake street, just west of the town of Elmhurst, there are three operators who have 500 student pilots and regular customers. Twenty college youths from Lewis institute are taking a CAA civilion pilot training course there. The school operators are Paul Stanley, Harold H. Harbican and Garfield Anderson.

"We've noticed an increase in the number of new students," said Stanley, "but we've attributed it to spring. They always come out with the warm weather. There's been a gradual growth in flying for a long time. The public has taken a different attitude toward it since the airlines went a year without a casualty. I'll admit the war may have helped."

NAZIS SAY ENGLAND CONFESSES CLEAVAGE IN FRENCH RELATIONS

BERLIN, May 27 (AP).—Nazi sources declared today they regarded Alfred Duff Cooper's message to the French people as an admission that a cleavage exists between France and England. The British information minister last night warned the French against making a separate peace with Germany.

"Why was there an appeal by an Englishman to the French people at this time if there is not something fishy about relations between the two?" authorized sources asked.

"As a matter of fact, England and France already are separated in that no more British troops are landing or fighting on French soil outside those caught in the great German pincer movement."

Fear 30 May Have Died in Argentina Train Wreck

BUENOS AIRES, May 27 (AP).—An undetermined number of passengers were killed and at least 37 were injured today when a Southern Railway train was wrecked at a grade crossing near Bahia Blanca, Argentina, apparently by an automobile. Railway officials said unconfirmed reports placed the number of dead as high as 30. A company executive blamed the accident on the driver of an auto, believed killed, who "apparently tried to beat the train to a crossing."

DEFENSE PATROL CHIEFS NAMED BY SPORTSMEN

Organization Perfected in Preparedness Move.

Leaders of Chicagoland's sportsmen's defense movement met yesterday at the Chicago Athletic club, gave their organization a name and elected officers.

The new minute men will be known officially as the Sportsmen's Defense Reserve. Their officers are Walter C. Peacock, president; William L. Bourland and Russell Wiles Jr., vice presidents; William T. Lodge, secretary; L. E. Doll, assistant secretary, and Glen E. Smith, treasurer.

The purpose of the reserve is the organization of sportsmen everywhere for national preparedness. When their organization is complete the sportsmen reservists will offer their services to the nation's armed forces. The members will be trained for no particular type of warfare. But they will be ready to serve in any that may be directed.

The men elected yesterday know guns. They are key figures in Illinois and Chicagoland gun clubs. Mr. Wiles is a director of the Illinois Rifle association. Mr. Lodge is executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. Mr. Doll is secretary of the Illinois Skeet association. Mr. Smith is chairman of the trap shooting committee of the Glenview club.

Another Meeting Planned.

At a meeting to be held within the next few days plans will be made for financing the reserve. In early discussions it was suggested that those who wish merely to register with the reserve may do so without cost. Those who wish to be active in it will be assessed a small fee, probably less than a dollar.

The money will be used only for paying clerical help and to defray the costs of printing. The officers and administrators of the reserve will receive no salaries.

Million in Illinois.

Mr. Peacock estimates a possible membership of a million in Illinois alone. The state issues approximately 750,000 hunting and fishing licenses a year. Mr. Peacock asserted, however, that there are many sportsmen and gun club members who do not hunt. They have guns and will be eligible to membership in the reserve.

The organization will seek especially to interest men above the draft age and youths below it. This on the theory that they would be the ones called upon to protect the nation's homes in the event of war.

13 BRITONS FLEE NAZIS' DRIVE IN DRIFTING BOAT

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—A British officer and 12 men picked up at sea from a drifting boat were brought to an English port tonight by a hospital ship.

Hard pressed by advancing German troops and by machine gun fire from planes attacking a French seaport Saturday, the officer and his men raced to the beach and swam a quarter mile to a drifting boat. In the boat they found a Dutchman killed by machine gun fire. To hide from the planes the soldiers lay in the bottom of the boat as it drifted seaward. They found machine gun fire had disabled the motor.

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, May 27.—German military circles are chuckling over a ruse they said they used successfully in a French channel port, trapping seven British regiments and the ships in which they crossed. After capturing the port, the Germans claimed, they did not announce their success and left French flags flying from buildings. The British troops landed, not suspecting a trap. They were rushed by the Germans and, caught unprepared, offered little resistance and quickly surrendered.

BRITISH PAPERS SPONSOR HOPES FOR U. S. LOANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 27.—Britain's month old 2,600,000,000 pound [about $8,314,500,000] budget already is out of date and the problem of paying for the war is again absorbing attention here.

While the British public is being prepared for still heavier taxation in the fall, London newspapers are deriving encouragement from President Roosevelt's attitude toward the allies and are sponsoring the idea that America may be induced to render direct aid to the Anglo-French cause by amending legislation now preventing credit sales to the belligerents.

The Daily Telegraph devotes its leading editorial in today's issue to the prospects of American aid and credits. It warns that the administration, as well as the public, is solidly opposed to sending an expeditionary force to Europe, but declares:

"There are undoubted signs of a strong movement towards nonbelligerent intervention on behalf of the allies. Active measures already are being taken to speed up the completion of allied aircraft orders, and in spirit, if not in form, the neutrality act is becoming more and more a dead letter."

BELGIUM WILL KEEP UP FIGHT, SAYS PREMIER

BULLETIN.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 28, Tuesday (AP). — Both highway and railroad stations on the Italian-Swiss frontier were open as usual this morning, despite reports in Rome diplomatic quarters that the border with Switzerland and France had suddenly been closed.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 27.—While furious battles raged in Flanders and France, there was great activity today on the diplomatic front, particularly affecting the Belgians, and much speculation whether Italy is about to enter the war.

Diplomatic circles in Rome reported without confirmation that Italy had closed her French and Swiss frontiers. Confirmation also was lacking in Paris.

Belgium to Carry On.

The Belgian cabinet met at the embassy here and afterward Premier Hubert Pierlot announced his government had considered "all developments" and had decided to continue in the war on the side of the allies. Pierlot said Belgium would make no peace with Germany until Belgium's independence is restored, along with respect for her rights and dignity.

"The Belgian government calls on all compatriots within and without the invaded regions to maintain their faith in the future of the nation," an official communique said. "Belgium will triumph sooner or later by keeping faith with rules of honor, which never have been abandoned."

Premier to Address French.

The French cabinet held a midnight meeting with Premier Paul Reynaud and President Albert Lebrun at Elysée palace and reviewed the military and political situation. Gen. Maxime Weygand, commander in chief of allied forces, was present and gave a report. Then it was announced that Reynaud would broadcast an address to the nation early tomorrow.

Reynaud had just returned from a flying trip to London to see Prime Minister Winston Churchill. When he came back he conferred with Marshal Henri Petain, vice premier, and Gen. Weygand. Weygand had made a flying trip yesterday to confer with leaders of the allied forces trapped in northern France.

Act to Mobilize More French.

Preliminary measures for mobilizing all Frenchmen of the classes of 1939 and 1940 [that is, those born between Oct. 1, 1919, and Dec. 31, 1920] were made. Unmobilized men of the 1910 and later classes also were ordered to report their addresses.

French newspapers gave the impression that Italy may be on the verge of taking momentous action. The press took note of contacts Vyacheslav Molotov, the soviet foreign minister, had made with the German and Italian ambassadors in Moscow.

To forestall Premier Benito Mussolini's possible action in the Mediterranean, it was indicated that the French and British were willing to allow the blockade of the Mediterranean to become practically ineffective. French political writers said that now that the Germans were openly fighting and fast using up materials, the blockade weapon has less importance than it had when Hitler was refraining from combat.

"State of Danger" in Turkey.

One indication that Mussolini is probably up to something was construed here from the fact that the Turks have declared a state of danger exists in Turkey.

Some thought that should the Italians act their movements would be directed more against Malta, from which American citizens have been ordered to leave, and, perhaps, against Gibraltar, which has been evacuated by women and children, than against the French frontier in the Alps.

Political activity in Spain [here seven words censored] also is seen here in the appointment of Sir Samuel Hoare on a special diplomatic mission from Britain to the Spanish capital.

Italy May Move Alone.

According to the Rome correspondent of the Paris Le Temps, the impression in Rome is that the hour of Italian intervention is approaching. His impression is, however, that there will be no general Italian mobilization and no declarations of war [here three lines censored].

He surmises that the intervention, in other words, will be specifically Italian and autonomous and not joined up with or in liaison with Germany. Both Italians and Germans, in a word, will be out to grab real estate, but each in its own way.

HUSBAND AND WIFE DIE.

Vincennes, Ind., May 27 [Special].—James Hart, 72, retired railroad worker, died of a heart attack last night a few hours after the death of his wife, Josephine Hart, 82. Double funeral services will be conducted from the old cathedral Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

CALL UP BRITONS 28 AND 29 TO ADD 600,000 TO ARMY

Shift More High Officers; Aid Named for Dill.

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—Britain tonight called her men aged 28 and 29 for military service under a plan to put British war machinery into high gear.

Lieut. Gen. Haining.

The 28 year olds are to be registered June 15 and the 29 year olds a week later, it was announced officially.

The new registration is expected to add 600,000 men to the armed forces and raise Britain's army to the 3,000,000 mark.

Informed sources here said the decision to register two classes within a week resulted from the government's desire to have available a sufficient number of men to meet any call.

High Army Officers Shifted.

Lieut. Gen. R. H. Haining was named vice chief of the imperial general staff today under Gen. John Greer Dill in the reorganiation of the British high command.

Haining's previous post as general officer in charge of the western command was given to Gen. Sir Henry E. Jackson.

Maj. Gen. B. C. T. Paget, commander of the 18th division, was appointed chief of the general staff of the home forces with the acting rank of lieutenant-general. Paget led the successful British withdrawal from Norway.

He will be under Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, who was shifted from chief of the general staff to general officer commanding the home forces.

Today's changes were in line with the move to revitalize the British army under Prime Minister Winston Churchill's new war drive.

Sir Edward Grigg, undersecretary of the war office, tonight announced 400,000 volunteers have been organized to fight German parachutists if they attempt to land in Britain. He said a large proportion of them already have been armed.

Grigg said the "paraspotters" would man a wide range of posts and report quickly on any landings they observe.

Army Telegraph Service Cut.

The war office tonight announced the temporary cancelation of telegraph service to the British expeditionary force in France.

Postoffices also were instructed to refuse parcels, packets, registered letters, and all other letters to the B. E. F. weighing more than two ounces. The cancelation was due to "heavy military traffic."

Shortly before the two new classes were called for military service today, Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard demanded more speed in training Britain's reserve manpower. The Standard declared 570,000 conscripts have not been summoned to training stations, and thousands of conscript age have not been registered.

"It seems the whole system of training needs to be overhauled," said the Standard.

More Wounded Reach England.

The war office today announced the emergency officers reserve, closed last November because the number of applicants was "overwhelming," will be reopened on a "limited basis." The reserve is open to men with army experience who have been or are likely to become good officers.

Two hospital ships arrived at a south of England port today with an undisclosed number of wounded from the British expeditionary force in France.

Three hospital ships brought several hundred wounded to the same port yesterday and reported 14 had died en route. Earlier yesterday an unrevealed number of wounded were landed in the west of England.

EUROPE IN GRIP OF JUNGLE LAW, SAYS U. S. ENVOY

DUBLIN, Ireland, May 27 (AP).—United States Minister David Gray said in a speech today that "jungle law has broken loose in Europe" and that some persons believe European civilization is on the verge of disappearance.

Gray said there are some parallels between the collapse of classical civilization 1,500 years ago and the present situation.

He pointed to the Philippines and their coming independence as an example of the way a groundwork could be laid in the western hemisphere for "a group of coöperating nations equal in sovereignty and dignity."

GENERAL RAPS OFFICERS' WORK AT MANEUVERS

Charges Some Attacks Were Absurd.

Camp Beauregard, La., May 27 (AP).—In a critical review of the army's greatest peacetime maneuvers, Maj. Gen. H. J. Brees reported to assembled officers today that had the concentration been on a larger scale similar to what might be expected by general mobilization, the troops might have bogged down.

Gen. Brees, commander of the 8th corps area, was chief control officer of the maneuvers. He criticized senior officers and praised enlisted men in his far-reaching report to about 4,000 fellow officers who now are making ready to return to their home stations.

"If results would not have been so tragic," he said, "some of the so-called attacks without use of supporting weapons were so absurd as to be farcial. In most cases the fault lies with our senior officers."

Paise for Noncoms.

Gen. Brees said one of the important objectives of further maneuvers planned for August in four army areas would be to eliminate difficulties encountered here and to perfect concentration.

In praising the soldiers who took part in the war games, Gen. Brees said:

"Our noncommissioned officers are the backbone of our army. They acted on their own; intelligently, with initiative, with a keen and complete understanding of what it was all about and of what they were trying to do. My hat is off to our enlisted men, be he private, corporal, or sergeant.

"There should be no question but that maneuvers of this scale, and even larger, should be held yearly."

Wouldn't Move Across Country.

The general also criticized the infantry's disinclination to take to the field when there were trucks to ride in, lack of liaison between forces, inadequate use of observation aviation, and many other deficiencies of the army at present.

"I regret to say that there were reports of commanders of all grades failing to play the game," he added. "There was a striking disinclination to move across country. Because of little or no liaison there resulted in stances of friendly troops firing into each other.

"We should have large increases in our armored vehicles. We need more tanks—light, medium, and heavy. There must be a large expansion of our so-called mechanized force. We seem to have forgotten entirely the effects of fire. Our infantry seems to have a tendency to forget that marching on foot is still a necessity. You can't fight in a truck."

KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

Geneseo, Ill., May 27 [Special].—Esther Paulson, 43, of Kewanee, died in Geneseo hospital yesterday two hours after a car in which she was riding collided with another automobile two miles west of Atkinson. The other car was driven by Austin Putman of Peoria.

THREE RESCUED IN YAWL ADRIFT 2 DAYS AND NIGHT

The 27 foot yawl Mistress, with three residents of Waukegan aboard, was towed into Kenosha, Wis., by the coast guard late yesterday after a general hunt for the boat had been ordered.

The yawl sailed from Michigan City, Ind., at 11 a. m. Sunday for the trip to Waukegan, which normally would take 12 hours. The clutch broke, rendering the auxiliary motor useless. There was little wind and the craft drifted all Sunday night and all day yesterday until it was about 15 miles northeast of Kenosha.

Aboard was the owner, H. H. Peterson, president of the Waukegan-North Chicago Chamber of Commerce and publicity manager for the Johns-Manville Products company of Waukegan; William G. Collins, chief chemist for Johns-Manville, and Hubert L. Corke, bacteriologist at the Abbott Laboratories in North Chicago. Corke is commodore of the Waukegan Yacht club. The men were wet and hungry, but otherwise had suffered no ill effects.

Factory Worker Escapes Death as Plane Crashes

Martin Bena, 34 years old, a factory worker who flies for fun, took off last night from Waukegan airport in a Piper Cub plane belonging to the Yankee Clipper club, of which he is a member. The plane climbed too steeply, stalled when 50 feet up, and plunged to earth in a corner of the landing field. The plane was badly damaged, but at St. Therese hospital, Waukegan, doctors said the flyer escaped with cuts and the loss of a few teeth. Bena lives at 1116 Lincoln street, North Chicago.

Gunman Waits at Elevator and Robs Shop Manager

A gunman was waiting on the third floor at 177 North State street yesterday when Leo Hammerman stepped from the elevator. Hammerman is manager of the Elfman Sandwich shops in the loop and was carrying between $1,000 and $1,500 in receipts to the company office in room 309. The robber seized the money, which was in a paper bag, ran down the stairs, and escaped in a crowd of pedestrians.

REPORT CHURCH GAINS OF 57,377 BY PROTESTANTS

Walter R. Mee, executive secretary of the Chicago Church federation, reported yesterday to federation trustees that 57,377 new members had been added to the rolls of Chicago's Protestant churches last year. The trustees met in the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, following the monthly meeting of ministers.

As in previous years, Lutheran churches led, having added 17,772 new members. Methodist churches were second with 5,789 and Presbyterians third with 4,748. Mee said the average number of additions per church was 39 as against 34 the year before.

The federation trustees adopted a resolution demanding the recall of Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's ambassador to the Vatican. The federation represents more than 1,000 churches and scores of denominations.

Next Sunday was set aside as a day of fasting and prayer for victims of the European war. Chicagoans were urged to give funds saved on light Sunday meals to the Red Cross or other humanitarian agencies.

CITY URGED TO MAKE JAYWALKERS MEND WAYS FOR OWN GOOD

The city should take steps to make the jaywalker mend his ways, the council traffic committee was told yesterday. A subcommittee headed by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] suggested the following amendments to the traffic code:

Whenever practicable, pedestrians should walk on the right side of the sidewalk.

Pedestrians should remain on the sidewalk upon the approach of fire apparatus, police vehicles, or ambulances.

"Walk" signals on traffic signals must be observed by pedestrians.

The subcommittee also suggested warning cards be issued violators and that arrests be considered a last resort.

PRESIDENT TOILS ON HIS BOARD TO SPEED DEFENSES

Expected to Announce Its Personnel Today.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—While house leaders planned to complete this week the legislation appropriating 3¼ billion dollars for national defense in the next year, President Roosevelt worked today on his project of a coördinating board to supervise the execution of the defense program. He said he expects to make an announcement tomorrow on the formation of the body.

Prominently mentioned as a likely appointee to the board with the special mission of speeding up mass production of aircraft and other arms and military equipment is William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors corporation. Others reported under consideration are Edward R. Stettinius, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation; Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company; Gen. Robert Wood, president of Sears-Roebuck company, and Rear Admiral William D. Leahy, governor of Puerto Rico.

Other Defense Developments.

Other developments on the national defense front included:

1. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.] informed the senate that the principal deficiencies of the army are aircraft, tanks, and personnel. He proposed increasing the number of tanks from the present 400 to 2,400 and increasing the authorized strength of the regular army from the present 280,000 to 750,000.

2. The naval subcommittee of the house appropriations committee approved the $1,302,000,000 navy appropriation bill passed by the senate last week.

3. The President asked congress to increase the appropriation for training aircraft pilots under the civil aeronautics authority from 5 million dollars to 37 millions. The program calls for preliminary training of 45,000, secondary training of 9,000, and advanced training of 4,000.

4. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau asked representatives of machine tool manufacturers how soon they could produce 200 million dollars worth of tools required for production of aircraft, arms, and other equipment for the army and navy. Also discussed was the possible requisition of the automobile industry to make tools, which would entail the continuation without change of 1941 automobile models in 1942.

Lodge Tells Observations.

Senator Lodge, who is a captain in the regular army reserves, returned today from service in the 3d army maneuvers in Louisiana. It was upon the basis of his observations with the troops that he pointed out army deficiencies. Inasmuch as steps are being taken to provide the aircraft required, he devoted his remarks chiefly to tanks and personnel.

"The German superiority in tanks and the coördination of mechanized combat forces with air power has destroyed the conception of the front line and has given us weapons which move so fast that they have an excellent chance of avoiding all artillery which is big enough to destroy them," said Senator Lodge.

"The importance of tanks to us is, I think, equally great, due to the fact that they get to the scene of action so rapidly and can arrive at the objective regardless of the destruction of the roads. They would be an indispensable element in beachhead defense to ward off a landing.

Compares Tank Strength.

"I have just seen all the tanks in the United States—about 400 in number, or about one finger of the fanlike German advance, or about the amount destroyed in two days of fighting in this war.

"The Germans have at least 10 divisions of tanks, making a rough total of 3,000 vehicles. We have 578 light tanks and 162 medium tanks, either on hand or in order. We have no heavy tanks of 40 ton or super tanks of 80 ton at all. The present war department plans call for a total of 734 light tanks and 194 medium tanks. By those figures, we have a shortage at the present time of 156 light and 32 medium.

"The army appropriation bill which has passed the senate carries $5,372,000 to remedy that shortage. I submit that we should have at least 4 mechanized divisions of 1,200 vehicles, with an equivalent amount for infantry tanks. I submit that our lack of these weapons is grave, and wish to point out that the so-called 'stream-lined division' about which so much has been said, is not a mechanized division at all."

House Group Hears Stark.

Action was completed by the house appropriations subcommittee on the $1,302,000,000 navy bill after Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and other high ranking naval officials had testified at executive sessions throughout the day. Admiral Stark repeated the explanations of the need for the enlarged fund which he had given a senate committee last week.

Both the navy and war department measures, which aggregate 3 billion 300 million dollars, are expected to be approved by the house this week without sending them to conference between the two houses. Such action will speed the entire military spending program to the White House by Saturday.

Meanwhile, sentiment grew in the house in behalf of legislation lifting the 45 billion dollar statutory debt limit at this session. A majority of both Republican and Democratic members of the banking and currency committee were said to be in favor of recommending an expansion of the debt limit to 50 billions.

Wants President's Word.

"The suggestion ought to come from the President," remarked Representative Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.]. "It is the only honest thing to do."

If European war developments continue their present trend, there is also possible a renewed demand for drafting of taxes at this session to meet the augmented spending program. This would necessitate congress staying in session beyond the present contemplated deadline of June 15.

41 PCT. OF CHILDREN STAY IN PARIS SCHOOLS DESPITE NAZI THREAT

PARIS, May 27.—Despite the critical military situation and the nocturnal visits of German airplanes, about 41 per cent of the school children remain in Paris and are continuing their studies in the usual way. This was revealed today by Municipal Councilor Georges Contenot. In the suburbs about 44 per cent continue to attend school. The figures are interpreted to mean that many Parisian parents are convinced the situation does not warrant the evacuation of their children to the provinces.

Contenot said the peacetime attendance in Paris public schools is 177,961, and that 72,780 still report each mornng. Early this month 12,283 were evacuated to the provinces.

U. S. AIR PROGRAM WILL TAKE TIME, SAYS ARMY CHIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of the army general staff, told the National Aviation forum today that America faces a monumental task to "overcome the deficiencies of past neglect" of its air force and counseled promising "only what we can reasonably expect to achieve."

"The history of our difficulties of the last world war in developing air power," said Gen. Marshall, "provides several pointed lessons for our guidance today, and I believe the most important of these relates to the American tendency, under the emotional strain of a great emergency, to assume that vast projects can be completed on a basis of enthusiasm without regard to the practical realities of the problem."

Recalling that in 1917 there was an immediate appropriation of 640 million dollars for air power development, the general said a publicity campaign followed which led the people to expect stupendous results in short order. This, he said, led to tragic disillusionment when the planes and trained pilots failed to materialize in a few months.

"The country did not realize then," he said, "as I think it does not realize today, the long time required under the most efficient procedure, first to initiate a production program, and then to arrive at the hour of mass production; the time necessary to train the personnel and to transport the equipment and that personnel to the field of action."

ARMY TO SPEND 80 MILLIONS ON GIANT BOMBERS

Seeks 200 Such Planes, Called World's Best.

Washington, D. C., May 27 [Special].—The army air corps is planning to spend 80 million dollars to acquire 200 more flying fortress types of long range bombardment planes as soon as funds are available under the 3 billion 300 million dollar defense expansion program, it became known here today. The ships, generally acknowledged to be the finest in the world, are produced by the Boeing and Consolidated aircraft companies.

Aside from minor improvements, the 200 new ships will be similar to 30 of these bombers that already have been delivered to the air corps. The Boeing ship is the B-17 type of bomber, of which some 28 have been delivered in the last six years and another 24 are now in production at Seattle. The Consolidated bombers will be like the B-24s that are just now completing service tests.

Hold World Records.

Both these planes have performances superior to any other bombers in the world. The B-17s hold world records for speed and distance with heavy loads, and the B-24s are considerably superior to the B-17s. One point at which they excel is range. The B-17s are capable of flying for 2,500 miles at more than 220 miles an hour, and the B-24s have a maximum range of 3,000 miles, the air corps has announced.

A year ago, when Col. Charles A. Lindbergh startled a congressional committee by declaring German military planes were better than any others, not excepting American, he qualified the statement in respect to the heavy bombardment squadrons then equipped only with the B-17. Not even the Germans, he said, have bombers of their speed and range.

In tests the B-17s have flown to heights above 30,000 feet, have set a transcontinental nonstop record of 263.8 miles an hour average speed, and have sped at 259 miles an hour over a 1,000 kilometer course [621 miles] with an 11,000 pound bomb load. The latter is currently a world record. The B-24 is said to have a top speed of more than 300 miles an hour.

Use Four Engines.

Both ships are equipped with four engines. The B-17 has four 1,100 horse power Wright Cyclones. The B-24, slightly heavier, has four 1,500 horse power Twin Hornets. Both carry crews ranging from 9 to 11 men, and have placements for .50 caliber machine guns and light cannon in the nose, tail, back, and belly.

It was this heavy armament, designed to cover every inch of the sky around the big planes, that earned them their name of "flying fortresses." The army still believes these ships in formation will be formidable enough to fight off enemy pursuit that might rise to intercept them during a raid far out to sea or into enemy territory.

The range of the B-17 has been repeatedly proved. Several of these ships have made flights from California to Hawaii, and an entire squadron is to fly to Hawaii to take part in navy maneuvers there this spring. In 1938, and again last November, flights of five of these ships made a 12,000 mile tour of South America.

New Theory Advanced.

After the acquisition of the first groups of the B-17s the air corps began to work out an entirely new theory of national defense. Part of the theory was demonstrated to the navy in 1938, when three of the B-17s flew out to set to intercept the steamer Rex some 600 miles off Cape Cod. The army reported that had the Rex represented an enemy fleet their bombers could have stopped it quickly.

Following these demonstrations, the navy ruled that no army flights should be made more than 100 miles to sea without navy permission. For years the army has sought large appropriations to increase the fleet of these heavy, long range machines but couldn't get the ear of the President, who had favored navy advisers until the European war demonstrated the strength of air squadrons.

In army circles it is reported that Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison was thinking of the flying fortress types when he reported that the airplane has gained a "temporary" advantage over the battleship. Army flyers, speaking unofficially, say that a B-17 equipped with the army's extraordinarily accurate bombsight could put any warship out of action with 2,000 pound bombs.

Until the acquisition of the B-17s by the army, the navy showed little interest in large airplanes. Since then, however, the navy has plugged for long range flying boats. Nearly 300 Consolidated twin motored flying boats have been ordered, nearly two-thirds of which already have been delivered. These are 3,000 mile cruisers with top speeds of 180 miles an hour.

Last year two experimental types of four motored boats were delivered. One was the Consolidated PB-242 and the other the Sikorsky PBS-1. Both the big boats weigh 60,000 pounds, have top speeds of 200 miles an hour, and are reported to have ranges of 4,000 miles. The navy's big planes may eventually be asked to take over the duties of light cruisers for scouting as well as bombing.

Dr. Aronson is an instructor in dentistry at New York university and is on the staff of Bellevue hospital.

WARRING POWERS ADVISE NAVIES OF SHIP'S MERCY TRIP

Washington, D. C., May 27 [Special].—Both the German and the British governments have given assurances that they have advised their navies of the voyage of the liner President Roosevelt to Galway, Ireland, to bring back Americans from war-torn Europe, the state department said today.

The department declared it had received no official report of the rumor circulated by Germany that there is reason to believe the steamer might be sunk by Britain—the sinking to be blamed on Germany.

Alexander C. Kirk, American charge d'affaires in Berlin, said he had informed the German foreign office of the mission of the liner.

Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador in London, was told by the British foreign office that no hindrance would be offered to the vessel by the British.

LA FOLLETTE BILL PUTS SKIDS UNDER ALIEN WORKMEN

Passed by Senate; Fate in House Uncertain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Before passing the widely condemned La Follette labor practice bill, the senate today eliminated a provision denying to employers the right to investigate the political and economic views of employés and prospective employés. Apparently fearing defeat of the bill, the author himself—Senator Robert La Follette [Prog., Wis.]—moved to eliminate the provision.

When the emasculated measure finally was given senate approval, it carried an amendment sponsored by Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] prohibiting any establishment engaged in interstate commerce, or in the production of goods for interstate commerce, from employing communists, Nazis or members of the German-American bund.

Still another amendment introduced by Senator Reynolds provides that at least 90 per cent of all employés of firms engaged in interstate commerce, or the production of goods for interstate commerce, shall be American citizens.

Move Toward Citizenship Rewarded.

As to the other 10 per cent, the bill gives preference to aliens who have applied for citizenship. The 10 per cent alien limitation will not apply in localities where American citizens able and willing to do the work are not available.

The La Follette bill was mutilated almost beyond recognition before the senate passed it by a vote of 47 to 20. Some of the senators who had denounced it originally as a measure to wreck American industry by extending government protection to communists, voted for the bill in its final form. Among these were Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.], both prominent contenders for the Republican presidential nomination.

Penalties for Employers.

As finally passed, the bill makes it unlawful for employers to employ any person or agency to secure information with respect to the plans or activities of their employés concerning self-organization; to engage strike breakers, that is, persons receiving a higher rate of pay than employés engaged in a strike; to employ as a private guard any person who acts as a peace officer while armed and while absent from the employer's premises; to possess or use industrial munitions such as gas, sawed-off shotguns and machine guns.

Originally the bill was slated to be killed by the house rules committee if passed by the senate. Whether the restrictions on aliens, communists, and Nazi Bundsters will make it more palatable to the rules committee remains to be determined.

ENDING OF STRIKE GETS ANNA OUT OF THE DOGHOUSE

The milk strike is over and Anna is out of the doghouse at the home of Mrs. Charles Howard, 66 Indian Hill road, Winnetka. Anna is a cow, a registered Ayrshire.

Mrs. Howard called the Spinney Run Farms dairy, north of Libertyville, one day last week to repeat inquiries about having some milk delivered.

"We're being picketed," said the manager, Raymond G. Alderman. "We can't take a chance on sending out a driver."

"Then how about sending out a cow?" said Mrs. Howard.

Ann arrived a short time later on a truck. She was installed in an oversize kennel formerly occupied by a Great Dane. A man from the dairy fed and milked her, morning and night. She supplied 12½ quarts of milk a day, until the ending of the strike got her out of the doghouse.

substitute for him an aggressive American.

"America today is up against a serious proposition. Subversive groups are steadily at work, and the President has not yet made a move to get rid of those in government positions who are interested in subversive activities. Amongst others I refer to Smith, Madden and Saposs in the labor board."

Taber referred to Chairman J. Warren Madden, Edwin S. Smith, member, and David J. Saposs, Russian born chief economist of the board.

Tighten Rule Over Aliens.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate judiciary subcommittee, sponsored the bill to regulate and control the movements of aliens. The measure contains a provision for $10,000 fines and prison sentences up to 10 years for attempts to subvert military forces by any means, and deportation of aliens advocating overthrow of the government.

"Enforcement of this bill," said Connally, "will prevent espionage and sabotage. It clarifies the law so there can be little doubt in any court as to what congress intends by its enactment. Congress means to clean house and clean it good."

The house passed a less drastic measure last year. Connally said aliens probably will have four months in which to register with the postmaster of their community.

Seeks Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Dorothy Lauffenberger.

Mrs. Dorothy Lauffenberger, 22 years old, had two reasons yesterday when Judge Oscar Nelson asked her why she didn't patch up her romance with Ernest Lauffenberger, 26.

"He doesn't treat me as his wife or his equal," she said. "He keeps from 5 to 20 steps ahead of me when we go walking. It's humiliating."

"They have a son, Robert Jr., 3 months old," said her attorney, Norman Becker. "Before the baby was born this man began courting another girl. He told her he was single."

The judge denied Mrs. Lauffenberger's request for temporary alimony and sent her back to her home at 3367 5th avenue to try to renew her romance. If her husband doesn't woo her back, the judge said, she'll get the alimony later on her divorce suit, which charges cruelty. The judge forbade Lauffenberger to see the other woman any more.

VIERECK LINKED TO HITLER EARLY AS 7 YEARS AGO

Accused of Getting Big Pay from Nazis.

George Sylvester Viereck, denounced on the floor of the house of representatives yesterday by Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.] as a paid Nazi propagandist seeking to introduce a Trojan horse into the United States, was described as far back as 1933—the year Hitler came to power—as collaborating in the German interest in this country.

Money Factor Charged.

According to Representative Samuel Dickstein [D., N. Y.], who anticipated the work of the Dies committee by directing a congressional investigation of un-American activities in 1934, the veteran German propagandist developed an admiration for the Nazi cause because there was money back of it.

Testimony before the Dickstein committee represented Viereck as receiving a salary of $1,750 a month from Nazi sources. Called before the Dickstein committee, he admitted receiving the salary.

Viereck said he had admired Hitler and called upon him in Germany in 1933 to express his enthusiasm over the improvement he had brought about in Germany's world position. Viereck asserted, however, that he had attempted to persuade Hitler to moderate his anti-Semitic policies.

Paid by Envoy, Too.

In addition to the $1,750 a month, Viereck admitted being paid $500 a month by Dr. Otto Kiep for four months while Dr. Kiep was German consul general in New York. He said his services to Dr. Kiep were strictly advisory "concerning the general aspects of public relations."

Before the United States entered the world war, Viereck was editor of Fatherland, the leading pro-German publication in this country. When America declared war, Viereck's paper was barred from the mails.

In 1918, with the war still in progress, he was investigated by the New York attorney general's office and admitted receiving payments of $100,000 from Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, for disseminating German propaganda.

A Further Charge.

It was charged by the attorney general that after the American declaration of war had cut off German revenue, Viereck obtained another $100,000 from Americans of German descent to place 4,000 German aliens in positions in American industry.

Viereck admitted that he had sponsored a grandiose scheme to buy control of 30 American newspapers, which were to be controled by the German government and used as propaganda vehicles to keep the United States from entering the war on the side of the allies. He said German agents balked at the necessary outlay of $50,000,000.

GEORGIA TO CUT ALL ALIENS OFF STATE PAY ROLL

Atlanta, Ga., May 27 [Special].—The names of all aliens will be stricken from Georgia's state departmental budgets for the next quarter, it was announced today.

Many aliens are on the pay rolls of the state highway department, the department of public welfare, the University of Georgia system, and other state agencies. A number of aliens on the old age pension and other public welfare rolls also will be stricken from the lists.

Gov. E. D. Rivers announced that state employés will be given leaves of absence at full pay to take military training for national defense. He requested employers in private industry to follow this course.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall suggested to the governor that before he approves budgets for the various state departments and agencies for the quarter beginning July 1 he should require affidavits from department heads that there are no aliens employed by them, or that there is no American citizen qualified to hold the job held by an alien.

2 MUTES CRACK THEIR KNUCKLES IN JEST—NO JOKE

TIJUANA, Mexico, May 27 (AP).—It cost two Los Angeles deaf mutes $50 each to "crack jokes on the knuckles" before Francisco Dominguez, chief of the federal traffic police.

The youths were arrested on a reckless driving charge. They engaged in animated finger talk before Dominguez.

Said one: "These cops are dumb. We won't have to pay any money."

"So?" said Dominguez, "cracking jokes on the knuckles, eh? That will cost you $50 each."

BYOIR DENIES CHARGE

New York, May 27 (AP).—Carl Byoir, New York public relations counsel, said tonight that charges by Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.] that Byoir had been hired by Germany to establish an aspionage system in this country were an "attempt to smear me."

"Seven years ago we carried on a tourist publicity campaign for the German federal railroads, having no connection with German propaganda," Byoir said.

"During the last six years we have represented no foreign government or interest directly or indirectly, except China. Mr. Patman's attempt to smear me is typical of his tactics, and the statement he has made is, as he and every one else in Washington knows, a tissue of half truths and lies uttered in the refuge of his congressional immunity.

"He attempts to smear me because I happen to be working actively against the enactment of his pet bill, which represents the greatest conspiracy against the American consumer in 100 years."

Does Your Breath Shout 'FALSE TEETH'?

Stera-Kleen Prevents False Teeth Odor — Cleans Without Brushing

"False teeth odor" is the curse of denture wearers. Ordinary brushing or antiseptics often will not remove scum and food particles that collect on your plate or bridge. This uncleanliness gives off the most offensive of breath odors — you do not know if you have it — but others do.

Prevent this odor by using STERA-KLEEN and make sure of absolute cleanliness. STERA-KLEEN dissolves scum and food particles from the tiny crevices of your plate that brushing does not reach. It is safe—economical—easy to use.

Place your bridge or plate in water, add a little STERA-KLEEN, leave for a few minutes or overnight—can't harm. Rinse, and it is purified and clean, ready for use without brushing. Daily use prevents "false teeth odor." Get STERA-KLEEN today. Only 30¢ a package at any drug store.

NEW YORK ALIENS RUSH TO APPLY FOR CITIZENSHIP

New York, May 27 [Special].—Long lines formed outside naturalization bureaus in New York city today as hundreds of aliens, many of whom have been in this country for many years, rushed to obtain applications for citizenship papers.

The sudden rush, attributed to recent proposals to register and fingerprint all aliens as a means of combating fifth column activities, manifested itself especially in Brooklyn and in The Bronx. In both places extra help had to be added to the regular forces of the bureaus.

Observers were impressed by the number of elderly people, those who had been in the country for 35 and possibly 40 years, who have now decided to seek citizenship.

DEWEY WARNS AMERICA: SHUN FOREIGN WARS

Dallas, Tex., May 27 [Special].—Following is the prepared text of the speech given here tonight by Thomas E. Dewey of New York, candidate for Republican nomination for President:

"In the past 14 months, nine nations of the world have been subjected to ruthless military conquest. For this there was no provocation—save that they were peace-loving and weak. We have seen brutally trampled under foot everything we in this country hold dear—individual liberty, the right to peace and security, the right of the people to govern themselves. We are sick at heart at the tragedy of millions who are homeless refugees tonight.

"We need not deny where our sympathies are, nor need we be ashamed of our emotions. Great Britain, France, and their allies are fighting against a system of despotic government, religious persecution, and military aggression which we hate and abhor. Our convictions and our sympathies are wholly and unhesitatingly with the allied nations.

Warns of War Fever.

"As news comes to us of reverses to the allied arms and success to the aggressors, there is an ever-increasing tendency to yield to the feeling that this country should go into the war. There is no fever so contagious as war fever. It might even sweep this country off its feet. As a people, we are already deeply stirred and it is imperative that we should not allow our emotions to overcome our reason.

"In the 20 years that followed the last world war, the people of this country reached a solemn determination that they would not become entangled in any future European conflict. We resolved that we would not again send our young men to fight on foreign battlefields. That decision was made in the calm thoughtfulness of a period of peace and not under the stress of emotion. I, for one, stand by that decision.

First Task Is Security.

"This does not mean that we should be or can be indifferent to the frightful tragedy in which the world finds itself. Brute force has been unleashed upon the world. That force respects nothing but force. We must not be blind to the possibility that we might be called upon to defend ourselves. Our first and imperative task is to create a strength of our own which must be respected.

"The ugly facts are that the United States is not even prepared to defend itself against attack in its own territory, let alone to wage a war abroad.

"Let us consider some of these facts:

"We have a good fleet—in the Pacific ocean. Our Atlantic seaboard is protected by a shadow fleet headed by three old battleships in need of modernization. The whole navy is handicapped by aged and slow auxiliary ships.

"Our army has only 75,000 fully equipped troops ready to take the field. We have not a single complete mobile division of infantry and artillery which could be rushed to a point of attack.

"The army has on hand only 38,000 modern infantry rifles. It needs more than 240,000 for its present plans alone. It has only 14 per cent of its antitank gun requirements. It has less than 2 per cent of the light tanks and less than 10 per cent of the medium tanks that it needs.

"We have only one 37 millimeter antiaircraft gun for every 100 that our army needs under its present plans. We have less than 2 per cent of what the army requires in antiaircraft ammunition.

Enough Planes for Week.

"Our whole army air force includes only 863 combat planes—a week's toll in the battles of Europe. Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, testified before a senate committee this month that the army has only 52 first class heavy bombers. He further testified that if our twin-motor bombers were sent against modern equipment, 'it would be suicide.' And when he was asked how many of the army's 2,700 planes could be modernized, he said: 'Offhand, I should say half a dozen.' None of the army planes has armor, self-sealing fuel tanks, or sufficiently heavy firing equipment.

"In the army we need over three times as many gas masks as we have. In the National Guard there is only one gas mask to every eight men.

"We are dependent upon foreign countries for 23 materials essential to our national defense.

"In citing these facts I am giving no aid and comfort to potential enemies. All this and much more has been disclosed in official testimony before the congress. It is all well-known in the war offices of foreign powers. They know the condition of America. It is high time the American people themselves knew it.

"But even our lack of military preparation does not tell the whole story. Behind the military front there is an economic front where decisive battles are won or lost. On that economic front also, this national emergency finds us desperately unprepared.

War Against Business.

"There has been a seven year war here in our country. It has been a war by the administration against business and against every vital and productive force of the nation. It has been a selfish war for power, waged against the men and the brains and the industrial plants we now need so urgently.

"Under the harrying and abuse of recent years our productive industrial plant has slowed down, deteriorated. The national debt has been staggeringly increased. And all of this in a time of world crisis.

"In the last seven years the administration has spent 6¼ billion dollars in the name of national defense. This is the largest peacetime expenditure for defense in any seven years of our history. In spite of these unprecedented expenditures our national defenses are wholly inadequate.

"Such, in brief, is the solemn situation in which we find ourselves. Hysteria will not help. We have facts to face. We have a duty to act effectively. The paramount question before us is, how can this nation best protect itself?

"When the people became aroused to the urgency of this question, the President called for another billion dollars for defense. He called for an air force of 50,000 planes and an annual productive capacity of 50,000 planes.

"Now, what about those 50,000 planes?

Plane Makers in Dark.

"Last Monday, 100 representatives of airplane manufacturers were called to Washington. For the benefit of newsreels and press, Secretary Henry Morgenthau made a welcoming speech. News pictures all over the country were to show that the administration was on the job.

"But was it? The assembled manufacturers were also addressed by the secretary and assistant secretary of war, the acting secretary of the navy, and others. These high officials had little more to say than that the airplane makers were welcome to Washington. When the plane makers asked what they could do to help, they got no information.

"Those 100 manufacturers from all over the United States went back to their plants in complete bewilderment.

"It was a good publicity stunt. But publicity will not produce planes.

"We cannot produce airplanes the way the New Deal produces a billion dollars—by printing government bonds. You can't print airplanes. A blue-print is no protection against a bomb.

"This country wants planes—plenty of planes—and it wants them as fast as it can get them without interfering with the delivery of planes to the allies. In fact, our effort should be to help speed those planes to the allies.

Talk Is Useless.

"But what is the good of talking about 50,000 planes unless we know what we are talking about and are prepared to do something about it? What are the facts about airplane production in this country? What does such a program mean?

"Our actual production of military planes, without their engines, is now at the rate of 6,000 a year. By the end of this year, with present floor space and floor space actually under construction, plane capacity will be at the rate of 10,200 planes a year. This is the estimate of the men responsible for building the planes.

"To produce 50,000 planes a year, it will take a plant about four and a half times as large as our present plant, including all plant capacity now under construction. Experts estimate that it would take at least four years to accomplish this. It means recruiting and training a whole army of skilled airplane workers. It means more than 500,000 men to build those planes.

"And this does not include guns, ammunition, or bombs.

"To use airplanes you have to have an air force. To maintain and fly 50,000 planes, an air force of about 750,000 men is necessary. That is more than three times the size of the regular army of the United States. At least 75,000 of these men would have to be pilots, and it takes the most skilled instructors a year and a half to train a military pilot.

First Cost 7 Billions.

"The average cost of a military plane is $84,000, including necessary spare parts. Allowing for increased efficiency in mass production, experts estimate the cost of 50,000 planes at 3½ billion dollars. And that is without factories, without guns, without flyers. The cost of training and equipping ground crews runs to another 3½ billion dollars. That means 7 billion dollars as a starter.

"These are sobering facts. But they are only a fraction of this enormous and complex problem. It is important that we realize what we are facing. We should move along the road to preparedness in the way of a free people—with our eyes open.

"Airplanes are only one part of any plan of national defense. We need tanks, artillery, rifles, ammunition, bombs; we need battleships. The national defense must be balanced and complete. France found that a Maginot line which protected only half of its frontier was no protection at all.

Roosevelt Takes Charge.

"There must be no halfway measures in safeguarding the future of this nation. The revival and mobilization of depressed and disorganized industry is a staggering job. The technical problem requires coördination, construction and planning of a great national effort.

"And what is being done?

"Every man in America who understands these great industrial problems has been driven out of the councils of our government. So the President takes personal charge of this job in addition to his manifold other duties. He permits the secretary of the treasury, who knows nothing whatever about the subjects, in addition to his own large duties, to take personal charge of all defense outlays and, incidentally, to coördinate the vital machine-tool industry.

"This job cannot be done in this way. This national emergency cries aloud for experts to take complete charge of this program. America has the greatest engineering and mass production administrators in the world. In heaven's name, let us put this program in their hands. Let us do it before it is too late.

"The needs of a nation are far greater than the desires of any man or men for political power. This job must be taken out of political control now and it is the patriotic duty of the President to do it at once.

"For the next crucial eight months this country is under the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt. He is the President and on him rests the responsibility of obtaining prompt measures of rearmament.

"But this does not mean that the country should relax its efforts to free itself from the destructive policies of the New Deal.

France Pays for Bungling.

"It is very disturbing to find the President so blandly confident in our hopelessly inadequate defenses. It is even more serious to find that he fails to recognize that the job of national defense is one for expert industrial leadership and must be taken out of the hands of his appointed incompetents who have made a mess of national defense. The President showed no comprehension of the necessity for hard work and sacrifices to meet our urgent needs for preparedness.

"France today is paying a frightful penalty for the bungling experimentation of a Socialist popular front modeled on this New Deal. England is reaping a whirlwind from the failure of government to provide adequate defense. Both countries are now in agony because of the failure of their opposition parties to expose the truth and offer the people constructive leadership. I say to you with all the earnestness and vigor at my command: the Republican party will not let that happen here.

"Soberly and with a full sense of the responsibilities involved, let us consider our problem and agree as a nation upon the essentials of a program for American defense.

"We must first decide what we are going to defend. It is imperative that the army and the navy know what areas they must protect.

"The two basic principles of American foreign policy have been, first, to avoid foreign entanglements, and second, to uphold the Monroe Doctrine. Let us redeclare these policies in ringing words and then prepare our defense program accordingly. Then, in coöperation with the other countries of the Americas, we shall secure the peace of this hemisphere.

"A nonpartisan national defense board to plan and direct our program of rearmament should be immediately established.

Production Is Real Problem.

"This board should not be mere window-dressing. It should have real power and full authority.

"It is not enough to appropriate more billions of dollars. Our problem now, more than ever before, is not to be solved by the mere spending of money. It must be solved by the skilled production of the things we need.

"The President should move forthwith to see that the work of the board is not sabotaged from within the New Deal. I say this, because we had a war resources board within the past year. The President appointed the board last August. And what happened? The business baiters who surround the President did not like that idea. It looked too much like a truce in their war on industry. So after three months the war resources board faded out. Its members were quietly told to go home—they weren't needed any longer. That was last November, after the war in Europe had been raging for three months.

"The national administration must remove from office its Socialists, communists and fellow travelers. It has been shown repeatedly that the government departments are plentifully sprinkled with subversive activities. We can preserve our civil liberties without placing the conduct of our government in the hands of men whose first aim is the overthrow of that government. Whether Nazis or communists, we want no fifth column in our government.

Expansion Long Prevented.

"The administration must abandon its war on business. We need the full coöperation and the full resources of a revitalized and energetic industry. For seven years the New Deal has pursued policies which have restricted production and prevented industrial expansion.

"We cannot wait until next January. Enterprise must get going now. The unemployed must be given a chance to go to work. National defense will not support the nation. A working and producing nation must support the national defense.

"Our national morale must be revitalized. It is a delusion to believe that effective defense can be secured by arms alone. The effective use of arms requires a people who as individuals are determined and energetic, who are physically and spiritually strong—individuals who are ready to accept hardship and sacrifice to preserve liberty and freedom. We cannot rely alone upon our love of peace to keep America secure. The time has come for every American to realize that the safety of this nation and of its institutions may depend upon him. We must recapture the self-reliance which made our country great.

"Let's Not Exaggerate."

"Let us not minimize the gravity of the situation that confronts us. But let us not exaggerate our difficulties. Let us understand them and proceed with intelligence, vigor and unity. To take any other course is to trifle with the whole future of human freedom. And there is a future for human freedom. There is a place for decent and honorable human beings to live in peace with each other. There is a place for the worship of God on this earth. And there is a future for your children and mine.

"Despite the ravages of the last seven years, the republic still stands. Despite the attacks on it, our constitution remains unimpaired. We have freedom of the press, freedom of speech and freedom of worship. These things we can preserve for ourselves and for the world. Let us pledge ourselves, our every waking hour and our sacred honor to that end. United and at work we are a powerful nation and can face the world with fearless confidence."

Oklahoma Beauty

HELEN MOSIER.

Meramec, Okla., May 27 [Special].—Helen Mosier of Meramec, 21 year old T. W. A. hostess, has been chosen to represent that air line in the "Miss American Aviation" competition at the national air carnival in Birmingham, Ala., next week. She joined T. W. A. last March after four years' study for the work which included three years at nurse's training in Tulsa. Two former T. W. Miss Quackenbush is playing in the movies under the name of Vanda McKay.

CONGRESSMAN MOVES TO REVOKE CITIZENSHIP OF KUHN, BUND CHIEF

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—Representative Leland M. Ford [R., Cal.] read to the house today an affidavit signed by himself alleging that the American citizenship of Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American bund, should be revoked on the ground that it was obtained fraudulently.

Ford asserted that Kuhn, in taking the customary oath preceding naturalization, falsely swore allegiance to the United States "without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion."

The affidavit added that in the record of the Dies committee Kuhn was "unequivocally shown not to have renounced his allegiance to Germany." Ford alleged that a Dies committee report showed that "the bund receives its inspiration, program, and direction from the government of Germany." Kuhn's activities, he added, "have been against the good order and happiness of the United States, and against the principles of the constitution of the United States."

HOOVER FAVORS SINGLE HEAD FOR DEFENSE PLANS

Boards Useless, He Says, in Getting Action.

New York, May 27 (AP).—A single headed administrator to direct the United States' vast defensive armament program was proposed tonight by former President Herbert Hoover.

In a nation-wide radio speech on national defense, he termed boards and political coalitions foolish in emergencies and advanced the following program for real preparedness:

"1. That a munitions administration be created in Washington.

"2. It should have a single headed administrator with assistant heads for labor, agriculture, and industry.

"3. This administrator should be an industrialist and not a politician.

Suggests Advisory Board.

"4. He should have authority to appoint a nonpartisan advisory board representing the army, navy, labor, transportation, manufacturing, and agriculture.

"5. The whole of the purchasing and manufacturing for the army and navy from private industry should be done by this administrator. The business of the army and navy is to state what they want. It is for the munitions administrator to deliver it.

"6. A research organization should be created constantly to improve these products.

"7. All appropriations for such work should be made to this organization."

Tells of Three Lessons.

He based his recommendations on three lessons which he said had been learned during and since the world war.

Experience had shown, first, that large volume procurement of munitions must be separated from army and navy establishments, he said, adding that this was a job for management and labor, a job that requires that thousands of factories be coordinated to do their part.

The second lesson was that such operations could not be controled by boards, councils, or conferences, he said.

"The whole genius of the American people has demonstrated over 150 years that when we come to executive action, including the office of the President of the United States, we must have single headed responsibility," Mr. Hoover said.

"It is just as foolish to set up a board to conduct munitions business as it would be to set up a board to conduct the presidency of the United States."

"The third lesson taught by experience," he continued, "is that we must get these vast expenditures of money out of politics—get them out of sectional pressures and out of group pressures. . . . That is the only way we can prevent profiteering and eliminate waste and assure efficiency."

ROOSEVELT DEFENSE PLAN IS AMERICA'S CONCERN, SAY NAZIS

BERLIN, May 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt's fireside talk last night was regarded by authorized German sources today as having touched on the United States' own business.

Germany never has been a threat in the western hemisphere, these sources said, and if America feels she needs better defenses it cannot be because of any German designs.

They declared that Germany respected the slogan "America for Americans," and expected America to respect the slogan, "Europe for the Europeans."

The President's reference to the "fifth column" was described as either a tactical move in domestic politics or a result of the President's reception of alarmist news from Europe.

Liner Champlain Completes 2d Wartime Atlantic Trip

New York, May 27 (AP).—Completing its second crossing from St. Nazaire, France, since the war began, the armed French liner Champlain docked today with 648 passengers. Included were 417 Jewish refugees from Germany and 196 Spanish war exiles en route to Mexico. Among the passengers was Michel Berthier, 7 years old, only American citizen aboard. He was allowed to slip thru the neutrality act barrier forbidding citizens to travel on ships of belligerents so he could travel with his French parents. Michel was born in New York. A French supply mission and an air ministry mission were aboard.

Freighter Goes Aground When Skipper Collapses

Port Huron, Mich., May 27 (AP).—The freighter Collingwood of the Canadian Steamship Lines ran aground on a reef in Sarnia bay because, members of the crew said, the skipper fainted at the wheel. Capt. T. J. Carson was removed to his home in Midland, Ont. His condition was reported serious. A tug and a lighter were en route to relieve the stranded vessel, said to be in no immediate danger.

HOSPITAL STAFFS ORGANIZE FOR AID IN EVENT OF WAR

3 Skeleton Units Set Up in Chicago.

General hospital units for wartime service are being organized at Cook county hospital and the Northwestern university medical school, in addition to the previously announced unit being formed at Presbyterian hospital, it was learned yesterday.

These units are part of 62 skeleton hospital staffs being formed thruout the country at the request of Surgeon General James Magee of the United States army. In time of war they would form the nuclei of field hospital staffs.

Two Others in Michigan.

Of the 62 units, five are general hospitals in the 6th corps area. The two others are being organized at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and at the Harper hospital, Detroit, Mich. Altogether there will be 32 general hospital units, 17 evacuation hospital units, and 13 surgical units.

Surgeon General Magee said about a dozen other hospitals in Chicago have offered to form units. In the world war, Presbyterian and St. Luke's hospitals and the Northwestern university medical school each provided the staff for an army base hospital, while a fourth was put in the field by County and Mercy hospitals combined.

Duties of Each Unit.

Each of the three Chicago units is scheduled to provide a staff large enough to care for 1,000 patients. The County and Northwestern university units will be staffed with 42 doctors each and the Presbyterian with 33. The Presbyterian has asked the war department to enlarge its skeleton staff. Volunteers for the staffs already have exceeded requirements. Lists of special technicians also are being prepared by each hospital.

In time of war, these skeleton staffs would be enlarged by the addition of enlisted men and nurses, bringing a unit's full personnel to between 500 and 1,000. All equipment would be provided by the war department.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the Northwestern university medical school and organizer of the school's unit, said the capacity of the army hospitals could be expanded readily. Northwestern's world war unit began with 500 beds, but its size was increased to care for 2,200 beds at one time.

To Be Ready on 10 Days' Notice.

Surgeon General Magee was adjutant of that unit. Its world war commander, Dr. Frederick A. Beasley of Waukegan, is aiding Dr. Cutter in the formation of the new unit. Dr. Cutter said they have received instructions to be prepared to take up active duty on 10 days' notice.

Organization of the Presbyterian hospital unit is under the direction of Drs. L. G. Gatewood and Edwin M. Miller, both of whom served with the hospital's army base unit in the world war. Dr. Karl A. Meyer, medical superintendent of county institutions, is organizing the County hospital's unit, and Dr. Raymond McNealy is its chief of staff.

Surgeon General Magee expressed the hope that the 62 units would form an "initial protective force" to which other hospital units could be added as needed.

JAP PLANES RAID CHUNGKING 2D DAY, 60 KILLED

CHUNGKING, China, May 27 (AP).—Japanese warplanes, raiding Chungking for the second successive day, killed 60 persons and wounded 150 others in suburbs of the Chinese provisional capital today. Simultaneously, the Japanese bombed three points west of Chungking in an aerial assault reported to have been participated in by 98 planes. Casualties were not reported. Foreign sources placed the toll of the raid about Chungking yesterday at 250 dead.

Objects to Publicity

CAROL LANDIS.

Hollywood, Cal., May 27 (AP).—Carol Landis doesn't want to be America's "ping" girl. The blonde young actress gave notice today in a paid "apology" in the trade papers that she would not be present at a reception where she was to have received the title:

"The ping girl—because she makes you purr."

"While I know many things are endured in the name of publicity," she said, "this 'mental blitzkrieg' carries things a little too far."

The Hal Roach studio said the party has been called off.

CLERICS CHARGE DICTATOR PLOT BY NEW DEALERS

Blasts Move to Fan War Hysteria.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Representatives of a million Protestants at a meeting here yesterday denounced the New Deal's foreign policy and what was described as the administration's attempt to fan war hysteria in an effort to set up a dictatorship.

A resolution criticizing the Roosevelt administration on these grounds was adopted at a session of the annual convention of the World Christial Fundamentals association. The resolution was offered by Dr. Dan Gilbert of Washington, D. C.

Dictator Move Charged.

"This is the second time within four years that a deliberate attempt has been made to set up a dictatorship over the American people," the resolution said. "The first drive for a despotism was launched in 1937. At that time, too, an artificial emergency was engendered. The lawless sitdown strike was used as a means to usher in a reign of terror. This epidemic of violence was said to constitute a great emergency—it was planned for that purpose.

"It was then that the chief executive, in wanton disregard of his oath of office, attempted to destroy the constitution of the United States in order to secure dictatorial powers for himself and his collaborators. Despite the defeat of the scheme to pack the Supreme court, the lust of dictatorial power still is strong in the hearts of the administration clique. It is clear now that they are seeking to involve us in the European war for the express purpose of perpetuating their unconstitutional régime in power."

Third Termers Called Fifth Column.

The resolution declared that America's fifth column is made up of "third termites who seek to sacrifice American youth on a foreign battlefield in order to advance their greed for political power."

The World Fundamentals association is an interdenominational group which emphasizes personal evangelism and a revival of fundamentalism. More than 3,000 delegates from more than 20 states, many in the south, are attending the convention, which is being held in the Stevens hotel.

The convention will continue until Sunday afternoon, at which time a mass meeting will be conducted in Soldiers' field. Gov. Luren D. Dickenson of Michigan will speak.

IRELAND AWAKES TO PERIL; CALLS ARMY RESERVES

Troops Trained Against Parachute Attacks.

DUBLIN, May 27 (AP).—Determined to maintain defensive neutrality, Ireland sped its army toward wartime strength tonight and sent scores of police looking for fifth columnists and members of the outlawed Irish Republican army.

"Every man" has been urged to rally to the colors—conscription is a word that isn't even whispered here—against the possibility that Ireland might be used as a base for an attack on England.

The army, mobilized in September, has been alert to the vulnerability of the Emerald Isle, but the prolonged stalemate on the old western front brought relaxation of the tension and reserves had been returned to civilian life.

Fear Fifth Columnists.

Then came the German invasion of the Low Countries, reawakening Ireland to the possibility of danger. Explosions of the last week, the reported landing of a mysterious Nazi parachute man in Dublin and weekend speeches by Premier Eamon de Valera, in which he demanded that Irishmen rid themselves of their apathy, brought home still more effectively Erin's peril.

Emphasis has been placed on the training of troops in regaining control of airdromes that might be captured by parachuters.

The question most frequently heard in this city of 500,000 population is: "Can the state keep off foreign powers who are aided by disaffected local elements?"

When the stalemate persisted on the old western front, some Irishmen discussed with calm cheerfulness the possibility of a German victory. Now they speculate gloomily about the future—"If worst comes to worst."

Army Well Organized.

Ireland's military machine, such as it is, is well organized and it is a force to be relied upon to offer stubborn resistance to any invader.

The army has infantry, artillery, and mechanized cavalry ready for immediate duty. The reserve is drawn from regular troops who have served their active duty period and a volunteer force corresponding to the United States National Guard. The latter numbers close to 20,000; the number of regulars mustered is a military secret.

NAPLES, Italy, May 27 (AP).—The United States liner Manhattan, its return passage already booked to overflowing by Americans fearful lest Italy enter the war, arrived today. Many believed it might be the last American passenger ship to enter the Mediterranean area until the war is over.

If Italy should enter the European conflict, it was said, United States neutrality regulations would close the Mediterranean to American shipping. Crewmen said the vessel was stopped only about 14 minutes at Gibraltar, British contraband control station. They said the captain protested because his ship was halted and the Italian liner Rex was allowed to proceed without stopping.

Among those planning to embark on the Manhattan is Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, wife of President Roosevelt's personal envoy to the Vatican.

The Manhattan, which arrived here with 160 passengers, took 200 aboard before going to Genoa, her last Italian port of call. It will embark 1,700 more there and sail for New York June 1. The liner President Harrison is expected to sail from Genoa on June 2 and the liner Washington is scheduled to leave June 15 if it completes its eastward voyage before Italy goes to war.

Police, Striking Airplane Workers Clash in Belgrade

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, May 27 (AP).—Several striking workers of the airplane industry were wounded today in a clash with police attempting to break up a demonstration against arrest of the strike leaders. The free-for-all occurred after the leaders were seized at a conference on employé demands for a collective bargaining agreement and wage increases.

BRITISH ENVOY OFF TO MOSCOW ON TRADE MISSION

Chances for Improved Relations 'Favorable.'

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps, Laborite member of parliament and a recent British visitor to Moscow, is en route to the Russian capital on an economic mission.

Sir Stafford Cripps.

The soviet union was reported today to have welcomed a British proposal to send Sir Stafford, and Russian circles here said chances for improved relations between the two countries now seemed "quite favorable."

Sir Stafford, however, did not wait for the foreign office to complete formalities of protocol and already has begun the first leg of his journey to Moscow.

It was understood the Russians desired that Cripps should be empowered to make decisions and take actions regarding details of any agreement.

Observers saw in the fact that Russia has not increased her demands in connection with proposed trade negotiations an indication that the two countries may be able to get together.

Cripps went to Moscow earlier this year, flying from Chungking, China, and was said to have conferred with Josef Stalin.

Reds Assail U. S. Bankers.

MOSCOW, May 27 (AP).—Pravda, communist party newspaper, said today American bankers were ready to lead the United States into war for the sake of profits.

"They are not satisfied with war orders, gold which flows like a broad river from England and France. . . . They want a prey," said an article entitled "War Fever in the United States."

WEAR POPPIES AGAIN THURSDAY, BUYERS URGED

Save your Poppy day flower to wear again on Memorial day.

That plea was made yesterday by J. B. Wieklinski, president of the Veterans Poppy Day association.

"To America the red poppy of Flanders fields is the memorial emblem of the legions of American soldiers left buried under their white crosses on the world war battlefields of France," said Wieklinski. "But that brave bloom, red for the flame of courage and sacrifice, has a larger symbolism. In it is written the epitaph of all young heroes who fought and fell in all the wars of American history. When on Memorial day we remember the dead, let us wear the red memorial flower in salute to all the youth who in their time and place 'gave their last full measure of devotion' as free men of a free land."

Twelve thousand woman volunteers sold poppies yesterday on Chicago streets and at public buildings. A brisk sale was reported.

PENNIES AND BIG CHECKS POURED INTO RELIEF FUND

Contributions ranging from school children's pennies to large gifts by corporations were reported yesterday by James B. Forgan, chairman of the Red Cross war relief campaign. The largest sums came from the Chicago Bridge and Iron company, which gave $3,000, and the Lord & Thomas advertising agency, which gave $2,500. Chicago has a quota of a million dollars in the national Red Cross drive for 10 million dollars. Contributions here are approaching the $300,000 mark.

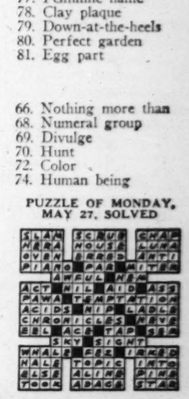
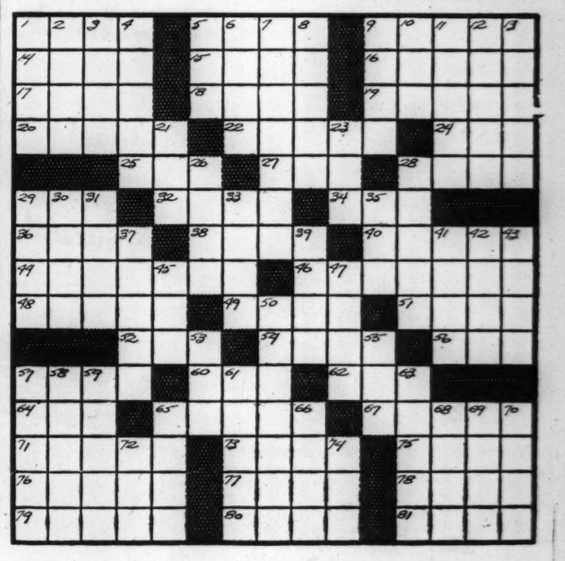
PUZZLE OF MONDAY, MAY 27, SOLVED





GERMANS DENY PLANES ATTACK RED CROSS CARS

Concerned Over Civilians in War Areas.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 27.—What may become one of the biggest tragedies of modern times, affecting some 7,000,000 non-combatants in the embattled areas of Belgium and France, tonight was causing concern in Nazi circles.

The fate of 5,000,000 men, women and children who live in the cities and villages now in the fighting zone and of 2,000,000 refugees who fled west and south before the German blitzkrieg, occupied attention of Berlin officials as Germans expressed interest in resentment in America and other countries over the sufferings of civilian populations.

Deny War Rule Violations.

Nazis took exception to charges that their air force and soldiers had violated Red Cross regulations or had attacked relief cars. They called attention to the warnings Germany had given to civilians not to flee from their homes and cited dispatches telling of the return of stability to invaded Holland.

Reports from Paris that the red crosses on ambulances of the American Field Service were to be painted out because they "only attract the attention of German pilots," brought a quick rejoinder from Nazis. They said this would be an "infamous insult to the German army," and declared that the Red Cross "knows neither friend nor foe and must not allow itself to be used for propaganda purposes."

[An official of the American Field service in Paris was reported in an Associated Press dispatch to have ordered the red crosses on 20 ambulances obliterated because they "do not protect our men." He said that "for the last 10 days our cars have been bombed and machine-gunned, sometimes by planes flying as low as 50 feet."]

Claims Officers Ill Treated.

German military circles asserted that Nazi officers captured by the French had been ill treated and declared that in the future allied officers captured by the Germans would be treated "according to the letter of the international conventions but will enjoy no special privileges beyond these."

French officers, they said, were being given colored orderlies instead of the regular French orderlies they had heretofore.

Tells of Rufugees.

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 27 (AP).—Count De Rouge, secretary general of the League of Red Cross societies, reported today more than 5,000,000 refugees are in flight from northern France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxemburg, were presenting the world "the greatest refugee problem it has ever known."

"Five million refugeees, almost all of whom are women, children and aged, are fleeing the war into a country of 40,000,000 whose resources all are mobilized to fight the war," De Rouge said upon returning from a visit to Paris.

"Every conceivable tragedy marches with them," he said. Many of those caught in the battle zones may never get thru alive. Thousands of small children, too tiny to tell of their families, were separated from them in the rush. We believe at least 100,000 children were separated this way."

COL. BONESTEEL, NEW CHIEF OF STAFF, ARRIVES

Col. C. H. Bonesteel.

Col. Charles H. Bonesteel, for the last two years commander of the 19th infantry at Schofield barracks, in the Hawaiian islands, arrived in Chicago yesterday to take up his new duties as chief of staff of the 6th corps area and 2d army. His transfer was announced recently by Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford. Col. Bonesteel, whose father and grandfather also were high officers in the regular army, served with the 7th division during the world war. He has been selected for appointment as a brigadier general, effective Sept. 1.

Machinist Dies of Injuries After Accident in Garage

Angelo Catardi, 47 years old, 2827 Michigan avenue, a machinist, died last night in the Chicago Memorial hospital of injuries suffered last Friday when he was crushed against his bench in a garage at 600 West 23th street by a skidding tractor unit of a truck as the truck was being driven into the garage.

MOFFATT, CAREER DIPLOMAT, NAMED ENVOY IN CANADA

Nominated to Succeed Rebuked Cromwell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Jay Pierrepont Moffat, state department career man, was nominated today by President Roosevelt to be United States minister to Canada.

Jay P. Moffat.

Moffat, now chief of the western European division of the state department, will succeed Jas. H. Cromwell, husband of Doris Duke, reputed to be the world's richest woman.

Cromwell resigned to run for the senate in New Jersey on the Democratic ticket. His resignation was received with sighs of relief in the state department, because Cromwell's amateur diplomacy embarrassed this country.

Scolded by Secretary Hull.

Cromwell, who received the appointment as minister to Canada in part payment for his wife's $50,000 contribution to the Democratic cause in New Jersey in 1936, was publicly reprimanded by Secretary of State Cordell Hull for speeches in Canada in which he expressed sympathy for the British and French and criticized Germany.

Moffat, 43 years old, is one of the Harvard clique in the state department. In addition to a social background and Groton-Harvard training, he advanced his diplomatic career by marrying a daughter of Joseph C. Grew, United States ambassador to Japan.

Served in Many Posts.

Moffat began his diplomatic career as private secretary to the minister to Holland in 1918. He has served in Warsaw, Tokio, Constantinople, Berne, and Sydney. He has been chief of the western European division of the state department since 1937.

In February and March Moffat accompanied Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, another Groton-Harvard product, to Europe on the latter's unsuccessful quest for "a basis for a sound and lasting peace in Europe."

GANNETT BRANDS ROOSEVELT WAR TALKS 'HYSTERIA'

Portland, Ore., May 27 (AP).—Frank Gannett, Republican presidential aspirant, tonight called President Roosevelt's preparedness message to congress and his Sunday "fireside chat" "outrageous promotion of hysteria."

He told Oregon Republicans the nation "should not trust the defense program to a President who by July will have spent $67,000,000,000 in the war against depression and has failed to win it."

"America is in no danger of attack and not likely to be for a long time," said Gannett. "We are not at war, and, under right leadership, we need not be at war."

Former South Bend Utility Auditor Gets 2 to 21 Years

South Bend, Ind., May 27 [Special].—Louis E. Fiffe, 46 years old, former auditor of the municipal water department, today was sentenced to 2 to 21 years in the Indiana state prison on his plea of guilty to embezzlement of public funds and conspiracy. A report from the state board of accounts showed a shortage of $22,750 in water department funds. It was alleged the money was used to finance the now defunct Redz Beverage corporation, a scheme to make synthetic champagne out of carbonated wine. Fiffe was president of the corporation.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Feels Responsibility

Los Angeles, Cal., May 27 [Special].—There will be no more long distance or "mistakes" flights for Douglas [Wrong Way] Corrigan, the youthful aviator announced today as he posed at St. Vincent's hospital with his wife, the former Elizabeth Marvin of San Antonio, Tex., and their six pound son born last Friday.

"I've got three mouths to feed now instead of two," said Corrigan, who tickled the fancy of the American public with his Atlantic-spanning flight two years ago.

SIXTH COLUMN IS MOST PERILOUS, MOTHERS TOLD

America has less to fear from the fifth column of Nazis, Fascists, and communists than from a sixth column composed of internationalists scheming to get the United States into war, the National League of Mothers of America was told yesterday in the Stevens hotel by William J. Grace, past Illinois department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"The entry of our country into the war overseas will mark the establishment of dictatorship and the loss of the representative government we have known," Grace said. "This is no speculation such as the speculation indulged in by the sixth column as to what Hitler will do to us if he wins the war."

'OR ELSE!' COURT FIGHT GIVEN UP BY LAUNDRY MEN

The Metropolitan Hand Laundry Owners' association gave up its fight yesterday for a court interpretation of the phrase, "or else!" Morris K. Levinson, attorney for the association, presented an agreed order between it and the Chicago Laundry Workers' union, local 46, for dismissal of the association's injunction suit against the union. Judge Grover C. Niemeyer approved the dismissal.

The association represents 500 owners of small laundries. It asked on March 15 for an injunction restraining the union from threatening and intimidating members of the association and from calling strikes against association members who refused to sign individual union contracts.

The hearings brought many bitter fights over the meaning of "or else!" which the association accused the union of using in threats.

He is 44 years old. They were married when she was 14, her attorney, Norman Becker, told Judge Rudolph Desort. Mrs. Hutton lives at 9307 81st avenue, Palos Park.

16 SCIENTISTS Reveal Great Discovery About CONSTIPATION

Tests at World-Famous Hospital Show How To Help Nature Produce Her Own Gentle, Complete "Daily" Bowel Action!

NEW YORK: Constipation sufferers rejoice! For now violent cathartics and laxatives and harsh "roughage" products, many of which are habit forming and are often irritating to bowel lining—can be avoided.

You see if waste matter in the colon isn't kept moist it becomes hard, dry, caked and results in constipation. These scientists discovered that a "little daily dose" of Kruschen actually keeps this waste matter moist, soft and easy to expel. Also acts as a mild antacid and kidney diuretic.

There is no nausea, no griping, no violence with Kruschen. Hospital tests report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Inexpensive! Only a trifle for a jar that lasts weeks. Over 245,000,000 jars of Kruschen have been sold thruout the world. Kruschen must do the work!

CANADA EXPANDS WAR MEASURES; CALLS UP FLYERS

Recruits Rifle Battalions for Fourth Division.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 27 [Special].—The greatest recruiting drive Canada has seen was foreshadowed today by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King. In a statement to the house of commons he made known that new steps had been decided upon to meet the critical situation in Europe.

The war measures, which supplement mobilization of a third division and recruiting of a veteran home guard of 3,000 men previously announced, include:

1. Mobilization of nine rifle battalions which later will form part of a fourth division.
2. The calling up of 5,000 recruits for the royal Canadian air force.
3. Organization of "reserve" companies of veterans who will train with military units for later full time service.

50,000 to Be Recruited.

These decisions mean that 50,000 men are about to be recruited for full time military service besides the expansion by several thousands of the number of men who will receive part time training at summer camps of the nonpermanent active militia.

The prime minister said the total strength of the Canadian active service force on May 10 was 81,519 officers and men, 23,768 of them overseas. He said that on May 10 the royal Canadian force mustered 1,389 officers and 10,926 men.

Call for Conscription.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 27.—A resolution calling on the Canadian government to bring conscription into effect is before the dominion convention of the Canadian Legion which opened in Montreal today. The resolution asks that the government take immediate steps "to conscript the manpower, wealth, national resources, business, industrial and other institutions so that we may wage war with the full vigor of the nation."

Conscription received support from several of the veterans who took the floor today. Fifth column activities and their elimination also will be discussed.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH.

The President on Sunday evening asked his countrymen to believe that all is well, or soon will be, with the nation's defenses.

It was not difficult to discern what had been in Mr. Roosevelt's mind as he prepared the address. He had been stung by the disclosures of recent weeks that our country is not prepared for a war such as is being fought in Europe, despite the expenditure of more than 7 billion dollars on defense during his terms of office. He knew that his bellicose diplomacy had caused a great deal of justified apprehension that he would get us into the war. He knew, too, that his adding of more than 20 billion dollars to the national debt had greatly weakened this country's financial power to prepare for war. He was aware that the votes he has bought with relief funds, Walsh-Healey act, farm subsidies, etc., etc., might be lost if the beneficiaries came to the common sense conclusion that these benefits must be pared down as the armament bill climbs.

Accordingly, Mr. Roosevelt made an address which took the form of a report on the state of the nation's military establishments but in effect was a political speech, filled with evasions, half truths, and invitations to wishful thinking.

Since he took office in 1933, he said, the government has spent more money on armament than any of his predecessors had in an equal period of peace. The procurement of the tools of modern war is proceeding at an accelerated pace. The development of the art of war in Europe is being studied for suggestions. Work for the unemployed will be found in the munitions factories. None of the laws restricting the hours of labor on government contracts shall be touched. He stressed his frequently stated abhorrence of war.

As a report on the state of the armed forces the speech was a good deal less than candid. Mr. Roosevelt's bookkeeping is generally evasive, and he did not improve it on this occasion. He found a convenient formula which recurred frequently in the speech:

"In 1933 we had 1,127 useful aircraft [in the navy], and today we have 2,892 on hand and on order."

Again: "In 1933 we had only 355 antiaircraft guns. We now have more than 1,700 . . . on hand or on order."

Again: "In 1933 there were only 24 modern infantry mortars in the entire army. We now have on hand and on order more than 1,600."

Again: "In 1933 we had only 48 modern tanks and armored cars; today we have on hand and on order 1,700. . . ."

The phrase "on hand and on order" was employed as if it fairly represented either the degree of our readiness or the evidence that the 7 billions had been well spent. What the American people wanted to know was how well prepared we are today to meet attack and how rapidly the armament program is proceeding. Instead of saying we have so many airplanes on hand, so many on order, and deliveries are being received at the rate of so many per month, Mr. Roosevelt sought to conceal the facts by lumping the past and future acquisitions and concealing the rate of progress. It was a clever dodge, but it will not impress any one who is acquainted with apparently reliable estimates that the army hopes to receive each month 40 planes fit for combat service in a blitzkrieg. Perhaps the acquisition of antiaircraft weapons, tanks, etc., is proceeding at a more rapid pace, but the form of Mr. Roosevelt's report justifies anything but an optimistic view of the matter. It seems fair to assume that if the situation were better he would not have failed to say so. He is playing the game today which Blum, MacDonald, and Baldwin played for so many critical years in France and Britain, seeking to encourage his countrymen to believe that the nation's defenses are in a far more advanced stage of preparation than they actually are.

Mr. Roosevelt evidently thinks that so far as the debt and the deficit are concerned he has the country in his pocket. The American people want security against invasion and will pay any price for it. On this point the interventionists and noninterventionists are agreed. Congress has shown that the purse strings are wide open, and the New Dealers are rejoicing that at last they can spend without limit and without giving the opposition an opening.

The speech indicated all too plainly that there will be no retrenchment in other expenditures to meet the armament bill, and little was said to suggest that taxes must be increased. Mr. Roosevelt sees that the lid on the national debt has been blown off and he is accordingly rejoiced. The 45 billion dollar limit was troublesome, and particularly so for a man contemplating a third term.

In Mr. Roosevelt's view the cost of rearmament should be kept high. To retain his labor following he will permit no amendment of the Walsh-Healey act, which limits work on government orders to 40 hours a week. The fact that there is a clear and demonstrated shortage of skilled labor in the metal trades he completely ignores. The 40 hour week in munitions works is to be retained, and consequently there can be no marked increase in the rate of production. To pretend that the relievers can fill the gap is to talk dangerous nonsense. If they had the requisite skill they would not now be out of jobs. There is a shortage, not a surplus, of the kind of men needed to build airplanes, tanks, guns, and all the rest of the precision tools of war.

Mr. Roosevelt's report, far from reassuring the country, only serves to emphasize his incompetence as an executive. Like the British and the French, he has been slow to recognize the lessons of the Spanish and Polish wars. He did not get 7 billion dollars' worth of defense for 7 billion dollars. He has taken none of the necessary steps to speed production because to do so would be politically costly to him and his party. He has persisted in a provocative foreign policy and in a domestic policy calculated to reduce the industrial productivity of the country. Financially and morally he has weakened the United States while pushing it closer and closer to war. And evidently he means to persist in all these contradictory courses.

ENGLAND AT WAR GOES TO WORK.

The difficulty with which the British and the French are meeting the German attack is illustrated not only in the changes in military command in both armies. It was highlighted more startlingly by one item in London's Sunday reports. It was news that for the first time in nine months of war the war industries were in operation that day. The Nazis were in the channel ports before those industries were put actually on a wartime basis.

A danger, such as England hasn't experienced since the Spanish armada set sail, was required to force a general acceptance of military necessities. It is a danger conceivably, if not apparently, greater than any threat made by Napoleon, because in his day sea power was dominant and the British fleet by its action at Trafalgar virtually confirmed the security of the channel. Napoleon planned the invasion and prepared for it, but abandoned it.

The explanation of the delayed effort may be found in overconfidence and in a traditional reliance upon the floating walls of Britain, which have been sufficient until now. It may also be found in the inability of the government to put sufficient drive into production, slowed down as it was by its peacetime restriction of working hours. The errors, both in France and Great Britain, are of years' standing and present a grave picture of things done too late.

On the other side, the Germans have been driven for nearly seven years with a single purpose and a discipline which has taken no account of the individual. The masses of Germans have been forged by every process known to absolutism into a military weapon. The population has been deprived of many things regarded as necessities. The single thought controling the industrial and the military machines has been power on the battlefield.

The British and the French have calculated upon time as their ally, but apparently they neglected to make sufficient use of it. It may still be a determining factor, but mistaken ideas of what this war would be like have already presented a heavy bill, and not the last one by any means.

THE ISLANDS WASH TO SHORE.

The United States coast guard cutter George W. Campbell has been refitted with heavier guns and loaded with material for service on the Greenland station. It will take supplies to the new American consulate at Godthaab, the capital of the island, and perform ice patrol duty. This seems to be a tentative move to carry a suggestion of the Monroe Doctrine to the Danish possession which theoretically is under what the Germans call their protection. At least the mother country of Denmark is in that unenviable position.

The British met the situation with regard to Iceland by sending a force to occupy it. They have possession of one of the bases of a northern air route and the United States is hovering about another.

The precariously uncertain situation with regard to all these foreign possessions in American waters, from South America to the Arctic, does not need any fresh illustration. The United States has slept on its opportunities when peaceable correction of the naval frontiers could have been made and now is embarrassed by the developments of the war. An acute question may soon arise and if it does it will not be possible for the American government longer to ignore the issue.

THE TROJAN HORSE IN PHILADELPHIA.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his discussion of the fifth column, did not mention his own in the Republican party. It may be hiding in Philadelphia to disperse the delegates, postpone the convention until 1944, and give the party indorsement to the nominee of the New Deal convention in July.

Editorial of the Day

A VERY UNWISE PENSION DRIVE.

[Des Moines Register.]

One of the significant things about the house's passage of the latest widows and children's pension bill was that a roll call vote was yelled down. The congressmen plainly did not want to go on record.

And for understandable reasons.

The new bill proposes to remove the final distinction between ex-soldiers who actually saw service in the war and were in some way disabled by it and those who spent a few weeks in an army camp and admittedly suffered in no way whatever. It would extend pension benefits to widows and children of veterans who served as much as 90 days, regardless of whether they suffered any injury and regardless of the cause of death. It stands to add nearly 50 million dollars a year to our pension outlays immediately, and what the figure might amount to in 20 years can hardly be guessed.

While the benefit provisions for world war veterans have been constantly loosened, we have at least tried until now to stick to the principle of giving preference to the disabled—even to the extent of tracing every conceivable ailment to a service origin. But this new measure throws down the bars completely.

It is a disservice to those who really warrant the government's aid, thru hospitalization and so on.

And it would be a virtual miracle if, this new policy having been established, the act were not still further liberalized by the constant pounding of veterans' lobbies in the future.

The measure, of course, must still go to the senate. The American people can properly hope that the upper house will give its dangers a more critical going over.

PREPARING FOR THE DAY.

No matter what you think of the weather that the merry month of May has provided, it's a great season for tulips; and as a blossom time in general, it's above par. The botanical stage is set for a perfect Memorial day.

• • •

We mean Decoration day! The older title clings to our memory and has our allegiance. It is not as clear in its verbal significance, of course, but it has a folklorish sound that appeals to us.

• • •

We wonder if the Chicago park commissioners have thought about repairing the inscriptions on the Logan monument in Grant park in honor of the approaching day of observance. When inspected a year ago, they had been mutilated by the vandals who steal metal work from public monuments. After all, Gen. Logan was the originator of Decoration day.

"They are at rest. They sleep in the land they made free, under the flag they rendered stainless, under the solemn pines, the sad hemlocks, the tearful willows, the embracing vines. They sleep beneath the shadows of the clouds, careless alike of sunshine or storm, each in the windowless palace of rest. Earth may run red with other wars—they are at peace."

Robert G. Ingersoll wrote it, in his "Memorial Day Vision."

In 1800 Napoleon issued an order for the perpetuation of the memory of La Tour d'Auvergne, called "the first grenadier of France," who had been killed in action. The order is still obeyed. His name is kept on the roll of his company, and is called at all parades. An officer answers: "Dead on the field of honor."

SPRING'S BRIDAL SONG.

Make the bed fair and shake up the pillows;
He comes by the creek winding under the willows.
Orchards are white with their Maytime drift,
White as the lavender sheets you lift;
Smooth the white dress and hang it away,
White as a young tree that blossoms in May.
Look for him now from your casement wide;
White for the shadbush, white for the bride,
Shadbush and dogwood and slim wild plums,
But redbud is flaming to show where he comes.
Straighten your hair bow, lean close to your glass,

Dinner Among the Bishops.

You seem to have a yen for menus [May 23], so I will send you one that is out of the ordinary. It is the menu of a banquet at the closing session of the annual convention of the Alviani society of the North American college at Rome, held in New York last year. This institution, you might say, is the "West Point" of the hierarchy of the Catholic church. Archbishop Stritch, like three-fourths of the 120 or so bishops and archbishops, is an alumnus of the college. PEL.

THIS LAND, THIS AMERICA.

More famed than Rome, as splendid as old Greece,
And saintlier than Hebrew prophet's dream;
A shrine of beauty, Italy-inspired;
A nobler France, by truth and freedom fired;
As hale as England, treasuring the gleam

And let her sound the note of liberty
For all the earth, till every man and child is free!

When Every Prospect Pleases—

It's a sad thing that it takes a world shaking tragedy to make one conscious of the beauty of his own life—the ordered, peaceful ways he walks. There never was a lovelier May evening than this [May 23]. Everything is so newly green and fresh. Lilacs are in bloom, perfect cones of lavender set with studied symmetry upon hedge and bush. Beds of tulips lie like patches of sunlight, caught in a dancing prism. Violets and lilies of the valley hide shyly behind their green fans, but the lovely, lilting scent gives them quite away. Trees are decked with little new green leaves, and the sky is soft and warm. The birds, who never take their joy for granted, are mad with delight, and fill the air with their rhapsodies. Children, too, know that they are happy, and their merry voices vie with the birds' chorus. This, then, we have—and a fig for the things we have not! Helene.

Four Ways of Being Happy.

Confucius did not say this, but it is ancient Chinese proverbial advice:

If you wish to be happy for an hour, get intoxicated. If you wish to be happy for three days, get married. If you wish to be happy for eight days, kill a pig and eat it. But if you wish to be happy forever, become a gardener. Jo Armen.

YES! LET'S DISCUSS IT.

We brush our teeth, use gargles and mouth washes, and give a substantial amount of attention to the mouth. But somehow or other we shun every reference to the rectum, despite the fact that it is subject to disease and may be responsible for great discomfort. The folded surfaces involved are as delicate—and even more susceptible to infection—than are those of the oral cavity.

A common disorder has to do with the hemorrhoidal veins—of which there are two sets. The internal lie beneath the mucous layers of the last inch of the alimentary canal. The external vessels are located beneath the skin that encircles the outlet. When either type becomes dilated or overstretched, inflammation is likely to ensue and each attack means the deposit of more and more scar tissue.

Because these conduits have no valves they must withstand a sizable column of blood. When one is lying down [reclining] no pressure centers in this region. When we walk upright, however, the considerable weight of circulating fluid must be borne by their rather thin walls. Furthermore, we can injure and stretch their coats by straining at stool. This is one reason why the habitual user of laxatives may be a victim of dilated "pipes." In fact, every contraction of the rectum drives more and more blood into this area. Other common causes include standing on one's feet for long periods of time, and heavy lifting.

How do hemorrhoids develop? As one of these loops increases in size the blood within may clot and the part tends to project to the outside—beyond the exit. For a time it can be pushed back without difficulty, but as it becomes firmer the lining of the rectum may be turned outward and the small tumor persist. At first, only vague soreness may be experienced. But sooner or later bleeding may be observed—slight in the beginning, becoming more copious. Now and then the distress is so intense that it can scarcely be borne. Relief comes when the natural retraction of the membrane pulls the enlarged part upward and inward.

What is the treatment? No operation should be attempted when inflammation is present. In severe cases it may be necessary to confine the patient to bed for a few days—with the foot of the couch elevated. In the meanwhile hot packs are of value, and gradually, with rest and quiet, the irritation will subside. Later, surgery may be resorted to.

Small, uncomplicated piles—with symptoms of slight bleeding—will respond satisfactorily to injection. Recurrences are rare. But cases attended with marked hemorrhage may require more radical management. In the more troublesome varieties—while a solution of some suitable chemical introduced into the structure will probably control the oozing—the chances are that the condition will reappear.

Occasionally it is desirable to employ the injection plan only. This is particularly true if the sufferer is anemic—due to loss of blood. The sclerosing liquid will stop hemorrhage and—with improvement in health—the question of operation may be decided later. Only enough should be done to see that bleeding ceases entirely—allowing nature to do the healing. The procedure is recommended also for those who exhibit some form of heart or kidney disease, tuberculosis, or diabetes. In older persons enough good may be accomplished to permit them to carry on in comfort for many years.

Improvement should come promptly. The process is painless and can be conducted in the physician's office. It should be recalled that the method is only of value in internal piles that are not inflamed.

In many instances, however, complete removal is more certain. If the job is well done by a skilful surgeon there should be no occasion for a return engagement.

REACTION TO ILLNESS.

J. M. writes: Do ulcers or infections affect the mind?

REPLY.

I take it you mean disposition. Any longstanding, chronic illness may influence thinking. Some invalids become querulous, fault finding, and exacting. With others, suffering brings a mellowing of disposition, with an attitude of appreciation for everything that is done. Pain destroys poise. Physicians marvel constantly at the adaptability many patients display. They are able to adjust themselves to circumstances and make the best of any situation.

THE HEART AND ANEMIA.

T. H. writes: Can anemia affect the heart?

REPLY.

Yes, because the heart muscle requires nourishment, just as do those in the leg or the arm. If the blood is poor—as it is in anemia—the pumping fibers will be sure to suffer.

WHEN THE SEC DIDN'T WORK.

Chicago, May 24.—A contrast: In 1914 the New York Stock exchange was a completely independent organization, presumably a group of realistic men who had no concern for the public whatever.

In 1940 it is more or less governed by the SEC, presumably created to protect the interests of the small investor in the marketplace.

When the war began in 1914 the exchange, realizing that forced selling would depress securities far below their intrinsic values, promptly closed the exchange to prevent a panic. The exchange remained closed for three months. When it finally opened prices on leading stocks were pegged. No great price decline occurred. The interests of small American investors were protected by the action of an independent exchange.

When the real European war began a few days ago stocks were promptly dumped on the market. The Securities and Exchange commission, now in control, did nothing. Since then the market has suffered a severe panic. The small American investor has viewed a stupendous decline in the value of his securities. It is he alone in America who is taking the genuine brunt of Europe's war.

Is this not a striking indication that the independent exchange of 1914 was more capable of acting in the public's interest than the regulated exchange of 1940? WILLIAM FERRIS.

HE VISITS CUBS PARK.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 16.—A few days ago I drove up to Chicago to attend a baseball game at Wrigley field. Following a policeman's directions, I parked my car on a street adjoining the park.

As I left my car a youngster approached me and suggested that it would be a wise thing for me to allow him to watch my car while I was in the park. For just 25 cents he would make sure that nothing "happened" to the car in my absence.

Perhaps I am just public sucker No. 1, but the boy got his quarter. I was in a strange town and couldn't afford to spend time or money on repairs.

Chicagoans may feel differently about it, but here in Indianapolis [which is certainly no lily white town] the taxpayers don't maintain a police force that stands by and watches racketeering go on right under its nose.

I realize the citizens of Cook county don't give a whoop whether or not I return to Chicago very soon, but there must be many others from out of the city who have had a similar experience.

A HOBBYIST'S THANKS.

Chicago, May 25.—The recent meeting of the Friends of the Library, held at Carson-Pirie's, prompts me to express appreciation of the kindnesses and the friendly assistance I have received from the staff of the Chicago Public library.

Being a hobbyist with a penchant for research, I have been enabled again and again to secure much needed information from numerous books on collecting from the library's well filled shelves; the type of books which in other years I have found it necessary to purchase.

Other Chicagoans, I am sure, join me in thanking the staff of our public library for their lively interest in hobbies. AGNES L. SASSCIER.

WHAT ABOUT THE SUBWAY?

Chicago, May 25.—Re the Chicago subway: The Milwaukee avenue line comes down Dearborn street and stops at Van Buren street. Where it goes "from there" no one seems to know.

The whole scheme is a great waste of taxpayers' money. Kelly is stringing it along to make it a political issue next fall. H. S. CLARK.

VETERANS' PENSION RACKET.

Chicago, May 25.—In the discussion of military and naval expenditures, and their necessity regardless of how they may be financed, I think some review of that well known racket, "The Veterans' Pension," might be in order.

The house has just passed a bill by which widows, parents, or dependents of veterans who have died from nonservice causes will now be eligible to pensions. The estimated cost for the first year is about $48,000,000 [or one battleship], running up over the future to some $200,000,000 annually [or a thousand airplanes].

Among the beneficiaries will be the town problem boy who was finally caught by the draft in the summer of 1918 and sent to Camp Grant for 90 days. There he got his teeth fixed, his tonsils removed, and his ears washed, and at the end of 90 days was discharged and became a "veteran." He returned to engage in a shotgun marriage with the town fluzey and, after an erratic career, was bumped off in some brawl or otherwise met with an untimely but unregretted end. It is proposed that the dependents of that "veteran" now become eligible for a lifetime pension.

All Americans favoring adequate national defense should realize that at least $250,000,000 a year can be cut from the present appropriations for veterans' benefits without doing any injustice to any real deserving veteran or his dependents. Action to correct this racket would be a fine first step toward financing the defense program that we all want to support if it is done intelligently and without favors. Only we can't count on the politicians to do it for us! W. S. L.

WOULD KEEP THE YOUNG BLOOD.

Chicago, May 24.—Why not change the age limit for drafting men for our army from 21 to 31 to 40 to 55, excluding those physically unfit. That would keep young blood here for our coming generation and send those who have lived the best part of their lives. Maybe some of the "higher ups," who now believe themselves past the age limit, wouldn't be so anxious for us to send our men to fight other countries' battles.

TWO YOUNG WIVES.

TOO BUSY FOR POLITICS?

Jacksonville, Ill., May 25.—The recent announcement that the President did not have time to make a political statement has puzzled me. Can any one tell me when he has made any other kind of statement? CURIOUS.

DICTATORSHIP IN THE OFFING.

Chicago, May 25.—All that England has got for declaring war on Germany is dictatorship. And that is what we will get here, too, if we meddle with European affairs. MRS. VERA MCDONALD.

EVEN IF HE'S DIMINUTIVE.

Chicago, May 24.—I see that Capt. Rickenbacher states that to have 50,000 airplanes you must have 150,000 pilots to fly them. That would require more pilots than there are in this country today. I believe it would take much longer than five years to reach the above named number.

There are, however, in the United States now about 30,000 experienced private flyers who, with little additional military training, would qualify as Uncle Sam's air defenders. Of these many have some so-called physical defect, such as shortage of weight or height. These men [expert pilots] cannot qualify for the army service because of the army rules and precedent. Height or weight has little or nothing to do with flying ability.

Since our country is now clamoring for pilots, the rule should be: "Regardless of height or weight, take him if he's good." ONE OF THE 30,000.

WARNS OF BEDTIME STORIES.

Marcellus, Mich., May 24.—America must not be rocked to sleep by such bedtime stories and lullabies as "a million men springing to arms over night," "a navy second to none," etc.

No matter how much money democracies spend for war preparations they are always unprepared when war comes. That is due mainly to grafting, cocktail drinking, philandering politicians.

If America wants to remain a great nation we must abolish all present political parties and create just one new one, an "All America" party working only for the good of America and with a mandatory death sentence for public officials found grafting. No danger of dictatorship, as we would have our choice of candidates and every four years an election. MAXELLUS.

FOR TAXPAYERS TO SEE.

Chicago, May 25.—I have had the pleasure of examining an exhibit of material, vital to the taxpayers of Cook county, in the county assessor's office.

The WPA has put on exhibition a remarkable example of the work in connection with the valuation of property for taxation purposes.

This is the first exhibit of its kind, and likewise a first rate opportunity for the taxpayer to inform himself of the intricacies which eventually result in his tax bill. J. C. B.

SIR OSWALD'S HOLDINGS.

Chicago, May 24.—I move that Sir Oswald Moseley's Chicago lands be turned over to the national government and that revenue therefrom be used in the payment of government debt. To this amount at least will the rate of taxation be lowered and the citizenry at large be benefited. E. C.

1. No.
2. Yes, but the accumulated pension payments are a charge against any assets left by the recipient at his death. Hence, on the facts that you state, the heirs would take nothing.

First offensive of the American expeditionary forces in France succeeded in taking Cantigny. The first division, under Gen. RULE SIT STRIKE NO VIOLATION OF ANTI-TRUST ACT

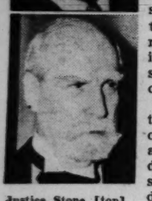
Supreme Court Disallows Apex Damages.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—The United States Supreme court held in a 6 to 3 decision today that the Sherman anti-trust act does not apply to violence committed by a labor union for the admitted purpose of stopping production and shipments in interstate commerce unless it interferes substantially with competition.



Justice Stone [top], Chief Justice Hughes.

The effect of the court's decision is to set aside a jury verdict and the assessment of triple damages in the amount of $711,932 against a C. I. O. hosiery workers union in Philadelphia, which conducted a sitdown strike in the property of the Apex Hosiery company.

Called Radical Pronouncement.

The majority opinion, delivered by Justice Harlan F. Stone, is regarded by Supreme court lawyers as the most radical pronouncement handed down by the court since the reconstruction of its personnel—a phrase used by Justice Felix Frankfurter—under the Roosevelt administration.

Justice Stone's opinion said the record disclosed "a lawless invasion of petitioner's plant and destruction of its property by force and violence of the most brutal and wanton character, under leadership and direction of respondents, and without interference by the local authorities," but that the Sherman act does not provide for damages.

For more than three months, the majority opinion stated, production was stopped in the company's plant and the flow of its product into interstate commerce was suspended by the lawless acts of the C. I. O. union.

Hughes Writes Dissent.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes declared in a dissenting opinion, in which Justices Owen J. Roberts and James C. McReynolds concurred, that there was "a direct and intentional prevention of interstate commerce in the furtherance of an illegal conspiracy."

Noting the far reaching scope of the Sherman antitrust act and the Wagner labor relations act as applied to employers under recent decisions of the court, Chief Justice Hughes intimated that different standards are set up under the law for employers and employés.

"It would indeed be anomalous if, while employers are bound by the labor act because their unfair labor practices may lead to conduct which would prevent the shipment of their goods in interstate commerce, at the same time the direct and intentional obstruction or prevention of such shipments by the employés were not deemed to be a restraint of interstate commerce under the broad terms of the Sherman act," said the chief justice.

The dissenting opinion said the court "has never heretofore decided that a direct and intentional obstruction or prevention of the shipment of goods in interstate commerce was not a violation of the Sherman act."

Decision Long Delayed.

The Apex case must have been a difficult one for the court to decide, for it was argued and submitted on April 2, almost two months ago. During all this time there was speculation that the result would be a blow either to the Roosevelt administration or to John L. Lewis' C. I. O.

It was supposed that a victory for Lewis, holding that labor unions are not accountable for their activities under the Sherman act, would be a defeat for the administration's antitrust conspiracy drive against the American Federation of Labor unions in the building trades. On the other hand, it was supposed that the administration's antitrust campaign against the A. F. of L. could not be sustained unless the C. I. O. should lose.

But the Supreme court's decision gave both the administration and the C. I. O. a victory.

The court specifically held that the activities of labor unions as such are not immune from the prohibitions of the Sherman act, which provides that "every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations, is hereby declared to be illegal."

The court noted that the organization, collective bargaining and other legitimate activities of labor unions are exempted from the antitrust laws by the Clayton act.

Altho the majority opinion conceded that the C. I. O. sitdown strike did and was intended to restrain shipments in interstate commerce, it said there was no restraint upon commercial competition such as the Sherman act seeks to prohibit.

Both the majority and the minority opinions set forth the undisputed facts, which, briefly, were: The company employs 2,500 workers in the manufacture of hosiery to the value of $5,000,000 a year, 80 per cent of which is shipped in interstate commerce. On May 6, 1937, when the union had only eight members among the 2,500 employés, its leaders demanded a closed shop contract with the company. The company refused, the union ordered a sitdown strike.

"Immediately," says Justice Stone's opinion, "acts of violence against petitioner's plant and the employés in charge of it were committed by the assembled mob. It forcibly seized the plant, and it remained in possession until June 23, 1937, when the strikers were forcibly ejected pursuant to an injunction . . ."

Explains Court's Interpretation.

When the plant was seized there were on hand 130,000 dozen pairs of finished hosiery valued at $800,000, ready for shipment on unfilled orders. Three times during the course of the strike the company requested permission to remove this merchandise for the purpose of filling its orders, but the union leaders replied, "No, not until this strike is settled."

Justice Stone's opinion said it was not denied that the union violated the civil and penal laws of Pennsylvania, which authorize the recovery of compensation and impose criminal penalties for wrong-doing. But the Sherman act, he concluded, does not give the federal courts jurisdiction.

The Stone opinion conceded that the court had sustained the application of the Wagner act "to situations no more closely related to the commerce that these, and where the interstate commerse affected was no greater in volume." But the Sherman act does not condemn all combinations and conspiracies which interrupt interstate transportation, the opinion said.

"The legislative history of the Sherman act," it continued, "as well as the decisions of this court interpreting it, show that it was not aimed at policing interstate transportation or movement of goods and property.

"It was another and quite different evil at which the Sherman act was aimed. It was enacted in the era of trusts and of combinations of businesses and of capital organized and directed to control the market by suppression of competition in the marketing of goods and services, the monopolistic tendency of which had become a matter of public concern.

Applied in Competitive Cases.

"A second significant circumstance is that this court has never applied the Sherman act in any case, whether or not involving labor organizations or activities unless the court was of opinion that there was some form of restraint upon commercial competition in the marketing of goods and services.

"Finally this court has refused to apply the Sherman act in cases like the present in which local strikes conducted by illegal means in a production industry prevented interstate shipment of substantial amounts of the product but in which it was not shown that the restrictions on shipments had operated to restrain commercial competition in some substantial way.

Purpose Not Trade Restraint.

"The question remains whether the effect of the combination or conspiracy among respondents was a restraint of trade within the meaning of the Sherman act.

"Here it is plain that the combination or conspiracy did not have as its purpose restraint upon competition in the market for petitioner's product. Its object was to compel petitioner to accede to the union demands and an effect of it, in consequence of the strikers' tortious acts, was the prevention of the removal of petitioner's product for interstate shipment. So far as appears the delay of these shipments was not intended to have and had no effect on prices of hosiery in the market."

Justice Stone's opinion relied chiefly upon the Supreme court's opinion in the first case of the United Mine Workers vs. the Coronado Coal company, in which it was held that a violent strike which stopped the shipment of coal in interstate commerce did not restrain interstate commerce within the contemplation of the Sherman act.

Hughes Disputes Analogy.

Chief Justice Hughes, however, said the decision in the first Coronado case centered upon the point that production as such—in that case coal mining—was not interstate commerce. Also, the chief justice declared, the opinion in the Coronado case held that there was no intent to injure, obstruct, or restrain interstate commerce. In the second Coronado case, the chief justice recalled, evidence of such an intent was supplied and the court accordingly set aside a judgment in favor of a local union.

"Our decisions," said the Hughes opinion, "have said much of the 'free flow' of interstate commerce. What is this metaphor of an interstate stream protected in its flow by the Sherman act but a striking way of describing the movement of goods by untrammeled shipments in pursuance of freely negotiated sales?

Congress Seeks Free Flow.

"It was to protect this free movement from being obstructed by industrial strife through the denial of collective bargaining that congress passed the National Labor Relations act. In sustaining the validity of that act we referred to our decisions with respect to the conduct of employés engaged in production, summing up the matter in this way:

Object of Labor Law.

"The evil sought to be remedied by the national labor relations act was the interruption of interstate commerce primarily by the prevention of the free shipment and delivery of goods in that commerce, and hence it has been applied to those cases where industries are of such a character that the prohibited unfair labor practices would naturally have the effect of interrupting the movement of commodities between the states.

"Restraints may be of various sorts. Some may be imposed by employers, others by employés. But when they are found to be unreasonable and directly imposed upon interstate commerce, both employers and employés are subject to the sanctions of the act.

"It is said that such a view would bring practically every strike in modern industry within the application of the statute. I do not agree. The right to quit work, the right peaceably to persuade others to quit work, the right to proceed by lawful measures within the contemplation of the Clayton act to attain the legitimate objects of labor organization, is to my mind quite a different matter from a conspiracy directly and intentionally to prevent the shipment of goods in interstate commerce either by their illegal seizure for that purpose, or by the direct and intentional obstruction of their transportation or by blocking the highways of interstate intercourse.

"Once it is decided, as this court does decide, that the Sherman act does not except labor unions from its purview—once it is decided, as this court does decide, that the conduct here shown is not within the immunity conferred by the Clayton act—the court, as it seems to me, has no option but to apply the Sherman act in accordance with its expressed provisions."

Mrs. Marian Reynolds' testimony that 10 West Elm street is her residence was supported yesterday by Harrison K. Livesey, an elevator operator there. Livesey told Judge Oscar F. Nelson that Mrs. Reynolds has lived in the building more than a year.

Mrs. Marian Reynolds.

Mrs. Reynolds, who is 30 years old, had asked a divorce on the ground of desertion from Jay Sterling Reynolds. Judge Nelson indicated on May 17 that he would grant the divorce. But Joseph Vieckman, manager of the building in which she claimed residence, denied that Mrs. Reynolds lived there. The judge called in Mrs. Reynolds' attorney, Thomas J. Downs, and began an investigation. The judge gave no indication of what his final decision would be.

DRIVE GANGSTERS FROM CONTROL OF CARGO LOADINGS

Unions Shake Off Rule of Extortion Rings.

New York, May 27 (AP).—William O'Dwyer, Brooklyn district attorney, announced tonight that his office, in collaboration with Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's union [A. F. of L.] had "cleaned out all gangster control of waterfront unions."

O'Dwyer said a seven week investigation showed "terrific extortion" among three of seven union locals handling all cargoes in Brooklyn, falsified records among six of the seven and "a maze of collateral crimes, ranging from assault to murder, to keep grumblers in line."

Pledges Democratic Control.

O'Ryan, he said, had amalgamated three of the locals with three others, appointed new temporary officers and promised "democratic elections" by union members in June.

The prosecutor, who still carries a hod carrier's union card and whose five months in office has been marked by the solution of 63 old murders by a Brooklyn crime combine, turned to labor racketeering, he said, because he found gunmen and gangsters controlling some locals. About 10 union racketeers, he added, now are fugitives from charges including murder.

Pay Gangsters for Jobs.

O'Dwyer's chief assistant, Joseph Hanley, said he had obtained 167 statements from among the 8,000 longshoremen affected and had gone thru the records of all locals.

"We found," Hanley said, "that some officers were mere puppets controled by the gangsters, some of whom didn't even belong to the union.

"Members paid annual dues totaling $144,000 for which they received no benefit except wage rates. We found that men were forced to 'kick back' to gangsters one dollar for each day's work and as much as $10 a week and that, to obtain work, they had to spend $2.50 weekly in a certain barber shop and buy wine from the racketeers' favorite vintner."

Patrolmen's Club Pays Honor to New President

Nearly 1,200 members of the Patrolmen's club crowded Belmont hall, 3218 Dayton street, last night to honor their new president, John L. O'Malley. It was the first meeting of the organization under his régime. Oscar G. Mayer, packer and president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, guest speaker, told the club that Chicago's police department was one of the city's best advertisments in influencing out of town visitors.

HITS HEAD ON PLANE; DIES.

Pueblo, Colo., May 27 (AP).—Charles C. Chamblin, 33 years old, inspector for the Civil Aeronautics authority, struck his head on the open door of a plane while examining the undercarriage. He thought nothing of it. He died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

U. S. SUPREME COURT REFUSES FREEDOM TO NORMAN BAKER

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—The Supreme court denied today a petition by Norman Baker seeking to obtain his release under bail from the Little Rock, Ark., county jail, where he is being held upon his conviction of mail fraud in connection with the promotion of what was described as a treatment for cancer.

Baker, who operated a hospital at Eureka Springs, Ark., and formerly lived at Muscatine, Ia., was sentenced to four years' imprisonment by the federal District court at Little Rock. He appealed the judgment of conviction to the eighth federal Circuit court and in the meantime unsuccessfully sought release on bail.

In his Supreme court petition, Baker said the federal District judge denied bail on the ground that the defendant had "most of his investments" in Mexico and had previously been critical of another federal judge. The Arkansas jurist was quoted as saying it would be the natural thing for one with investments in another country and at freedom under bail to "step over the line."

Kiwanis to Hear Effects of New Deal on Australia

Effects of government policies in New Zealand similar to those of the New Deal here will be discussed by Mrs. Leila M. Blomfield today at the Kiwanis club luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. Mrs. Blomfield, now an American citizen, is a native of New Zealand. In that country 20 years ago, she says, there was an "NRA," the Supreme court was packed, and there were other developments paralleling recent New Deal history. Among luncheon guests will be Dwight H. Green, Wayland Brooks, State Treasurer Louie Lewis, and Judge Daniel Trude.

FCC UPHOLDS ITS BAN ON SALE OF TELEVISION SETS

Charges Industry Can't Agree on Standards.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—The Federal Communications commission tonight announced that commercialization of television will not be permitted so long as the industry is in disagreement over transmission standards. By making the announcement the FCC stood by its controversial decision halting commercialization of television, but attempted to place the responsibility for its action on the industry itself.

At the same time, the commission moved to create a loophole by which it can escape from its position against the development of television. It announced that it is prepared to approve full commercialization of the invention as soon as the industry is prepared to approve any one of the present competing television systems.

Promises More Licenses.

To this end, the commission said, it stands ready to license applicants to carry on further comparative experiments on the different systems. It added that cities under consideration for allotment of these licenses, in addition to New York, include Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington, Albany, Cincinnati, and Boston.

The commission stand on commercialization of television came about as follows: It issued an order permitting limited commercialization of television beginning next Sept. 1. Then, last April, is suspended this order because it did not approve of the methods by which television sets were being offered for sale by the Radio Corporation of America

The FCC said it feared the buyers of the first sets offered would lose their money because the newer sets would make their sets obsolete. This assertion brought a storm of criticism. It was charged that the FCC was standing in the way of progress and inventive genius.

Holds Others Don't Back RCA.

In defense of the latter order, the commission said today:

"In the television field a major portion of the industry takes the view that successful promotional activities at this time can act only as an anchor on experimental efforts to go forward.

"Premature crystalization of standards removes the incentive for technical research toward higher levels of efficiency.

"It is obvious that the industry as a whole does not share the RCA view of forging ahead regardless of the untested possibilitity of improvements on the horizon. It further appears that the industry was not prepared to accept Sarnoff's [David Sarnoff, president of RCA] promise of 'We live on obsolesence' as a basis for justifying a heavy public investment at current levels of efficiency."

FRANK V. ZINTAK, OUSTED CLERK, BACK ON PAY ROLL

Frank V. Zintak, who was ousted from his job as Superior court clerk in 1936 when he was indicted and charged with embezzling $26,500, is back on the local pay roll. Zintak, who was acquitted of the first count of the indictment after he repaid the county $25,639, is now superintendent of construction and betterments in the city bureau of maintenance and repairs at a salary of $4,800 a year with $47 a month automobile maintenance allowance. He was appointed March 12.

Mayor Kelly said last night: "Mr. Zintak was acquitted of the charges and paid up. The appointment was apparently made by a bureau head. The vacancy occurred and Mr. Zintak, who was formerly a contractor, qualified for it because of his experience."

Zintak was tried twice. The first jury disagreed, and the second acquitted him. Later, 11 members of the second jury and a bailiff were given jail terms for contempt and the 12th juror and two other bailiffs were fined for contempt of court on charges that the jury made a round of taverns in the city while the second trial was in progress. A member of the first jury was sentenced to a year in jail on a contempt charge. He admitted having received a bribe to vote for acquittal.

Another recent temporary city appointee is Joseph J. Nowicki, who filed a primary petition for the Democratic nomination for governor. Nowicki, who is now janitor in charge of the night force at the city hall, withdrew from the campaign. He gets $2,400 a year as a janitor.

LOGAN SQUARE AREA LAUNCHES DRIVE ON RATS

Representatives of 22 business and civic organizations gathered at the Chicago Norske Klub, 2346 North Kedzie avenue, last night to formulate plans for a sweeping drive to exterminate rats in the Logan Square neighborhood and vicinity. The meeting was sponsored by the Logan Square Lions' club.

James A. Curtis, executive secretary of the Logan Square Business Men's association, quoted estimates that there are 5,000,000 rats in the Chicago area. It is estimated that the rodents cause $7,000,000 damage annually.

Curtis outlined a program calling for proper garbage containers, regular and adequate garbage removal, a cleanup of rubbish in basements and vacant lots and insulation of buildings. Finally thousands of volunteers would spread poisoned rat food.

2 PER CENT CLUB ISSUE RAISED BY HOUSE QUIZZERS

Mansion Is Silent on Plea for Horner Interview.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—The state house machine's two per cent club and its padded payrolls were brought up tonight at a session of an Illinois house committee investigating waste and corruption under the sick room regency of the invalid Gov. Henry Horner. Meanwhile, the mansion continued its silence on a request from the committee last Wednesday to interview the governor.

Joseph Knight, 29 year old secretary of the Illinois commerce commission and secretary of the Democratic state central committee, was asked about the two per cent political assessment against salaries of state employés. However, Representative W. O. Edwards [D., Danville], the only Horner-Nash-Kelly member of the committee of seven, successfully protested against this line of inquiry.

Ask About Pay Roll.

William W. Hart, chairman of the commerce commission, was asked about services performed by certain men on the commission pay roll, including William E. Hughes, brother-in-law of the widow of the late F. Lynden Smith, former Horner campaign manager who died mysteriously on March 9; James V. Cornwall, husband of Horner's confidential secretary; George H. Sprenkel, former Sangamon county Democratic chairman, and Fred M. Whitten, former Macon county Democratic chairman. Hart recited their pay roll titles.

John J. Donoghue, superintendent of state printing, was questioned about contracts under his supervision.

J. E. McDermott of the Illinois Printing company at Danville was subpenaed but not questioned.

Hughes Expects Saving.

In response to a letter circulated to appointive and elective department heads, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes replied that his expenditures will approximate $150,000 less than his budget for the biennium ending July 1, 1941. The following reported that they saw no way of cutting their expenses: Thomas J. Lynch, conservation; A. C. Baxter, health department head; Louis Lewis, treasurer, and Edward J. Barrett, auditor.

The committee is seeking means of financing an increase from $30 to $40 a month in old age assistance, estimated to cost $2,500,000 a year. State Finance Director Samuel L. Nudelman told the committee that with a shrinkage of $10,000,000 in expenditures, the state can pay the pension increase, with a deficit of $5,700,000. The committee, in trying to find this possible $10,000,000 saving, has now uncovered a total of $600,000, consisting of $150,000 from Secretary Hughes; $150,000 from the insurance department, and $300,000 from the department of public works.

Expected to Predict Deficit.

The committee tomorrow is expected to report that payment of this pension increase, as authorized in pending legislation, will result—due in part to extravagances and corruption—in a deficit of approximately $15,000,000 as of July 1, 1941.

Both houses of the legislature will convene tomorrow after a week-end recess. The special session of the assembly is expected to end next week.

PICK JURY TO TRY EX-GOV. LECHE IN U. S. FRAUD TRIAL

Deserted by Henchmen in Louisiana Case.

Alexandria, La., May 27 (AP).—Former Gov. Richard W. Leche, charged with mail fraud in the Louisiana scandals, went on trial alone today after two co-defendants pleaded guilty to a similar charge.

A jury was selected to try Leche after L. P. Abernathy, former chairman of the Louisiana highway commission, and George Younger, Alexandria truck dealer, changed their pleas to guilty. United States Judge Ben O. Dawkins deferred sentence.

J. St. Clair Adams, Leche's attorney, said he understood Younger and Abernathy had been promised leniency for entering guilty pleas and testifying against Leche.

The indictment charges the trio and a fourth man, now deceased, split $113,370 in the purchase of 233 trucks by the highway department from Younger's firm in 1937 and 1938, when Leche and Abernathy were in office.

$31,000 Credited to Leche.

Leche, the government claims, received $31,000 as his share. Abernathy was dismissed from office after Leche resigned 11 months ago.

Before the Leche trial opened, three of his former political allies were arraigned and pleaded innocent to mail fraud in the sale of buses to the city of Alexandria. The three are W. T. Bradford, former state representative; his cousin, Ben F. Bradford, city finance commissioner, and Monte Hart, much indicted New Orleans contractor. The government charges they split $2,300.

Leche faces several other indictments in the scandals which have hit many members of the old Huey Long organization, beaten at the polls last February by Gov. Sam Jones. Included are another mail fraud charge, a Connolly "hot oil" act indictment and a state charge of operating a confidence game.

Took Up Huey's Mantle.

Following the slaying of Long in September, 1935, Leche was drafted by administration forces and elected by a vast majority. He had as his lieutenant governor, Earl K. Long, brother of Huey. For three years the Leche administration ruled the state along the lines laid down by Huey. A docile legislature offered no opposition.

Last July 26 Leche resigned following the flight to Canada of Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of Louisiana State university, amid rumors of fraudulent manipulation of university funds. Earl Long succeeded Leche as governor.

Dr. Smith was returned from Canada and is now serving an 8 to 24 year sentence in the state penitentiary.

HAIL CHOICE OF 'BLOSSOM TIME' MUSIC ON W-G-N

Operetta Will Be Given on Memorial Day.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The choice of "Blossom Time" as the production for the Chicago Theater of the Air for Thursday night, Memorial day, was hailed yesterday as an especially fortuitous one by musical leaders of Chicagoland.

"Blossom Time," Sigmund Romberg's perennially popular musical romance, based on the life and melodies of Franz Schubert, will be presented in W-G-N's main audience studio from 9 to 10 p. m., Chicago daylight time, over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. Special guests at this performance will be officials and members of The Tribune Chicagoland Music festival committee and leaders of the festival luncheon.

Three Singers Engaged.

Three noted singers have been engaged to headline the production: Marion Claire, Chicago's own soprano; Igor Gorin, internationally famous baritone, and Michael Bartlett, American tenor of movie, opera, and radio fame. The music for "Blossom Time" will be presented by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber. Mr. Weber is musical director of W-G-N, artistic director of the Chicago Opera company, and general director of the Chicagoland Music festival.

While this will be the first radio presentation of "Blossom Time" in Chicago, it has had nine runs on the stages of Chicago theaters, the last in 1938. Since its original presentation in New York in 1921, it has been revived more often than any other operetta and it has been the biggest box office success.

Gilbert to be Guest.

A guest at Thursday's broadcast will be J. Charles Gilbert, who sang and played the part of Schubert in "Blossom Time" 1,826 times. Mr. Gilbert, who appeared with a half dozen "Blossom Time" companies on Chicago stages since 1926, is now the manager of the Civic Opera house and the Civic theater.

Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director of the music festival, declared yesterday that he preferred "Blossom Time" to all other operettas because of the Schubert music in it.

"It should be fine entertainment," he said.

"Such a presentation as 'Blossom Time' on the air," said Miss Helen Howe, director of music for the Chicago public schools, "brings the finest in music to all the people. It translates the beautiful music of the "Unfinished Symphony" into a thrilling emotional experience."

Rehearsals for "Blossom Time" are progressing under the direction of William A. Bacher, producer-director, who also wrote the streamlined adaptation. The musical company will be supported by the dramatic cast which performed so notably in the other Chicago Theater of the Air productions.

6 C. I. O. OFFICERS ORDERED JAILED FOR CONTEMPT

Six officers of the United Furniture Workers of America, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, were ordered taken into custody and locked up for contempt of court by Judge John C. Lewe yesterday. Judge Lewe sentenced the union leaders last Tuesday for failing to obey a court order to surrender records of local 18-B of the Furniture Woodworkers and Finishers' union, but gave them until yesterday to save themselves by complying.

The unionists were accused of seizing the records Feb. 8 when they and others seceded from the complaining union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate. Joseph Jacobs, attorney for the A. F. of L. union, told the court the men had kept the membership list, correspondence, and other essential records.

Those ordered to jail are Joseph Pavlicek, president; John Zimney, treasurer; Peter Prusa, financial secretary, and Nicholas Blattner, George Leach, and Samuel Sloan, business representatives. A seventh officer originally sentenced was granted a stay.

PLAN TO SPEED TRANSIT LINES' NEW EQUIPMENT

Car Purchases to Follow Approval in Vote.

Orders for the first new street cars, buses, and elevated-subway cars to be purchased under Chicago's 102 million dollar transit modernization program will be placed as soon as the unified traction ordinance is approved at a public referendum, Philip Harrington, city traction commissioner, said yesterday. It is planned to hold the referendum by Aug. 1 or soon afterward.

Philip Harrington.

Agreement on the controversial points in the unified ordinance was reached by the city and transit lines' representatives Saturday after a 13 year dispute.

Harrington and William H. Sexton, city traction counsel, yesterday began to draft a synopsis of the ordinance, based on last week's agreement. Harrington said the synopsis will be submitted June 4 to the city council's special traction subcommittee, headed by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th]. If the subcommittee approves it the draft of the ordinance will be sent to the council's local transportation committee and then to the city council.

Improvements to Be Mapped.

Harrington said the synopsis will include a detailed analysis of the 102 million dollar improvement plan which will be carried out within eight years. This will show what equipment is to be bought and what extensions are to be made.

The program calls for an outlay by the proposed unified company of 60 millions for improvements in the first three years and 42 millions in the next five years. This company, however, cannot be set up for six months or a year after the referendum, because of the involved machinery required to dissolve the present companies and merge them into one system.

In order that this process will not delay the service improvements, Harrington explained, the city plans to have expediting ordinances passed by the council, directing the present companies to order new equipment immediately after the referendum.

900 New Trolleys Planned.

The tentative program for the first three years, as planned by the companies' engineers, calls for 550 new elevated-subway cars, 900 new street cars and 640 buses. In the next five years another 450 rapid transit cars and 1,100 street cars or the equivalent in buses would be bought. The plan also includes rehabilitation of elevated structures and expenditures for surface lines' shops and track renewals.

NEW CARS AND BUSES.
550 subway-elevated cars	$14,000,000
900 street cars	14,600,000
640 buses	6,400,000
SURFACE LINES' IMPROVEMENTS.
Renewals of track and electric system	4,250,000
Additions to shops, car barns, etc.	2,000,000
RAPID TRANSIT IMPROVEMENTS.
Elevated lines' block signal system	5,000,000
Track and station equipment for subway	5,000,000
Rehabilitate "L" structure	2,125,000
"L" curve widening and track changes	2,000,000
Extensions of "L" platforms	1,870,000
New shop equipment	1,025,000
Improve 440 present all-steel "L" cars	830,000
Other "L" changes	900,000
Total	$60,000,000

Of the 42 million dollars to be spent in the following five years, at least 30 millions will go for new cars and buses and the remainder for other purposes not yet planned in detail.

Speeders Freed by Court Pay 'Fines' to Red Cross

Judge Gibson E. Gorman raised $38 for the Red Cross yesterday with hardly any effort at all. He freed six Traffic court defendants, all accused of speeding slightly, on condition that they contribute to the Red Cross drive. Edward Samen, 43, of 6650 South Oak Park avenue, was so pleased with not having a court conviction stamped on his driver's license that he gave $10, twice the amount he would have been fined.

ORDERS AIRLINES TO END SERVICE TO NEWARK, N. J.

CAA Takes Action in Row Over Landing Field.

Washington, D. C., May 27 [Special].—The Newark, N. J., airport, for years one of the busiest commercial flying fields in the world, tonight faced loss of the service of four major air lines.

The Civil Aeronautics authority announced the lines had been notified to discontinue stops at Newark by midnight Thursday, unless by that time a definite step had been taken "to remedy the field of bad conditions" and to continue operation of the traffic control tower.

In its notification the CCA added that a recent inspection of the Newark airport disclosed a large part of the landing field was uneven and constituted a hazard to takeoffs.

Air Lines File Petition.

Earlier the Authority announced that the air lines—American, United, Transcontinental, and Western Air and Eastern—had applied for permission to discontinue service temporarily because of the city's decision to cease operating the control tower.

Today's decision was the latest development in the long dispute between the Newark and New York municipal authorities as to the division of air traffic between their respective airports. Until the opening of New York City's airport, the four airlines maintained their New York terminals at Newark.

The differences have been aired not only before the CAA but also before a subcommittee of the senate commerce committee. Mayor Meyer C. Ellenstein of Newark challenged the CAA's authorization of the use of New York airport as a co-terminal.

Newark Asks $135,000.

Newark's next move was to demand a guarantee of $135,000 for the use of its airport this year. Ellenstein asserted that $215,000 was the minimum figure for maintenance of the field, and that the airlines should pay $135,000 of it.

The four airlines refused, but submitted instead an offer which they said would produce for Newark revenue of $70,000 to $80,000.

Representative Fred A. Hartley Jr. [R., N. J.], who took part in the long fight by the city to keep the principal activities of the airlines at the Newark field, suggested the airport might be used by the federal government in development of its defense program.

Stanley Czech, 50, of 3216 East 133d street, also waived a jury trial before Judge Daly and was ordered to serve 10 days for driving while intoxicated.

Judge Harold P. O'Connell in Safety court sentenced Herbert Boehning, 37, of 3429 West 38th street, to five days in the county jail for reckless driving, and ordered Edward Hadley, 23, of 5207 Prairie avenue, to serve 10 days on the same charge. All four lost their driving privileges for six months.

SCALISE REFUSED A REDUCTION IN HIS $35,000 BAIL

New York, May 27 [Special].—George Scalise, ousted head of the Building Service Employés International union, today failed to win a reduction of his $35,000 bail. Scalise is charged with stealing $60,000 from the union's treasury.

Judge James G. Wallace adjourned a hearing on the grand larceny charges until Wednesday.

Scalise, who is charged with using his labor position to cloak his racketeering activities, is now in the Tombs prison. It has been revealed that he strongarmed his way to the presidency of the international after serving a four year term in Atlanta penitentiary for pandering.

Judge Wallace adjourned today's hearing at the request of Murray Gurfein, head of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's racket bureau. Gurfein told the court that indictment of Scalise on the grand larceny charge is expected before Wednesday. Scalise already is under indictment on charges that he extorted $97,000 from hotels and cleaning agencies.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD IN PAJAMAS; SALESMAN HELD

Police Hear of Quarrel on Week-End Drinking Bout

Madison, Wis., May 27 [Special].—Charles McLain Colladay, 44 year old Madison real estate salesman, was held in the Dane county jail today following discovery of the bruised body of Mrs. Rae Marie Osgood, 31, under mysterious circumstances. The body of Mrs. Osgood, described as Colladay's sweetheart, was found in his home, clad in pajamas, with marks on her throat.

Mrs. Osgood was the mother of three children. Her body was found early yesterday by Colladay when he returned to his home at 325 West Washington avenue, where Mrs. Osgood had been staying for several weeks. He told police he had been to several taverns, and that he and Mrs. Osgood had been drinking at his home Saturday afternoon.

Pleads Guilty to Charge.

Colladay today pleaded guilty in Superior court to a charge of lewd and lascivious behavior. Judge Roy H. Proctor deferred sentence pending an inquest to be conducted by Coroner Wayne Fisher tomorrow afternoon at the Dane county court house.

Dr. Lester McGary, who performed a postmortem examination on Mrs. Osgood's body, said the neck bruises were clear, but that there was no evidence of death by suffocation. Dr. McGary and Coroner Fisher indicated the cause of death will not be determined before tomorrow.

Colladay's story to police was that he, Mrs. Osgood, and Joseph Moran, a friend, started drinking in Colladay's rooms at 10 a. m. Saturday. Moran left at 1 p. m., Colladay said. At 3 p. m. Colladay left to buy more whisky, returned and went alone to the Eagles club bar.

He told police Mrs. Osgood joined him at the Eagles bar, but that he left her about 8 p. m.

Tells of Finding Body.

Returning home shortly after midnight, he said, he undressed downstairs and called to Mrs. Osgood. Getting no response, he went into her bedroom upstairs, where he discovered her body, lying full length on the bed.

Police found the body clad in men's pajamas, bearing the initials "M. C." Colladay identified the pajamas as his.

Mrs. Julia Walsh, a friend of Mrs. Osgood, told police that Colladay struck Mrs. Osgood while they were in the Eagles bar.

Mrs. Osgood recently was dismissed from her job as a WPA stenographer, but was to have resumed work June 3. Her three children—Marilyn, 11 years old; Duane, 9, and Alan, 5—have been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Lukken, near Madison. She had been separated from her husband, Earl, for several years. He is believed to be on the west coast.

Colladay was divorced by his former wife, Mildred, in 1937. She is living in New York state with her parents. Colladay formerly was an insurance agent here. For two months he has been assisting his parents in the sale of lots on Lake Kegonsa, near Madison.

SUBPENA SCALISE UNION WIRES IN FINANCE INQUIRY

Subpenas ordering both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies to produce copies of 44 telegrams sending money out of Chicago on behalf of the Building Service Employés' International union were obtained before Chief Justice John Prystalski in Criminal court yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys William B. Crawford and Francis McCurrie.

The prosecutors said this was a new phase in the investigation of large sums spent by George Scalise, deposed head of the union, who is under indictment in New York on charges of extortion. Crawford and McCurrie said the telegrams were to persons in various parts of the country and that the money, sent from Feb. 8, 1938, to last April 5, totaled $20,000.

The state wants to know who the persons are to whom the local officials of the union sent this sum and why the money was advanced. The telegrams are to be produced tomorrow.

ROB INSURANCE OFFICE.

Miss Stella Biesecorn, 30 years old, the cashier, was robbed of $170 yesterday by two bandits who visited the office of the Mayer Keating Insurance company at 5637 North Ashland avenue.

What the Vitality Boost Did for George Cheatham, Dorset Hotel, Chicago

I'M SURE STRONG FOR THE VITALITY BOOST ...FEEL LIKE A MILLION THESE DAYS!

Try this simple, sensible idea yourself! Watch it work for you

● Mr. Cheatham is no exception. Other folks, all over Chicago and the suburbs, are enjoying wonderful results from this sensible, pleasant, economical idea . . . the Vitality Boost! Pleasant and economical because the Vitality Boost is just a big glass of Bowman Milk each night at bedtime. Sensible because it is based upon scientific facts. Here's why it should work for you:

1) You take the milk when your stomach is empty. Preventing hunger pangs, it helps you get more restful sleep.

2) It reduces the tax on your energy store that even sleeping takes. (Your body's need of fuel each sleeping hour is actually 40% of the average for all your waking, working hours! That's because your heart keeps pumping, breathing continues, "relaxed" muscles are always under tension.)

3) It gives your body, in easily digestible form, a greater variety of nutritional essentials than any other food can provide! Fresh milk is outstanding as a source of calcium and vitamins A and G . . . three of the four food requisites needed in abundance for retaining what scientists call "the characteristics of youth."

Try the Vitality Boost for at least thirty days. Drink a full glass of fresh, pure milk at bedtime. You'll enjoy it particularly if the milk is Bowman's. More people in Chicago and vicinity drink Bowman Milk than any other kind. Produced with extra care, it has a specially delicious flavor.

"THE CLAIMS THE BOWMAN PEOPLE make about the Vitality Boost are sure right! Since I've been drinking that glass of milk before going to bed each night I've noticed plenty of difference. Sleep? Say, and how!"

"I NOTICE THE EFFECTS of the Vitality Boost all day long. Get up in the morning with more pep, my duties here at the hotel don't tire me so much, and I'm always ready to go out in the evening. I'm all for this great idea!"

Youth to Fill Gaps in Ranks of Grand Army

The once mighty Grand Army of the Republic in Cook county will be able to muster little more than a squad of fragile old men Thursday. But their ranks will be swelled by veterans of more recent wars when Chicago holds its annual Memorial day parade.

Posts of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, members of the Cook County Reserve Officers' association, disabled veterans, soldiers of the National Guard, and men who fought in the Spanish-American war will play leading parts in this year's celebration.

Twenty reserve officers will serve as escorts for 11 civil war veterans who will be able to participate Thursday. Forty other officers will act as assistant marshals along the line of march. The Union veterans will ride at the head of the parade. Capt. Thomas Ambrose, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial association and grand marshal of the parade, will be with them.

The parade will start at 2 p. m. from Chicago and Michigan avenues, continuing south to Roosevelt road and then west to Wabash avenue, where the marchers will disband.

More than 150 posts of the American Legion will be represented in the procession. The Legionnaires will be led by Raymond J. Kelly of Detroit, national commander; L. N. Bittinger, Illinois commander, and William J. Collins, Cook county commander.

Honor units at the head of the parade will include the Combat Medal Men's association, the Army and Navy Legion of Valor, the championship drum corps of both Commonwealth Edison and Square posts, the Beverly Hills post title holding drill team, the Military Order of the Purple Heart, and a group of wounded and disabled veterans from Hines and North Chicago hospitals.

Disabled veterans who are able to march will assemble on Ontario street at Michigan avenue. Others will be seated in the south half of the reviewing stand on the plaza at Michigan avenue and Congress street.

In the north half of the stand will be the reviewing officers. Gov. Horner has been named reviewing officer in chief. Other reviewing officers will include Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, 6th corps area commander; officials of veteran groups, foreign consuls resident in Chicago, officers of the army and navy, and public officials, including Mayor Kelly and United States Senators Scott Lucas and James M. Slattery.

One of the most colorful units in the parade will be a special detail representing soldiers of all the wars in American history. Uniforms, rifles, and flags will be in keeping with each period.

A salute to deceased veterans of all wars will be fired by the 122d field artillery at the close of the parade. Col. Robert E. Myhrman will be in command. Taps, blown by buglers of the 131st infantry band, will echo thru the streets before the marchers disband.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, announced yesterday that 20 new combat scout cars will be on public display for the first time in the Memorial day parade.

The combat cars will arrive Thursday morning from Springfield, home station of the 23d reconnaissance squadron, a newly organized unit of the Illinois cavalry.

Forgotten Man.

It's Lessing Rosenwald's story: A rather diffident Englishman was seated at his club. He saw a man at the table near by whom he thought he recognized altho he couldn't recall his name. As he prided himself on his memory of names and faces, he approached the table and said, "I beg your pardon, but didn't you attend Rugby in 1882?" The man answered in the affirmative. "Now don't tell me," said the Englishman, "and let me see if I can recall your name. You occupied the third floor on the northeast corner in Cambridge hall, did you not?" "Yes," replied the stranger. "Now don't tell me your name. You afterward became captain of the cricket team and attended Oxford. Now it all comes back to me. You are Neville Chamberlain. Tell me about yourself. What have you been doing lately?"

Comment on Monday.

The lament of the young man Luke Lyons overheard on the "L": "I don't like work on Monday or Tuesday, and from Thursday on I don't like it either."

Ironic Note.

As a child 70 years ago on a visit to Dover, Percy Donaldson was permitted to climb upon the big cannon which pointed grandly toward Calais. He still remembers the jingle inscribed on the base of the cannon:

Shine me bright,
Keep me clean
And I'll send a ball to Calais green.

Cuffnotes.

Rufus Chapin recently celebrated his 73d birthday at Riccardo's, which is on the site of the house in which he was born. He told how he used to watch lumber schooners load and unload practically in his backyard when Chicago, still a small town, was the second largest port in the United States. . . . Latest vogue in zany millinery is Mrs. Hal Kemp's hat fashioned from one of the bandmaster husband's phonograph recordings. The tunes inscribed on the hat are The Spirit of V. M. I. and The Washington and Lee Swing. . . . A mother robin sits on turquoise eggs on the ledge of an upper floor window in the Samuel A. Marx home in Glencoe. The house was just repainted but painters were forbidden to disturb the bird, so there is an unpainted area in the vicinity of the window.

Open Art Exhibit.

The South Side Art association will open its summer exhibition of paintings by members with an informal party at 8 o'clock this evening at the Sperry hotel. Eleanor Jewett, art editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be a special guest.

World and Its Worries Yield to June Bride

BY JUDITH CASS.

EUROPEAN wars, political conventions, ups and downs of the stock market, unseasonable weather, none of them make any real difference to prospective brides, for they live in a world of their own. A world filled with roseate plans for the future, with house or apartment hunting, with trousseau shopping, and with all the other lovely things that belong to a girl just before she assumes the dignity of a "Mrs." She may be saddened or upset for a moment by any or all of the above mentioned things, but nothing makes a deep dent except, perhaps, the weather, if she is planning an al fresco ceremony or reception. Which is as it should be, all but the most morbid would agree, I'm sure.

Today invitations are in the mail for the ceremony on June 15 that will unite Miss Lily Fleming and William Edwin Holt Maulsby of Baltimore. The service will be read in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest at 4 o'clock, and will be followed by a reception in the gardens of the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Fleming of Lake Forest. Subdeb Jean Fleming will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be two older sisters, Mrs. T. MacPherson Thomas and Mrs. Norman Lee Cram; the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. David Lee Maulsby; Mrs. John Mercer, Miss Jean Pettibone, and Miss Annette Cross of Kansas City. Alan Maulsby will be best man, and ushering will be two other brothers, David L. Maulsby and Saunders Lee Maulsby, and William Kempton, John Raine, Frederick Baugh, Thomas Cook, Coleman Freeman, Wentworth Boynton, and Mr. Cram and Mr. Thomas.

Former Chicagoan and South Bend Girl Wed.

Chicago friends of Walker Griffiths Everett, formerly of this city, received invitations yesterday to the wedding reception of Miss Mimi Farabaugh and Mr. Everett on Saturday, June 15, at 5 o'clock, in South Bend, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Gallitzin A. Farabaugh, the bride's parents, are giving the reception at their home, 1019 East Colfax avenue.

Mrs. William Hamilton Noyes Jr., Miss Dorothy Gerhard, and Miss Marilyn Martin all will be in Boston on June 20 for the marriage of Miss Judith Drew Miller and Arthur Willis Jr. of Brookline, Mass. Mrs. Hamilton, the former Adelaide Atkin, is to be Miss Miller's matron of honor. Miss Gerhard and Miss Martin, who will be graduated from the Finch Junior college early next month, will be bridesmaids.

The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock in Emmanuel church, the Rev. Dr. Phillips Endecott Osgood officiating, assisted by the Rev. George W. Wickersham of Warwick, N. Y., Mr. Willis' former roommate at Harvard.

Miss Miller is a niece of the Alan C. Dixons of Chicago and formerly resided in Winnetka. Her sister, Miss Portia Miller, who also has many friends here, is to be the maid of honor.

Miss Lucille Wright and Norman McClave Wed June 8

Miss Lucille Wright and Norman McClave Jr. will be married on Saturday, June 8. The ceremony will take place in the Trinity Episcopal church chapel in Highland Park with only relatives and out of town guests present. A larger reception will follow at Sunnylawn, the Bannockburn home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Terry Wright. Mr. McClave is a son of Mr. and Mrs. McClave of Grand Rapids, Mich. He and his bride will make their home in Evanston.

Miss Miriam Fetcher and William

Looking at Hollywood

Listen, Kids.

Hollywood, Cal., May 27.—Within the next several weeks, tens of thousands of you youngsters will group yourselves on school stages to be graduated, and you can be pardoned your bewilderment as you look from the stage out on a world which apparently contradicts everything you have been taught. Before you become too depressed about these black days, remember your history lessons. There have been other black days supported by violence, armed might, injustice, bigotry, lunatic ambition, and yet all of these things have passed. They will pass again.

No day was blacker than that day at Calvary. Cromwell scouring Ireland, Napoleon marching across Europe, Columbus imprisoned, Joan of Arc burned to death at the stake, the "Black Friday" panics, Lincoln assassinated, the A. E. F. troops fired upon at Washington, D. C., Pasteur reviled by men of medicine, the Stalin blood purges. Munich—for every bright day in history, there has been a black day.

For every hero there has been a tyrant, for every martyr there has been a Judas, for every noble thought there has been an ignoble chorus, for every act of generosity there has been an act of callous selfishness, for every gentle act there has been its complement of ruthlessness. Perhaps in this way, nature achieves balance, and when balance has been achieved, incredibly enough the world has moved on a step nearer to the goal.

Apparently the world and the people in the world learn only from its black days. Each time the world becomes smug, complacent and indifferent, it is jarred out of that smugness by something so horrible that men are aroused to thought, and thought can be more powerful than anything, because in the end the world is ruled by world opinion and world opinion always is based on the ten commandments or their equivalent.

What I am telling you kids is not the frothy musings of a Pollyanna. Read your history books and you will find the proof of what I say. The names and the places may be different, but the conclusions always are the same. In other words, the casts of characters are different, but the script always has the same ending.

Now the world holds its breath tensely; the legions of Hitler are at Calais. London is to be bombed, and Paris to be invaded. Examine your history books and you will find other instances in world history freighted with equal terror. Instead of Hitler, the name may be Attila, or Caesar, or Napoleon, or Alexander, and instead of Calais the legions had arrived at another port, but in general the terror, the situation and the things at stake were identical. History has countless illustrations of might triumphing over right, but in the end right wins the last battle.

At such a time as this you kids probably are tempted to say: "So this is civilization." Well, my little chickadees, this is one of the trials of civilization. The best test of civilization is that it always has won out in the long run and its chief trial and tribulation has been ornery human beings. Hitler is one of them.

You young graduates have been reading in the papers of "fifth columns." As you sit on the stage and listen to the valedictory address, you might identify the fifth columns in your own character, because success most often is sabotaged from within. One of the best all around performers in Hollywood was fifth columned by drunkenness. Selfishness is a fifth column that has destroyed many who had everything else. Lying, cheating, tactlessness, impatience—find your own fifth column and destroy it before it destroys your own fortifications.

You have been reading in the papers of powerful "secret weapons." In life you'll learn that there are no secret weapons to achieve success. Hard work generally is a "secret weapon" because it's a secret to most people.

Don't place too much confidence in the Maginot line which your mind has constructed. You will have to adapt yourself to the conditions that confront you when you leave school. The French strategists built a line of fortifications and squatted there, confident that the war would thus be fought off. Instead they were attacked in a war of movement. Be prepared to discard your plans immediately and substitute other viewpoints if necessary because you'll find that the world has stepped up its pace.

Your sheepskin is not a season pass to life. It only certifies that your studies have taught you how to think, and how to measure values. Upon your application of those things depends success. Don't be outflanked by new ideas, or sudden changes.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Great goings-on in the hairbrush field. First of all, the really good brush got down to a nice price range. Of course you usually get what you pay for, but it is true now, as it wasn't so many years ago, that to obtain a brush that wears well and has some spunk in its bristles you don't have to pay a high price.

It used to be, too, that the strictly utilitarian brush was a pretty unattractive item. Sturdy, but not smart. Now the utilitarian number, having been dealt with efficiently by the stylists and merchandising counselors, is a thing of beauty.

The synthetic bristles have met with marvelous acceptance. They deserve to. We've been playing with a couple of these modern miracles since before they came on the market and we love them. They're easy to clean, they keep their "spring" and, while they don't feel exactly the way genuine bristles feel in the hair, they do a remarkably good job of polishing and cleaning the hair strands. They're lighter in weight, but this doesn't make them one whit less efficient.

The composition back brushes are really beautiful—in good colors and nice lines. They look so clean, somehow. And, as we've said before, these brushes are easy to keep clean. The dirt washes right off them—and the only thing to remember is that you must not use boiling water.

The latest trick in these wonderful, inexpensive brushes is bristles tinted the same shade as the composition back. We have a stunning blue one; they come also in green and a couple of other colors. Your hair and your dressing table will be beautified by the ownership of one.

Dainty Summer Party Clothes Win Spotlight

BY REA SEEGER.

Brand new, spic and span, guaranteed to stay that way after weeks of wear, summer party clothes of crisp colorful organdies, swisses, piqués, and nets are well worth a shopping trip. The old charmer, rickrack braid, leads a dizzy whirl around ruffles as well as the wide yardage of the fluttery full skirts.

Equally time honored dotted swiss steals the fashion spotlights all round the shops in white peppered with millions of colored pinpoint dots or pastel shaded backgrounds with bright colored or white dots.

Snowy drifts of white cotton net and organdy use bands of striped, dotted or checked contrast either on airy cotton swiss or dimity sheers. Entire bodices are made of the striped contrast with a series of as many as three bands on the flounced skirt.

Lace gets a big play this summer, too, frilled fetchingly around low necklines, along the heading of skirt ruffles and even on the ruffled hemlines. Short puffed sleeves also foam and froth with frills of lace. One stunning dark cotton sheer is wound round by round from neckline to hem with wide white rickrack, another has rumba ruffles that cross at the front, outlined with scarlet braid. The entire dress looks as sultry as a Cuban sunset.

With these picturesque cottons are the newest suave statuesque gowns of dull white chiffon jersey and crépe. Gold leather belts, intricately shirred and draped shoulders, and flat shirred sections around the waistline make them the last word in clinging costumes for dinner wear.

Silver or gold kidskin trim shimmers romantically with these cool whites, whether in applique trim along the chest lines or to accent a small beltline. The white chiffon finds float ethereally, the skirts are full, the bodices softly shirred and draped to flatter the figure.

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Madge Darmeny has sent for Alfred Barnes, her lifelong friend and solicitor. She has a number of relatives to whom she has been giving financial aid and she wants to know the condition of her estate, for she is anxious to decide who shall be her heir—Amelia Pennyfeather, a distant relative, lives with her but Madge's closest kin is her niece, Leda, who is married to her husband's nephew, Frank. Eight year old Betsy, Frank's child by a former marriage, is visiting Madge, and Shirley Westall, Madge's secretary, is taking care of Betsy. The only other possible heir seems to be Geoffry, another nephew of her husband's and a cousin of Frank's. Geoffry is really Madge's favorite relative.

INSTALMENT II.

AN EXPENSIVE NEPHEW.

Miss Pennyfeather glowered from the doorway.

"Mr. Barnes has come, Madge dear."

"Good—send him out. Now go and have a look at the bedrooms, Shirley. Miss Pennyfeather sometimes forgets little things. Be sure to see that Mrs. Frank has plenty of soft hand towels. And Geoffry will be sure to ask for a siphon if he doesn't find one in his room. He brings his own whisky, but he doesn't know I know. It's just one of his conventions."

"Alfred, my dear!"

Mrs. Darmeny held out a thin white hand to greet her old friend.

"Madge—how well you're looking. Seems to me you get younger every time I see you."

Perhaps more kind that strictly true, for of late Madge Darmeny had been showing her age. Her face was whiter than it should be and there were more tired lines in evidence. Nevertheless, nothing could destroy the beauty of her fine features, and her gray eyes were full of light and expression. They were not old eyes.

Alfred Barnes always rested and encouraged her. She liked him so much that once there had been a moment when she contemplated asking him to marry her.

He was a little younger than she, and looked even younger than that; a rugged-featured, spare man, without any surplus flesh on him. His hair was still plentiful, tho graying, and he had a quietly humorous manner which fitted in very well with Madge Darmeny's own temperament.

Madge cast a glance over her shoulder at the windows.

"Draw your chair closer, Alfred. I can never be sure when Amelia isn't hanging about. . . . Did you bring those papers?"

"No, but I brought the figures."

"O, well, that's all I want, really. I'm rather afraid to look at them, Alfred."

He smiled as he handed her a typewritten list.

"You needn't be. I think we've turned the corner at last, and things are beginning to pick up. You've done wonders, Madge. But of course, if you are wise you'll continue to retrench for a while, and—if you'll forgive my saying so—in the right quarter."

"I know what you mean. You want to say that I've got an expensive family. . . . Is this what I can count upon, minus income tax?" She pointed to a set of figures at the bottom of the last column.

"That's about it, my dear."

"It's not nearly as bad as I feared from your last report. I shall manage and very nicely. Except, of course, for my expensive family, and I've been thinking a lot about them lately. I've been too fond and indulgent and let things run on just because I love them so much. It may be the wrong kind of love. But I've always wanted them to be happy, and Geoffry, especially——"

Alfred Barnes made an impatient gesture at mention of Geoffry Darmeny. He knew considerably more about that young man than Geoffry's doting aunt-by-marriage did, but Madge Darmeny was a woman to whom you can tell nothing she did not want to believe. She had to see with her own eyes and hear with her own ears before convictions seized her.

He interrupted her.

"Frank earns his own living, doesn't he? You don't make him an allowance, at least."

"O, Frank!" There was a ring of good humored derision in Madge's voice. "He calls it a living. But what do they pay schoolmasters, anyway? I don't know whether I like Frank or not. He never makes the slightest effort to soft-soap me, and of course I respect him for that. But I don't know anybody who gets my back up more than he does. And he ought to think of Leda and Betsy. He and Leda don't get on very well, I hear. She should have married Geoffry, and not a visionary like Frank."

"I wouldn't call him a visionary," said Alfred Barnes. "From what I've seen of Frank Darmeny—and heard of him. He might go far in his own field. Anyway, he doesn't cost you anything, and Geoffry does. You're making Geoffry a yearly allowance of three thousand, and a thousand goes to Leda, so she can have her flat in town and skip away from Frank as often as it suits her. Now what are you going to do about those two highly ornamental people?"

Mrs. Darmeny moistened her lips.

"I've thought about what I'm going to do," she said.

"You can't keep it up on that scale, you know," he said firmly.

"You're not dealing with a child. Moreover, I've come to the conclusion that I don't want to keep it up. Purely personal reasons, Alfred. Here are the summer holidays coming on, which will give them a chance to readjust their affairs."

"I wrote Leda a month ago that she was not to take on a new lease of her flat. I shall tell Geoffry that I'm reducing him to three hundred a year. They can all come here to live with me, and perhaps I'll get to know them better. Beechbourne is quite big enough to house them without any crowding. They always send Betsy to me for the holidays, anyway, and she need not go back to school. Shirley Westall can teach her. I don't believe in boarding schools for little girls, and always told Frank so."

"Of course, Frank will have to go back to Arlington when the autumn term commences, and by that time I hope Leda and he will have readjusted themselves. I shall urge her to do her duty, and return with him. However, much as I may or may not like Frank, I certainly do not approve of Leda as a wife, even if she is my own niece."

Alfred Barnes drew a sigh of relief.

"That proposed arrangement sounds very sensible, Madge. I hope it works, but you may have trouble with Geoffry."

"I'm not worrying over him," she said. "He's a darling, and he'll understand. Of course, I shall have to explain a little."

"I shouldn't—any more than you have to," Alfred Barnes said dryly.

"No, I won't. I loathe the whole business, and explanations never seem to ring true, somehow. I'll simply tell him that I want him to live here and learn to manage the estate, and that ought to give him a hint that some day Beechbourne will belong to him."

Mr. Barnes shrugged his shoulders and gave a little cough.

"It's a pity that Geoffry hasn't as yet made some effort to earn a spot of cash for himself. You'll forgive me, Madge——"

Mrs. Darmeny bridled.

"Now, be careful, Alfred."

"O, surely. But there are stories going around about him. He's always boning me to guarantee an overdraft. Always in debt."

"Poor boy!" breathed Madge.

Alfred gave her his wry smile.

"And there was some trouble with Grandet's, the Bond street jewelers, you know," he added sturdily. "I had to pull Geoffry out of that or there would have been the devil of a mess."

He paused, and his friend said encouragingly: "Do go on, Alfred. If you're going to tell tales on Geoffry, don't break off in the middle."

He shrugged again. "O, it was just a matter of a diamond bracelet—I saw the thing because he had to produce it to prove he hadn't pawned it. Made like a chain of daisies—quite pretty. For some woman, I suppose."

Madge Darmeny threw back her head and laughed heartily.

"You don't suppose I'd imagine Geoffry wanted a daisy chain bracelet to wear himself, do you?"

Mr. Barnes was offended.

"Very funny, no doubt. But he gave Grandet's a dud check for it—only a matter of twelve hundred pounds!—and came very near finding himself in Queer street. I told him if he ever did anything like that again, he would sink for all of me."

Mrs. Darmeny looked a little concerned.

"I am sorry I laughed," she said. "That was a very wrong thing for Geoffry to do. I wonder who the woman or the girl is?"

"I've been wondering, too," said Alfred Barnes. "Whoever she is she's been getting a devil of a lot of money out of him."

Good Morning!

"Tell it again!" seems to be a new slogan of the movie industry.

What was "One Way Passage" comes to us as "Till We Meet Again," and now "Alias the Deacon" enters for its third screen bow. In 1928 a film adapted from the play of the same name featured Jean Hersholt, June Marlowe, and Ralph Graves. In 1934 one appeared with Berton Churchill, Joel McCrea, and Sally Blaine as "Half a Sinner." Again we have a revision under the original title showing Bob Burns as the amiable scallawag who skillfully blends charity and matchmaking with his fleecing.

You first meet Deke Caswell as a card sharper at a carnival show. . . . The boot of the law speeds him away from there. . . . In a truck driven by that fine young fellow, Johnny Sloan, who has taken as passenger Phyllis, a maiden in distress, Deke arrives in a new small town. . . . The trucking supervisor—a stern but just man—forgives Johnny for carting Phillis, but when the truck disembowels Deke—whom Johnny didn't know was there—it's just too bad. Johnny gets fired. . . . From then on the fates of Deke, Phyllis, and John are curiously entwined, along with the fates of a lot of other small town folks, nice, naughty, funny, and otherwise. . . .

This is pleasant seeing. Mr. Burns, his usual genial self, bumbles about, shrewd eyed, honey-tongued, and resourceful, making his audiences very happy. Other players please.

The film is short, well directed, and has suspense and laughs to a mild degree.

See you soon.

The term "stew" is a quite inadequate name for a dish which can be a glorious example of culinary art. Pieces of meat dredged in flour and browned in butter or lard, simmered until tender with vegetables and seasonings, are a full meal and a delicious one. Some cooks make a specialty of serving them to guests and have won enviable reputations therefrom.

The recipes which follow all are queens among stews, and worthy of being served to the most discriminating of guests.

Irish Stew.

[Serves Six.]

2 pounds lamb from neck or breast
¼ cup flour
¼ cup butter
1 large onion, sliced
4 small carrots, sliced
2 turnips, cut in pieces
6 cups water
Salt, pepper
3 quartered potatoes
½ teaspoon thyme
½ bay leaf
Minced parsley

Have the lean lamb cut into pieces. Dredge with flour. Brown with onion in butter. Add carrots and turnips, cut in thick slices or pieces, and water. Add 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. More seasonings may be added later if needed. Bring to simmering and let cook, covered, for 2 hours. Add potatoes, thyme, and bay leaf, and cook until potatoes are tender. Serve with dumplings or not, adding minced parsley to each serving.

Oxtail Stew.

[Serves Six or More.]

2 oxtails, cut in inch pieces
Flour for dredging
Lard for browning
Salt, pepper
2 onions, sliced
2 turnips, sliced
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 green pepper, sliced
1 cup diced celery
1 bay leaf
2 whole cloves
½ teaspoon peppercorns
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 sprigs parsley
3 potatoes, cut in half

Dredge oxtail pieces in flour and brown in lard. Season well with salt and pepper. Cook onions in the hot fat while browning meat. Add other ingredients with exception of potatoes and cover with water. Simmer gently for several hours and add potatoes. Cook until potatoes are tender. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Lamb and Barley Stew with Tomato Dumplings.

[Serves Six.]

2 pounds lamb breast, cut in 2 inch pieces
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Flour for dredging
3 tablespoons bacon drippings or lard
1 cup barley
6 stalks celery with leaves
6 small white onions
6 small carrots

Season lamb with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Brown in hot fat. Add barley and water to cover. Cover and simmer slowly for 2 hours. Add celery, cut in pieces, onions, and carrots, and cook until the vegetables are tender.

Tomato Dumplings.

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
About ¾ cup tomato juice

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Add enough tomato juice to make a stiff drop batter. A cupful may not be too much. Drop batter on top of stew by spoonfuls. Cover the kettle tightly and let dumplings steam for 12 minutes.

Ideal House Frock Pattern

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

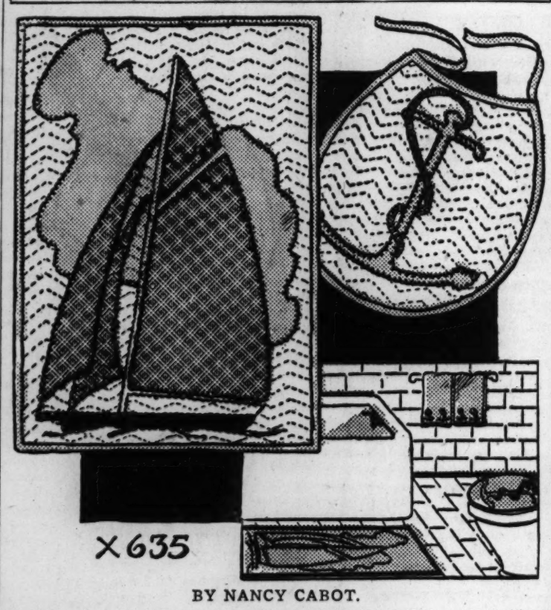
If you're not quite satisfied with the run-of-the-mill house frocks offered to you, perhaps you'd like to begin making your own. We suggest today's simple pattern as ideal for your first ventures in dressmaking. The style is beautifully tailored, so if you prefer to have a frock for informal daytime wear instead of exclusively for the home, this one will please you.

Use plain, striped, or floral cotton, linen, or washable silk. The shoulder is a smart button style, and has kimono sleeves, requiring no armhole fitting. Lines of the dress are princess, with a belt optional. Stitching may be the only trimming, or the shoulder outlines may have ruffling on them.

Style No. 2767 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material for either version.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Sailboat and Nautical Motifs



BY NANCY CABOT.

There is scarcely a more popular needlework motif than the sailboat and its accompanying nautical motifs. This graceful, 20 inch sailboat affords an attractive theme for the bathroom of a summer home situated on a bright blue lake. Curtains, pillows, and bedspreads may be decorated with this design with equal success. A smaller ship and four anchors also are included in the hot iron transfer design. This pattern is adaptable to applique and embroidery, or for hooked rugs as well as candlewicking.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the sailboat and nautical motifs, No. X-635, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

W. Steel have decided to be married on June 22 at Forest lodge, near Traverse City, Mich., the summer home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Fetcher of Winnetka. Only members of the immediate families will be present. Mr. Steel is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. L. Parsons Warren of Chicago.

Mrs. Milton Stern, the former Marion Binswanger, will be the only attendant for her former classmate at the Graduate Teachers' college of Winnetka. Sanger Steel will be his brother's best man.

Mr. Steel and his bride will go to Mexico and the southwest on their wedding trip. They will be at home next fall in St. Petersburg, Fla., where both will be on the faculty of the St. Petersburg Country Day school.

Marion Huntress Picks June 29 for Wedding.

Miss Marion Huntress and John Buskirk Palmer are planning a June wedding at St. Chrysostom's church. The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock the evening of June 29, the Rev. Dudley Stark officiating, with a reception following at the Union League club.

Miss Huntress, the daughter of Mrs. Gish Huntress of Chicago and Carroll B. Huntress of New York, will have her sister-in-law, Mrs. Douglas Huntress, and her future sister-in-law, Mrs. Jonathan B. Edwards of Hartford, Conn., for matrons of honor.

Mr. Palmer, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell Palmer Jr. of Jackson, Mich., will have his brother, William III. of Akron, O., as best man. Among the ushers will be Randall Barton of Detroit, whose engagement to Miss Jane Barton of Chicago was announced recently. Mr. Barton and Mr. Palmer were roommates at Amherst. Douglas Huntress, Jack Benton Huntress, and Carroll Huntress Jr. also will be among the ushers.

A whirl of parties for Miss Jean Lamson and Henry Erlandsen Hebbeln, who are to be married tomorrow, started when he arrived last week-end from San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Searles [Virginia Lamson] gave a dinner party Saturday night. The William Barkers of Highland Park, whose son, Robert Barker, is to be best man, entertained at supper Sunday evening. Miss Marie Swift gave a dinner last night, and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Lamson, are entertaining at dinner tonight.

Mural by Chicagoan to Be Dedicated Today.

Chicagoans are interested in the ceremony that will take place in the Library of Congress this afternoon, for a Chicago artist, Frances Buell Mullen, painted the mural that is to be dedicated. Mrs. Mullen is there, but neither her husband, James Bernard Mullen, nor her mother, Mrs. Charles C. Buell, was able to go to Washington for the event. Mrs. Mullen, who painted the mural in New York, is returning to her Lake Forest home immediately after the dedication.

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

"I hasten to point out that North's peculiar four spade bid was entirely inadvertent. North [yours truly] had misarranged his hands so that he thought he held four spades and five clubs. When he put them down on the table there was quite a snicker from both East and West, but it did not last long!

"West opened the diamond eight. The jack was put up and East's queen was taken by the ace. Declarer then laid down the spade ace, after which he shifted to the club queen. West naturally ducked and the queen held. Now the diamond king was cashed and declarer then led his third diamond, intending to ruff in dummy. At this point West hesitated for a moment, obviously considering whether or not he should ruff in with the queen. He decided against it and discarded a heart. This hesitation, of course, was very informative to South. West would not have hesitated if he had held either the ten or nine of spades—he would have been glad to use either of those cards to overruff the dummy. Hence it was pretty clear that his only high trump was the queen. The diamond was ruffed in dummy and dummy's remaining trump was returned. Declarer went right up with the king, then threw West on lead with the spade queen. You will notice that West now was pretty much up against it. He had to lead either from the A-Q of hearts or the king of clubs. He chose to exit with a club. Dummy's ten won, the ace was cashed, declarer discarding a heart, and then the club ten was led and passed, declarer discarding another heart. West took the king, but then had to concede South the king of hearts. I think you'll agree that this hand was pretty well played from declarer's point of view. J. S. P., New York."

I do, indeed, agree that declarer played the hand beautifully. It is interesting to observe that West's hesitation on the third lead of diamonds was the key to the entire play. This is as good a time as any to point out that such hesitations are fatal when the declarer is highly astute and can draw the correct inferences from them. In this case, it took no mind reading on South's part to realize that West's only reason for giving his play any thought was that he held the trump queen without the ten or nine. Holding either of those lower cards, he undoubtedly would have ruffed in, figuring that he still might make his queen even if the ruff reduced him to Q-x. The moment declarer discovered with reasonable certainty that the spade queen was not finessable, his course was clear, to keep throwing West in, to insure an eventual lead up to the heart king.

It may be needless to point out that West should have done more than hesitate about playing the spade queen on the third diamond—he should have played it! South's three no trump bid had virtually been testimony to the fact that he held two clubs. East, then, had started with a singleton and all West had to do to defeat the contract was ruff the third diamond with the spade queen and return a club for East to ruff. East would return a trump and declarer never would be able to ruff enough hearts to fulfill his contract.

Praise Is Given Young Violinist for Concerto

The program:

Overture to "Benvenuto Cellini"..Berlioz
Symphony No. 3, C major.....Sibelius
Concerto, A major, for violin...Karlowicz
Overture, "Cockaigne".....Elgar

BY CECIL SMITH.

In a program devoid of the contemporary novelties which usually punctuate the Illinois Symphony orchestra concerts, David Moll's performance of the virtually unknown violin concerto by Mieczyslav Karlowicz stood out as the high point. Viewed analytically, the concerto itself is hardly a work of superior merit.

It is a competently conceived example of the romanticism which lingered on into the early twentieth century [the concerto was completed in 1906]. It has a somewhat trite first movement, a grateful slow movement in the form of a free romanza with long and unbroken melodic eloquence, and a brightly colored, rhythmically vivacious finale. In musical worth it perhaps approaches the level of Dohnanyi and other belated romanticists.

But Mr. Moll's performance of the concerto gave it all the beauty and importance it could hope to have. The young violinist, a member of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, played with rapt concentration upon its musical values, and without a thought of bringing himself forward at the expense of the music.

The slow movement was one of the finest musical performances we have heard this spring, for the unfolding of its rhapsodic content was achieved with lustrous and vibrant tone, with genuinely aristocratic taste, and with instinctive feeling for accentuation and nuance.

The bright final movement was equally well played, in its vein. Mr. Moll now has a mature mastery of his instrument. He also is able to delight any discriminating audience by the simple sincerity with which he allows himself to be utterly and exclusively absorbed by an artistic aim.

Albert Goldberg opened the concert effectively with a well paced interpretation of the "Benvenuto Cellini" overture. The Sibelius third symphony was much less cogent. While no conductor can make the poorly designed finale come out right, Mr. Goldberg conducted the gracious middle movement without much refinement of style, and hurried the first movement until the rapid figures became unclear.

JOY COLE IN RECITAL

Joy Cole, soprano, gave a recital in Kimball hall last night assisted by her sister, Jane, a pianist. The soprano has overcome the handicap of blindness to learn a large and varied répertoire of songs. Those she sang last night displayed her conscientious regard for differences in style and her facile handling of foreign languages.

Her voice is moderately large, well projected, and dark hued with a tendency toward harshness. Her coloratura is much better than that of the average lyric soprano.

Health Care Important in Summer Camp

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Yesterday's column and today's are devoted rather fully to a description of the standards parents should expect a summer camp to measure up to, if they are making a selection for their child.

Yesterday, points covering medical care were listed. Today we'll go on from there:

[2] Thoro physical examination should be given to campers and staff members not longer than one week before coming to camp. An examination one month before, giving time for remedial work and FOLLOWED by an examination within 24 hours of departure, is preferable.

[3] Daily health inspection of all campers need not be formal, but should be thoro. Counselors should work under guidance of the person in charge of the health program, and report unusual conditions immediately.

[4] Sufficient rest should be provided according to age and physical requirements of campers.

[a] The night sleep should meet requirements according to campers' ages. If children of different age groups are in camp together, provision should be made for earlier bedtimes for younger ones.

[b] Daily rest periods should include at least an hour after the midday meal, when children are required to remain lying down and no activities are allowed; quiet periods of 20 minutes to one-half hour before dinner and supper.

[c] The daily program should allow for individual differences and should achieve balance of quiet and vigorous activities not exceeding energy levels of campers.

LEST WE FORGET

To the Nation as a whole, Memorial Day is the time when we honor our soldier dead. To the family it is, also, the first holiday of the season, when outings and family reunions are in order. To the housewife Memorial Day means holiday appetites that must be satisfied—and, incidentally, one of the heaviest food-consuming weeks of the whole year.

And, lest you forget, this year a week-end follows Memorial Day. It's an added reason why a delicious Wilson's Tender Made Ham should be your chief Memorial Day purchase. Served hot for dinner—sliced cold for suppers—sandwiches—snacks—it will pay you well in satisfaction and economy.

George Rector
Food Consultant Wilson & Co.

WHAT A SAVING!

Because there is little or no oven-shrinkage to Wilson's famous Tender Made bone-in Ham, you do not lose those two or three paid-for pounds that ordinarily disappear in the cooking.

At present market prices, this saving is equivalent to the cost of the rest of the meal for a family of four. It will purchase, for example, about 2 pounds of new potatoes, 2 pounds of fresh asparagus, a head of lettuce and a quart of strawberries for dessert. No wonder the thrifty housewife prefers Wilson's Tender Made Ham—it's sheer economy!

There is only one Tender Made Ham, made by Wilson's Secret Process. No other ham is quite so tender, no other ham has the same delicate, irresistible flavor. Ready to eat just as you buy it. Look for the Wilson trade-mark and the distinctive yellow wrapper—they are your assurance that you are getting genuine Tender Made Ham.

Planked Ham Steak

An oak plank is a smart and simple way of serving the main part of a dinner. A large, flat oven-proof platter may be used instead.

Bring a 1- to 1½-inch Tender Made Ham steak to room temperature. Score fat with a sharp knife. Brush lightly with melted Clear Brook Butter. Place under the broiler flame for 5 minutes. Turn and broil 5 more minutes. Transfer to slightly heated plank or platter. Place a bunch of cooked asparagus along upper side of the steak. At each end arrange halves of canned pineapple. Surround with a border of mashed sweet or white potatoes, sprinkle with chopped parsley. Brush asparagus and potatoes with melted Clear Brook Butter. Return to broiler until potatoes are a golden brown. Garnish. Serve immediately. Serves 4 or 5.

LITTLE'S 134 LEADS CHICAGO QUALIFIERS FOR OPEN

Mangrum Is Second with 68—70—138.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

William Lawson Little Jr., a young man who has nudged a golf ball around in his time, demonstrated yesterday he's still a fair hand at the business by shooting an elegant 134, eight under the combined par for the No. 1 and No. 4 courses of the Olympia Fields Country club.

That would be a tidy figure, even in fun, but the Bretton Woods professional was in earnest, as were 137 other golfers who played 36 holes at Olympia Fields yesterday in an effort to earn places in the National open golf tournament.

Little's performance put him at the head of the 17 Chicago district qualifiers for the main event, to be played June 6, 7, and 8 at the Canterbury club near Cleveland. It also stamped the husky Californian as a man who can wheel around a golf course in a manner to command respect in any field.

Five Under Par on No. 4.

His morning round of 65 on the No. 4 course not only was five under par, but also one stroke better than the course record of 66, made two years ago in the same trials by Dick Metz of Oak Park. His afternoon feat of 69 on the No. 1 layout was three under par. And his 134 will stand as the best 36 hole card ever hurled at Olympia's two top courses.

Long recognized as one of the game's greatest mudders, Lawson found the heavy going to his liking. For play was heavy, despite the absence of the cloudbursts native to national open trials in Chicagoland. The test was one of the best conducted in the history of the Chicago District Golf association. Tournament Chairman Ted Quinn and Secretary Joe Davis of the C. D. G. A. had the playoff for the five alternate berths under way shortly after 7 o'clock last evening, something of a record in itself.

The only man in the field even to approach Little's pace was slender Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, who fired a 68 at the No. 4 course and then leveled a 70 at No. 1 for a qualifying total of 138. Big Jim Ferrier, the Australian who holds his country's open and amateur titles, was third in the field with a 74—71—145 on No. 4 and No. 1, respectively.

Justice Has Her Inning.

There may have been a measure of justice in Little's great rounds yesterday. The lad who won the American and British amateur titles in successive years, a feat not even Bobby Jones ever accomplished, turned professional four years ago. He planned to qualify at Olympia Fields that year, but at the last minute changed his mind and elected to seek a place in one of the New England sections, in order to be near the headquarters of the sporting goods firm which first employed him. He didn't make the grade there, whereas he probably would have done so with ease here, since there were more places available in Chicago that year.

Heading the detail of those who failed to crowd in among the 17 who will go to Cleveland next week were Art Doering of Medinah; Alvin [Butch] Krueger of Beloit, and Chick Evans of Edgewater. Evans, winner of the open crown, 1916, needed a 157, while Doering, national amateur semi-finalist last year, and Krueger, who led the 1935 trials at Olympia Fields, took 152s, one over the qualifying limit of 151.

Doering and Krueger were both in-

Lincoln Fields Daily Double Returns $415

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Barbara S. and Air Play, a pair of selling platers, which had come in from the deep south and the far west respectively, collaborated in a $415 daily double in their first starts at Lincoln Fields yesterday. Barbara S., a 5 year old mare owned by Clyde Troutt, had been running at the New Orleans Fairgrounds during the winter and hadn't been to the post since March 1. Air Play, a 3 year old gelding, which is the property of Mrs. Lonnie Copenhaver, had been campaigning without success at Tanforan.

Those who held daily double tickets on this pair underwent anxious moments during the second and third races, both of which were six furlong sprints. They were well pleased to see Barbara S. get away well, but immediately they grew apprehensive at seeing Lady Thirteen take command going into the turn and open up a lead of two lengths by the time they hit the stretch. Lady Thirteen, however, had quit so often that few were surprised when she began giving way in the sticky footing.

Disposes of Two Rivals.

Shelby Clark, apprentice jockey, brought Barbara S. up once again under a hard drive. At the eighth pole, Barbara S. was in front, but a new menace had developed. This was Say Judge, which had come on swiftly after encountering a bit of trouble on the turn. It took only a few more strides for Barbara S. to dispose of Say Judge. But her troubles weren't over yet. Another of her rivals, Peter Pumpkin, was closing swiftly. Clark went to work harder than ever and landed Barbara S. at the finish line winner by the margin of a neck.

The daily double ticket holders got just as big a thrill out of the finish of the next race, because Air Play lasted just long enough to win by a

HOGAN'S FAILURE BIGGEST UPSET IN OPEN QUALIFYING

Willie Turnesa and Burke Also Rans, Too.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

While Lawson Little made news for what he did in the Chicago qualifying round of the National Open yesterday, Ben Hogan made news for what he didn't do in the New York district.

The native Texan, registering from White Plains, N. Y., failed to qualify in the biggest surprise of a day in which 139 from a field of 1,100 stroked their way into the Open, which will be played over the Canterbury course near Cleveland, June 6 to 8.

Hogan, who finished second to Craig Wood in the Metropolitan Open Sunday and who was one of the sensations of the winter circuit, shot a 150 yesterday. This was 10 strokes over the low New York district score turned in by Al Brosch. Willie MacFarlane, 1925 Open champion; Willie Turnesa, 1938 national amateur winner, and Ray Billows, last year's amateur runner-up, also missed out in New York.

Billy Burke Fails, Too.

Billy Burke, winner of the Open in 1931, failed to get by at Cleveland, another big district, but two veterans were successful there. Gene Sarazen, who had to take his chance in the qualifying round for the first time since 1920, and Walter Hagen both shot creditable scores. Johnny Goodman, Tony Manero, Johnny Farrell, and Sam Parks Jr., all former Open winners, qualified easily. Goodman, also a former amateur champion, was five under par with a 139 at Omaha.

30 Automatically Qualify.

Exempted from today's sectional tests because they were among the low 30 at last year's Open were Byron Nelson, Craig Wood, who lost to Nelson in the 1939 title playoff; Marvin [Bud] Ward, 1939 amateur champion; Sam Snead, John Bulla, Ralph Guldahl, Dick Metz, Ky Laffoon, Harold [Jug] McSpaden, Paul Runyan, Harry Cooper, Ed Dudley, Henry Picard, Horton Smith, Sam Byrd, Olin Dutra, Clayton Heafner, Wilford Wehrle, Jimmy Hines, John E. Rogers, Tommy Armour, Jimmy Demaret, Johnny Revolta, Bobby Cruickshank, Jim Foulis, E. J. [Dutch] Harrison, Mat Kowal, Victor Ghezzi, Ed Oliver, and Felix Serafin. Waldo Crowder, the pro at Cleveland's Canterbury club where the big tournament will be played, also was exempt.

FRANCE PLANS TO RUN GRAND PRIX; NO SPECTATORS!

PARIS, May 27 (AP).—A horse race without spectators may be run in France.

Public sports events have been banned because of the war but the government is considering the possibility of running the Grand Prix in private because the most important of the French national lotteries is based on this turf classic.

The race has been set tentatively for June 29 at Longchamps. If it is held then, the horses will battle it out with only a few attendants on hand.

Don Canham of Oak Park Elected Michigan Captain

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 27 (AP).—Donald Canham of Oak Park, Ill., today was elected captain of the University of Michigan's 1941 track team, succeeding Ralph Schwarzkopf of Saginaw, Mich. Canham, a junior, is Western conference outdoor high jump champion and co-holder of the indoor title.

I Wish I Knew.

How much of life is accident,
How much of it design?
Just how much have we to say
Of your life or of mine?

Remember the night I met you first
I'd planned to duck a party,
And stay at home and read a book—
Go a little "arty?"

But suddenly I changed my mind,
I went—and there were you,
Was that design or accident?
I often wish I knew.

A sudden impulse to cross a street
May change our life for aye,
And how many things have come to pass
Thru plans changed by a rainy day?

That bus you missed by a second
May alter your whole career,
That letter you once forgot to mail
Caused many a bitter tear.

How much of life is accident,
How much of it design?
We plot and plan, my little man,
Then life gives us the "Indian sign!"

WHITE SOX BEAT BROWNS; RETURN TO FIRST DIVISION

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 27.—Ted Lyons, tho shoved around a little at times, this afternoon led the White Sox back into the first division of the American league in the opener of the four game Chicago-St. Louis series. The Sox won, 7 to 5, in a contest in which Ted yielded nine hits to the Browns and made three himself as his contribution to the Chicago hit total of 15. The Sox took over fourth place from the Senators, who lost to the Yankees.

It was the second victory over the Browns in five games this season, both of which Lyons has won. It also was Ted's third victory of the season and his 224th as a Comiskey employé.

Everybody in the Sox lineup made at least one hit, except Luke Appling. Bob Kennedy had two doubles and a single, Lyons a double and two singles, Mike Kreevich a triple and a single, and Taft Wright and Larry Rosenthal two singles each.

Sox Start in a Hurry.

The Sox got the scoring started after two were out in the second inning. Rosenthal walked with one down, went to second while Alan Strange was throwing out Eric McNair, and scored on Mike Tresh's single to center. Lyons put Tresh on third with a single, after which Kennedy doubled to right, Tresh scoring. Kuhel then flied to Myril Hoag.

The Sox defense was a trifle fuzzy in the second. Joe Kuhel, McNair, and Wright allowed Hoag's pop fly to plunk among them for a double. Harlond Clift lined to Rosenthal, then Hoag reached third and Don Heffner first on Appling's low throw. Bob Swift's fly to Rosenthal brought Hoag home. Jack Kramer walked, but Strange flied out.

Kramer Drives in a Run.

After Lyons had wasted his second hit, a double, in the fourth, his pitching opponent, Kramer, knocked a double which caused trouble. With one out, Heffner singled to left and after Swift flied out, Kramer doubled to left, scoring Heffner. Tresh blocked Rosenthal's throw to the plate, whereupon Lyons picked up the ball and threw it into center field trying to trap Kramer off second. The Brownie pitcher went to third on the error, but the inning ended with Strange's fly to Kreevich.

Rosenthal opened the four run sixth with a single to center and McNair followed suit. The pair advanced on Tresh's sacrifice. Lyons deliverec his third hit, a single, Rosenthal scoring, and Kennedy biffed his second double, McNair scoring. Roxie Lawson replaced Kramer and walked Kuhel, loading the bases. Kreevich popped to Strange, but Wright singled to center, scoring Lyons and Kennedy. Then Appling tapped to George McQuinn.

Ted Throws His Home Run Ball.

Lyons encountered trouble at the start of the seventh, which Swift opened with a single to left. Lyn Lary batted for Lawson and submitted the first strikeout of the afternoon. Joe Grace, just recalled from Springfield, Ill., of the Three-Eye league, batted for Strange and knocked a homer over the right field pavilion, scoring behind Swift. Walter Judnich tripled off the right field wall and scored while McNair was throwing out McQuinn. Rip Radcliff lined to Wright to close the inning.

Newsom and Tigers Defeat Indians, 6 to 1

Cleveland, O., May 27 (AP).—Detroit's Tigers collected 10 hits off three Cleveland pitchers tonight, beating the Indians, 6 to 1, before 25,000 fans in Cleveland's first game under the lights this season. Buck Newsom's nine strikeouts and Hank Greenberg's home run into the left field stands in the seventh provided the contest's principal fireworks.

Only blight on the Tiger conquest was a knee injury suffered by Second Baseman Charley Gehringer, who retired in the sixth after being struck by a pitched ball two innings earlier. Teammates said he was not badly hurt.

Detroit opened its offensive in the third, Dick Bartell singling in Billy Sullivan who had doubled for the Tigers' first hit. Bruce Campbell's double and Mike Higgins' single, coupled with a wild throw and Gehringer's free pass to first after being struck, added two more in the fourth; Greenberg's homer accounted for one more in the seventh, and Sullivan's second double, two singles, and an outfield fly provided another pair in the ninth. ROWING LEADERS ENTHUSED OVER TRIBUNE REGATTA

It's a Sport Schoolboys Need, Coaches Say.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Leaders in intercollegiate and club rowing thruout the nation are watching with interest the development of schoolboy rowing in Chicago, given an impetus by the annual Chicago Interscholastic regatta, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the Lincoln Park Boat club. Youngsters from five city high schools in both senior and junior divisions will compete in championship races that headline the two hour free program June 9 on the Lincoln park lagoon.

Al Ulbrickson, coach of the University of Washington crew, which stopped off in Chicago last year en route to the Poughkeepsie regatta, sees this sport as filling a long wanted need of certain types of youngsters.

Fills Need for Many.

"There are so many boys of high school age who do not have the temperament to play football, nor the coordination of muscle to be performers in basketball, baseball or track, who will find an ideal physical outlet in rowing," he recently wrote Lincoln Park Boat club officials.

"This," he continued, "is the prime reason we started a rowing program in Seattle. Most of the rowing will be done this summer during the high school vacation period to give the youngsters a chance to burn up excess energy under the right kind of guidance and eliminate a lot of delinquency."

Ulbrickson says plans are progressing in Seattle, seat of the University of Washington, for boys from nine high schools to row on Green lake, in the center of the city. Civic organizations helped raise funds to construct a boat house and floats. The university supplied several old boats.

Callow Sounds Warning.

"I think it is wonderful the way you fellows in Chicago have developed high school rowing in the last few years," is the word from Ky Ebright, coach of the University of California crew.

The same sentiments were expressed by Russell S. [Rusty] Callow, coach of the University of Pennsylvania crewmen. He added a warning note that teaching the rowing art to schoolboys is "a grand thing, providing they do not get to demanding subsidization if they go to college."

Henry Penn Burke of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, also has sent a congratulatory letter to Chicago officials.

"I was glad to learn you are sponsoring rowing in your city among high school lads," he wrote. "It is a great sport for the youngsters. With the cooperation of several Catholic high schools we have built up a fine program in Philadelphia.

Sponsors in Philadelphia.

"Each rowing club in the city sponsors one school and the lads are carefully selected for the competition. Many later continue rowing in either university or club. We owe much of the success of our Penn Athletic club in winning national, Canadian, and Olympics titles to the new blood brought in from the high schools."

An enthusiastic response has come from officials in several middle western cities and towns, who have been told of plans to form a Central States Schoolboy Rowing association. Invitations have been sent to high school and rowing authorities to attend a meeting on Sunday morning, the day of the regatta, to discuss plans for such an association. The meeting will be held in the Illinois Athletic club.

ing out a bunt and was sacrificed to second by Hack, but the bats of Herman and Galan failed to speak.

The Cubs' power in the sixth, when they scored their second pair of runs, was mainly vertical. Leiber led off with a single thru short. Nicholson hoisted a fly over short right center, the ball dropping for a single between Lake, Slaughter, and Moore. G. Russell was successful carrying out orders to bunt, after which the bases were loaded by an intentional pass to Todd. Mattick hit a vertical single in short left, the ball landing safely before Medwick could reach the spot, Leiber and Nicholson scoring. Passeau then fanned and Hack rolled to Orengo.

Herman Starts Production.

The seventh inning foray against J. Russell was started on a single to left by Herman. Mize did the Cubs a favor by booting Galan's grounder. Leiber's effort was a fly to Medwick and Nicholson did his bit by walking, filling the bases. Russell singled to center on the first pitch, Herman and Galan scoring. Nicholson was nipped trying to go from first to third on the hit. Todd then walked and J. Russell completed his one inning of unsuccessful toil on Mattick's fly to Moore.

Although six Cubs shared in the eighth inning bat swinging against White, there was only one hit. Passeau led off with a walk and was forced by Hack, who went to second while Herman was grounding to Mize. Galan singled to center and Hack skipped home. Leiber was awarded a more or less intentional pass and Nicholson popped to Orengo.

Vern Olsen, the Cubs' freshman southpaw, will be given another test today in the second game of the series with the Cardinals in Wrigley field. The young man's only other big league start was at New York, May 18, and the Giants were rather rough on him. For an opponent, he'll draw either Lon Warneke or Max Lanier.

Gene Lillard, the ex-Cub, is seeing America. Last winter the Cubs traded him to the Cardinals, who optioned him to Los Angeles, which subsequently returned him to the Cardinals. Yesterday Lillard was given orders to join Rochester in the International league.

Fresh rumors yesterday revived the two week old yarn that the Cubs will land Eddie Miller, the Boston Bees' flashy shortstop. Reports that the deal had already been closed for $100,000 and Shortstop Leo Merullo, now on the Cubs' farm at Tulsa, Okla., were promptly denied by P. K. Wrigley, Cub owner, but he did acknowledge for the first time that he had negotiated with the Boston club.

"The Boston club wants far too much money and I don't believe the deal can be made," declared Wrigley.

Mighty Medwick Misses

DODGERS TRADE ROY CULLENBINE FOR GALLAGHER

St. Louis, Mo., May 27 (AP).—Joe Gallagher, husky outfielder, was traded by the St. Louis Browns today to the Brooklyn Dodgers for Roy Cullenbine, the outfielder who cost them $25,000. Cullenbine was one of the Detroit players declared free agents by Commissioner K. M. Landis last year, and the Dodgers signed him after outbidding several other clubs.

The Browns obtained Gallagher from the New York Yankees.

The latest averages show Gallagher, a right handed hitter, is batting .279, while Cullenbine, a switch hitter, is at the low mark of .180. He started brilliantly for the Dodgers, but fell into a slump and has been on the bench recently.

GIANTS TO END TRIP.

The American Giants return home this week for two double-headers at Thirty-ninth and Wentworth, meeting the Birmingham Black Barons Thursday in Negro American league competition and playing the Miami Ethiopian Clowns Sunday.

PLAY TWO TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 27.—Jack Knott and John Rigney are scheduled to start the games for the White Sox in tomorrow's double-header. Vern Kennedy and Bob Harris will start for the Browns. It will be the first double-header of the year for the Sox.

It will take 50 crowds like the Browns and Sox drew today to equal the turnout at the first St. Louis night game last Friday.

Reds Win Two, 2-1 and 7-3, but Stay in 2d Spot

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 27 (AP).—In championship stride, the Cincinnati Reds won twice over the last place Pittsburgh Pirates today, 2 to 1 and 7 to 3, but failed by four percentage points to tie the Brooklyn Dodgers for the National league leadership, altho half a game ahead in games won and lost.

After getting off to an unsteady start in the first game, Mace Brown pitched masterful ball for the Pirates, allowing only two hits in the final eight innings. Singles by F. McCormick and Ernie Lombardi scored two runs in the first inning, all the Reds needed to win.

Tuskegee Enters Central Meet, but Loses Ellerbe

Milwaukee, Wis., May 27 [Special].—Tuskegee institute of Alabama today filed its entires for the Central collegiate track and field meet here, June 7, but Conrad M. Jennings, Marquette athletic director, announced that Mozelle Ellerbe, national college sprint champion, would not be permitted to compete. Ellerbe, who won the 100 yard dash at the Penn relays this year, is in his fourth season of intercollegiate competition and, therefore, is ineligible to participate in the Central and N. C. A. A. meets.

DiMaggio, Keller Each Hit Home Runs.

New York, May 27 (AP).—The Yankees and the Washington Senators matched four hits today, but the world champions made theirs good for a 5 to 0 victory, their fourth in the last five games. Spud Chandler, the youthful right hander, yielded nothing but widely spaced singles and gave only one walk in achieving his second triumph against three losses.

In contrast Charley Keller and Joe DiMaggio hit home runs and Lefty Ken Chase walked four consecutive batters for a run in the third. Keller's homer closed the scoring with two on and two out in the eighth after Newton [Bucky] Jacobs took over the pitching for Washington. Score:

14 MORE AUTOS QUALIFY; FIELD NOW TOTALS 33

Indianapolis Race Trials to End Today.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27 (AP).—A full field of cars was assured today for the 28th running of the Indianapolis motor speedway 500 mile race Thursday as 14 drivers successfully negotiated their 10 mile qualifying tests, bringing the total to the maximum 33.

The qualifiers included two French soldiers—Rene Dreyfus and Rene Lebegue—and the Argentine champion—Raul Riganti—but tonight it appeared the Frenchmen might be shoved out of the starting lineup by faster cars.

Two Frenchmen Menaced.

Four or five cars are expected to make their qualifying runs tomorrow and, under speedway rules, only the 33 fastest may start the race. At least three speedsters still unqualified are expected to exceed the 118 miles an hour registered by the Frenchmen today.

At the annual dinner of the "100 Mile an Hour" club tonight, some of the veteran drivers who already have qualified proposed that the starting field be increased to 35 to take care of the Frenchmen if they were eliminated tomorrow. The plan was rejected.

Lebegue qualified at 118.981 miles an hour and Dreyfus at 118.831. Only one car has qualified to date at a slower speed. It was the mount of Louis Durant of Herrington, Kas., which qualified at 117.218.

Swanson Averages 124 M. P. H.

Cars driven by Lloyd Davies of Springfield, Ill., Billy Devore of St. Johns, Kas., and Tony Willman of Milwaukee are believed capable of going better than 120 tomorrow.

Riganti, driving a new Maserati, is safe in the starting field with a qualifying speed of 121.827 miles an hour. Bob Swanson of Los Angeles, at the wheel of a 16 cylinder car, showed the highest speed today, reeling off his 10 miles at 124.619.

Six of the drivers who qualified today never before have competed in an Indianapolis race. They are Dreyfus, Lebegue, Durant, Paul Russo of Kenosha, Wis.; Joe Chitwood, Cherokee Indian from Topeka, Kas., and George Robeson of Los Angeles.

Two Chicagoans in Fold.

Two Chicagoans—Emil Andres and Duke Nalon—were among the 14 who completed tests today.

The drivers who have not yet qualified will receive their final chance tomorrow between the hours of 10 a. m. [C. S. T.] and 5 p. m. The track will be closed Wednesday to place it in condition for the race.

Little's 65 Tops Qualifiers at Olympia Fields

volved in the twilight playoff for the four alternate berths, which will be awarded in the event that some of the 17 qualifiers decide not to make the trip to Cleveland. Ed Wysowski, Kewanee professional, won the first alternate's berth on the first hole, and Doering took the second place on the second hole. Frank Flegel of St. Andrews, West Chicago, will be the third alternate and Krueger the fourth.

Chicago was allotted, along with New York, 17 places in the Cleveland party. To these 17 who were low in yesterday's 36 holes at Olympia Fields were to be added nine Chicagoans who made the first 30 and ties in the 1939 tournament.

The select group included John Bulla, unattached; Ralph Guldahl, unattached; Metz, Harry Cooper of Northmoor; Horton Smith of Oak Park; Wilford Wehrle of Tam o' Shanter, one of the two amateurs to make the first 30 at Philadelphia; Tommy Armour of Medinah, John Revolta of Evanston, and Jimmy Foulis of Ruth Lake.

Little Cards 11 Birdies.

Little's card showed 11 birdies, six of them in the morning over No. 4 and five in the afternoon on No. 1. His putting was exceptional, especially in the morning, when he needed only 14 strokes on the first 12 greens. But he was hitting the ball with more than the putter, as demonstrated on two holes in the afternoon 18. A drive and a spoon brought him to the green at the 493 yard ninth, and a brassie and a No. 1 iron enabled him to negotiate the 468 yard 18th, each hole producing a birdie.

Vinciquerra, Pleasant Win at Marigold

In a third event, set for eight rounds, Henry Wacker, local heavyweight, stopped Willie Muldune, also an erstwhile Golden Gloves champ, after 2 minutes 56 seconds of fighting in the first round.

The show was the shortest ever held in Marigold. Knockouts in four of the five bouts reduced the program of 36 rounds to nine rounds, which took only 1 hour 15 minutes.

Billy Seward, Ingomar, Mont., lightweight, stopped Ralph Guajardo in the second round to score his 17th knockout in 26 contests. George Amorine, Newark, N. J., middleweight, beat Jack Carter of the south side in a four round emergency fight.

The Muted Cry.

Spring's gentle breezes blow across each mound—
Like dancing ghosts they flutter on the ground,
Then move along in sudden ecstasy.
The pale moon from the sky's deep treasury
Sends golden gleams down on them everywhere—
On sleeping lovers once so young and fair,

The low wind's sighing is the muted cry
That comes in springtime from long silent lips,
With a deep poignancy whose throbbing grips
The heart of one who hears it with a sigh
While thinking this: "Beside them let me lie
When life slips from my eager fingertips.

Anglers Move on Minnesota to Greet Bass

BY BOB BECKER.

Bass fishermen of the middle west are going to assemble in southern Minnesota tomorrow for a concerted attack against both the small and large mouth bass, two of the most highly prized game fish in this country. This is about the earliest possible date for the black bass fishermen to have any fun with their favorite species in northern lakes, because Wisconsin, Michigan, and the northern half of Minnesota do not permit bass fishing until June.

Minnesota is under a zone system in fishing, with the state divided into northern and southern zones. Tomorrow's opening is for bass, crappie, yellow bass, rock bass, perch, and sunfish in the southern half of the state. Anglers in the northern half of Minnesota can't do their sharpshooting at these species until June 21.

How State Is Divided.

The dividing line between the zones runs from a point near Brown's Valley on the western boundary, easterly thru the state thru St. Cloud, Sauk Center, and on to Taylor's Falls on the eastern boundary. Minnesota has a limit of 15 crappies per day, while one may take six bass daily and have 12 in possession.

The white bass fishing in the Wolf river from Oshkosh up thru Winneconne, Fremont, Gill's landing and Weyauwega should continue for several days because this year's run is late. The fish hit rather spottily last week when the wind was in the wrong quarter and then they began to take lures without any hesitation. Many fishermen were able to catch their limits of 25 per day without much trouble. It was noticeable that for a couple of days the fish weren't active around Winneconne. But according to the latest reports they still are moving up the river thru that town and giving fishermen plenty of action.

40 Pound Muskie Landed.

Minnesota is off to a good start in the muskie fishing with one lucky fisherman bringing in a 40 pounder to start the competition. It is one of the largest muskies that has been reported this season, altho Wisconsin soon will be heard from, inasmuch as the Wisconsin muskie season opened last Saturday.

The 40 pound Minnesota muskie was caught in Pike bay, which adjoins Cass lake near the town of that name. Reports from many points in the north country indicate that a spell of warm weather should help all the fishing [including wall-eyes], for the season has been late in the lake country.

The Story of My Fall from a $37.50 Cutie

to a $24.95 Special

It's outrageous the way these businessmen have no regard for price-class at all. Yesterday I was known as the "American-made Candid Camera That Gives You Everything," including:

Coupled range finder to get your pictures in focus every time—Speed shutter from 1 to 1-1250 second that snaps 18 to 36 pictures in black and white or natural color on a roll of 35 mm. film—Built-in exposure meter—Interchangeable F:3.5 lens—Built-in flash synchronizer—and a sleek chrome and leather body that won a dozen beauty contests.

And now—just because my master wants to make my charms available to everyone, I have been reduced from a proud and well-deserved $37.50 to a miserable $24.95. Please, sir, come in and save me from the clutches of my heartless master.

"I Get Boiling Mad when folks FREEZE beer so the flavor can't be appreciated"

Richard Seibold, MEISTER BRÄU BREWMASTER

DRINK BEER at 50 degrees and taste real beer flavor. Then I know you'll join the thousands who prefer our Old-Time Brew

MAYBE I'm too fussy about serving beer at the right temperature. But ice-cold beer is wrong. There's no use putting the finest grains in a brew just to have the flavor over-chilled so you can't recognize it. We might as well add sugars or syrups and save time. We might as well add artificial gas when we bottle instead of using only natural draft beer carbonation created in the beer itself.

Beer flavor, good or bad, shows up at about 50 degrees. If you want to know what kind of beer you're drinking, drink it at 50 degrees. That means, take an ice-cold bottle out of the refrigerator and let it stand until it's the proper temperature.

Do that and you'll never again say, "Give me a bottle of Beer." You'll know it pays to ask for Meister Bräu. For 49 years we've made a beer for the 50-degree drinkers—the beer cranks. Order Meister Bräu today and I'll stake my reputation on your verdict if you make the "50-degrees" test.

PETER HAND BREWERY COMPANY, Chicago

Thousands have switched to MEISTER BRÄU after making this "50-Degrees" Test

Use an ordinary food thermometer such as you can get at a ten-cent store

LINCOLN FIELDS MUDDERS RETURN $415 IN DOUBLE

head. Sunny Swede went out from the starting gate as tho he were going to make a runaway of it. Approaching the far turn he had opened up a lead of five lengths. Then the muddy going and his quitting tendency asserted themselves so suddenly that he slowed down to a canter half way around the lower bend.

Air Play Just Lasts.

The race then developed into a struggle between Jerry Rae and Alwiser, Air Play still being quite a way back. On the swing into the stretch, Jockey Herb Litzenberger brought Air Play to the outside and started a drive that landed him in front at the eighth pole. As he drew clear, his backers became jubilant, but consternation struck them again as Some Polly, which had come from far back, began closing the gap by several feet at every stride. Air Play had just enough left to get to the finish line.

Not only the daily double players, but also those who backed this pair individually, collected substantial returns. Barbara S. paid $19.40 to win, $8.60 to place, and $7 to show. Tickets on Air Play were worth $25, $8.40, and $5.40. Track conditions were so difficult that both races were run in very slow time, Barbara S. requiring 1:19 and Air Play 1:20 3-5 for the six furlongs.

Clark came back to ride the winner of the fourth race, G. B. McCamey's Easy Flying, and the Copenhaver stable completed a double victory when Johnny Adams brought in Our Haven in the fifth.

Tho Easy Flying was quoted at more than 8 to 1, she won like an odds-on favorite by a margin of three lengths in a five furlong dash for 2 year olds of the $2,500 class. Our Haven's victory, which was scored by the margin of a nose, was in a six furlong event for $1,000 platers.

BARBARA S., away fast, and having speed was taken over the rail to assume command, responded to strong urging after reaching the last three-eighths, and was driven out in the stretch. SAY JUDGE and withstood PETER PUMPKIN'S bid. Latter outrun early, began to move up after reaching the last three-eighths, where he saved much ground, stood a drive courageously but could not reach SAY JUDGE, well up after the opening quarter recovered quickly from interference on the stretch turn, made a bid under strong handling but weakened in the last 50 yards. TORO PLAY, badly outrun to the final eighth, came with high speed thereafter.

AIR PLAY, steadied when outrun, and brought to the outside in the stretch, bore over repeatedly when wearing down the leaders and weakened badly after taking command, but lasted. SOME POLLY allowed to run on the turn, also came out in the stretch, closed fast and with determination under good hand riding, and was rapidly wearing down the winner. ALWISER, a factor from the start and in hand for a half mile, was put to good pressure in the stretch and held on well to the last sixteenth, where she weakened.

EASY FLYING, well up from the start and eased back a little before going to the outside on the stretch turn, responded with good speed to take command when straightened up in the stretch and won with something left. MENTAL BANKER, sluggish the early part, settled into better stride after three-sixteenths, stood mild pressure the final quarter and was holding on well at the close. VAIN GROVE had speed, was in close quarters briefly on the turn, came again when clear, but could not keep up the last three-sixteenths.

OUR HAVEN, hustled into contention at a loss of ground, raced wide thruout, responded to strong urging after reaching the stretch and got up in the final stride. NEW DISCOVERY, reserved early, moved forward when ready, established a big lead after subduing PANIC RELIEF but weakened rapidly in the last stages and failed to last. WILD PIGEON raced wide early, was sent in the inside for the drive and tired. PANIC RELIEF took command at once, drew clear under hustling tactics, gave way when challenged and weakened rapidly after a half mile.

HAT CHECK in close quarters early, improved his position thru the field, responded to strong handling after reaching the stretch, wore VIRAGIN down in the last stages and won drawing away. VIRAGIN hustled along from the start, drew clear after racing MELVA JANE into submission, was unable to hold the winner and weakened rapidly near the end. DECOURCY began slowest of all, improved his position on the outside and closed strongly.

PLAN SPENDING 200 MILLIONS ON DEFENSE TOOLS

Morgenthau Tells Year's Program.

Washington, D. C., May 27 [Special].—The government informed the machine tool industry today that it may expect $200,000,000 of business in the coming year as a result of the new national defense program. This does not include tools which may be needed to build aircraft to be used in civil pilot training.

Secretary Morgenthau.

The industry, which makes the precision machinery and tools used to produce modern machines of war, sent a committee here to call on Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, who is directing the mobilization of the aircraft and machine tool industries for their parts in the defense program.

Secretary Morgenthau told his press conference that the meeting at which members of the army and navy munitions board presented the tool manufacturers with the $200,000,000 estimate, was preliminary in nature. It was estimated that the industry is now geared for annual business of about $385,000,000.

Confer with Experts.

After receiving the tentative estimate of orders the industry committee spent much time conferring with army and navy experts. Tomorrow the committee will meet with other representatives of the industry at Dayton, O., preliminary to reporting back to Morgenthau next Monday.

They then will be prepared to state how long it will take to produce the needed tools and what, if any, government financial aid will be needed, spokesmen said.

The army and navy experts, Secretary Morgenthau told reporters, told the industry representatives how many gear cutters, millers, boring machines, lathers, planers, and other types of tools would be required.

As for the machine tool representatives, the secretary said, "their attitude was splendid."

"Did they assure you they'd grant priority to the government's business?" he was asked.

"I took it for granted," he replied.

Details Up to Industry.

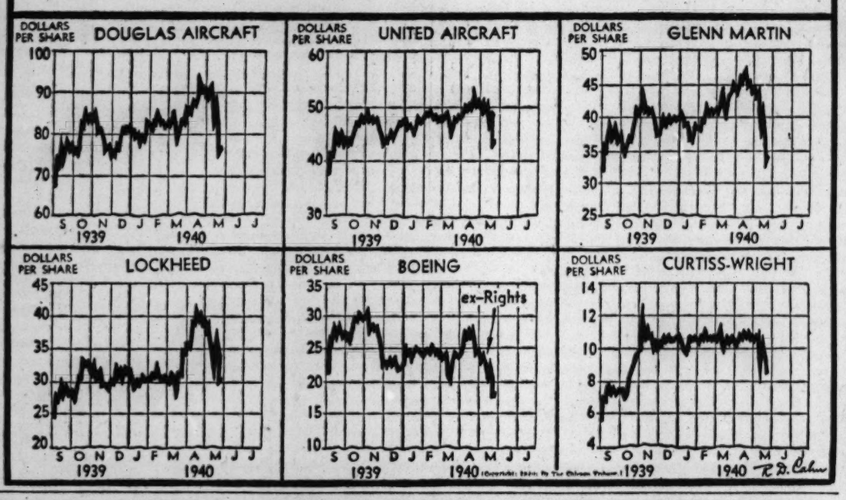
On the other hand, he said he "never attempted to tell a fellow how to run his business" and would leave the details of working out the production program to the industry.

"We are confident of our ability to meet the requirements with his [Morgenthau's] coöperation," said Clayton Burt, president of the Pratt & Whitney Aviation company. "We intend to get our teeth into this thing."

Others who conferred with the secretary were Till Berna, general manager of the National Machine Tool Builders association; Charles J. Stillwell, president, Warner & Swasey company, Cleveland; Howard W. Dunbar, vice president, Norton company, Worcester, Mass.; Norman D. MacLeod, president, Abrasive Machine Tool company, Providence, R. I., and John E. Lovely, vice president, Jones & Lamson Machine company, Springfield, Vt.

They constituted a special committee of the National Machine Tool Builders association.

Aircraft Stocks Since the Outbreak of the War



Order 8 Million Expansion at Airplane Plant

Hartford, Conn., May 27 (AP).—The first major expansion move by the aviation industry since formulation of the national defense program was disclosed today in an announcement by United Aircraft corporation that it will spend $8,000,000 for additional facilities for its Pratt & Whitney division.

Eugene E. Wilson reports big expansion.

The proposed new construction will be started immediately at East Hartford on a site adjoining the present plant, according to Frederick B. Rentschler, United Aircraft chairman, and Eugene E. Wilson, president.

Defense Plan a Factor.

Rentschler asserted that "the needs under the expanded national defense program as well as increased orders for engines for the allies were the factors responsible for the decision" to build the new factory.

Production capacity of the Pratt & Whitney division, which specializes in aircraft engines, has been tripled in a little more than a year. The new addition, the company said, will provide for an increase in monthly capacity to about 1,200,000 horsepower from the current level of about 850,000 horsepower monthly.

"After full completion of the present program," said the company's announcement, "more than $20,000,000 will have been added to the original plant account of the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft division. The greater part of this total has been provided thru French and British contracts for the purpose of accelerating deliveries. The program is in line with the policy announced and encouraged sometime ago by Mr. Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury."

Aircraft Stock to Be Sold.

Washington, D. C., May 27 [Special].—The Timm Aircraft corporation of Van Nuys, Cal., today filed with the Securities and Exchange commission a registration statement for 215,835 shares of $1 par value common stock. The company makes training planes and parts for other airplane manufacturers.

The shares are to be offered to company stockholders at $1 a share.

Proceeds of the financing will be used for the retirement of notes and accounts payable, for the purchase of machinery and equipment, and for working capital.

Shares Are Offered.

New York, May 27 (AP).—Public offering of about 100,000 shares of common stock of Eastern Air Lines, Inc., at $30.75 a share was announced today by a syndicate headed by Smith, Barney & Co. The stock represents the unsubscribed portion of 110,909 shares originally offered stockholders at $32 a share.

REGISTER ISSUES IN MILLER & HART CAPITAL REVISION

Miller & Hart, Inc., Chicago pork packing company, yesterday filed registration statements with the Securities and Exchange commission for securities to be issued under a capital readjustment plan.

The statements covered $581,300 of 6 per cent debentures, 86,458 shares of prior preferred stock, $10 par; 172,916 common shares, $1 par, and certificates of deposit to be issued for outstanding debentures.

The plan provides for the extension of the maturity of outstanding debentures due in 1943, to July 1, 1950. Holders of convertible preference stock will be offered two shares of new prior preferred stock and four shares of new common for each share held. The plan calls for reclassification of present no par common stock into $1 par common on a share for share basis.

Postpone Freight Hearings on Containers Due to War

Chairman A. H. Greenly of the railroads' freight classification simplification committee announced yesterday the canceling of scheduled hearings on reclassification of fiber board and fiber board shipping containers, scheduled for June 4 in New York, June 11 in Chicago, and June 18 in San Francisco. Greenly said cutting off of pulp imports from Norway and Sweden imposed so many readjustment problems on the domestic paper board industry that it was felt advisable to postpone the hearings.

Seven Shippers Recognize Canadian Seamen's Union

TORONTO, Ont., May 27 (AP).—Seven companies have indicated their willingness to recognize the Canadian Seamen's union as a bargaining agent, Justice C. P. McTague said today. He is chairman of the board of conciliation inquiring into a dispute between the shipowners and Great Lakes seamen.

STOCK EXCHANGE SEAT IS SOLD FOR $43,000; LOWEST IN 25 YEARS

New York, May 27 (AP).—Bearing the lowest price tag in 25 years, the sale of a membership in the New York Stock exchange was arranged today for $43,000. No lower price has been paid for a seat on the big trading floor since 1915, when one sold at $38,000.

Previously this year memberships have brought as much as $59,000, and in 1929 there was an instance of a membership sale for $625,000, the highest ever paid.

An official of the stock exchange said he understood the member selling his seat had accepted the offer without negotiation and had not been particularly interested in price.

CHICAGO PRICES LOW.

In the last membership transaction on the Chicago Board of Trade the price was $1,500. The highest price a membership on the board ever brought was $62,000 in 1929. The last sale of a seat on the Chicago Stock exchange was also for $1,500, compared with a high selling price of $110,000 in 1929 [before the membership was doubled].

BILL TO EXTEND MARKETING PACT LAW ADVANCED

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—Legislation by Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] to extend the operation of agricultural marketing agreements to all agricultural, dairy, and horticultural products was reported favorably today by the senate agriculture committee. Only seven types of products are now covered by the marketing agreement act.

The only exception made in the extension was that it should apply, in the case of apples, only to those grown in Washington, Oregon, and Idaho.

Products now included in the act are: Milk, fruits [not including fruits for canning, except olives], tobacco, vegetables [not including those for canning, except asparagus], soy beans, naval stores, and northwest apples.

CARRIER SPENDS 39 MILLIONS IN YEAR IN ILLINOIS

The Illinois Central railroad disclosed yesterday that of its $84,301,471 in major expenditures last year, $38,907,140 was disbursed in Illinois and $17,525,496 of this in Cook county, the greatest amounts for any state or county. Of the 31,665 employés, 7,123 were located in the county and 14,269 in the state.

Pay roll accounted for the largest of the expenditures in both Illinois and Cook county, amounting to $25,560,064 and $13,612,092, respectively. A comparison of the expenditures follows:

	Cook County.	Illinois.

Further progress toward placing in effect the reorganization plan of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway was reported yesterday to Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Attorney E. S. Ballard on behalf of the reorganization managers disclosed that the final draft of the first mortgage plan of the new road had already been completed and that negotiations are in an advanced stage in regard to provisions of the general mortgage.

Canadian Dollar Recovers, but British Pound Sinks

The Canadian dollar was the strongest of the foreign currencies yesterday. It closed at 79⅝ cents, 1⅜ cents higher than on Saturday. Trading in the British pound was light and the price was down ¾ cent to $3.19¼. The French franc also was weak and closed 0.005 cent lower at 1.81 cents. The Swiss franc rose 0.02 cent to 22.42 cents.

Federal Barge Lines Operate at Loss in '39

Operations of the Federal Barge lines by the government-owned Inland Waterways corporation in 1939 resulted in a net loss of $299,949, compared with net income of $1,105,450 in 1938, Chester C. Thompson, president and chairman, reported yesterday to Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins. The barge lines operate on the Mississippi river and tributary waterways.

Chester C. Thompson.

Thompson attributed the loss to a drop of revenues when shipping was suspended or reduced in the last four months of 1939 because of low water, and to a strike by employés from April 24 to May 15, 1939. In addition to the loss of revenue, the corporation was required to pay $27,000 because of the low water and $14,000 because of the strike for diversion of freight to other carriers.

Pay Under Agreement.

The corporation last year also paid $176,315 to employés as their share of 1938 profits, as required under the strike settlement agreement. Added to operating costs was $104,000 for the cost of leaves to day and hour employés in terminals and to unlicensed boat personnel granted under the agreement.

Thompson noted that he was in charge of barge operations for only six weeks of 1939, having replaced Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn on Nov. 15. Thompson said he had effected economies in that period which would reduce expenses by about $85,000 a year. The corporation will save $15,000 a year thru the sale of the yacht North Star, he said. The yacht was formerly used as a traveling office for executives of the corporation.

Freight Tonnage Declines.

The report indicated that three tow boats were in service on the Illinois river between Chicago and St. Louis from March 5 to Nov. 10, when a fourth was added.

The $12,000,000 capital stock of the corporation, $10,352,235 in premiums on capital stock, and corporate surplus of $2,340,048 represent the government's investment. Because it is government owned the corporation does not have to pay taxes.

MEXICO ORDERS ECONOMIES TO PAY OIL DEBTS

MEXICO CITY, May 27 (AP).—A far-reaching reorganization of the government oil industry was directed today by President Lazaro Cardenas to effect economies designed to enable Mexico to pay "just" indemnities for the expropriation of foreign oil companies in 1938.

The president instructed the oil administration to carry out the following measures "with the greatest possible speed":

1. Eliminate all unnecessary jobs.
2. Reduce wages of all employés making more than 70 pesos [about $11.65] a month and eliminate all overtime work and wages except in emergency.
3. Reduce the number of temporary workers.
4. Create no new jobs and cease filling vacancies where possible.

INVASION CUTS APRIL EXPORTS BY 27 MILLIONS

Scandinavian, Dutch Trade Hard Hit.

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—The impact of war developments on American business was shown today in a department of commerce report that exports declined $27,000,000 in April, with the heaviest decrease in Scandinavian and Dutch trade.

Flight of capital from threatened European countries was reflected in a treasury announcement that during February—for the first time in 10 months — foreign investors bought more American securities than they sold. They increased their holdings by $3,879,000.

Shipments from the United States to the Scandinavian nations fell from more than $19,000,000 in March to less than $4,000,000 in April, while exports to the Low Countries dropped $3,000,000.

Exports 324 Millions.

The volume of exports [including re-exports] still was high compared with a year ago, however. It totaled $324,000,000.

Altho the decline in American purchases of goods abroad was scarcely more than a seasonal letup. April exports exceeded imports in value by $112,000,000.

Exports of raw cotton — totaling $21,000,000—were only one-third of the January figure, which was unusually high. Cotton exports still were more than twice as large as they had been a year ago.

Foreign buying of American tobacco, wheat and flour, oats, dried fruits and canned vegetables fell off, too—leaving agricultural exports for April $12,000,000 less than in March.

Foreigners bought fewer American motor trucks and steel mill products in April, but aircraft shipments rose to $22,000,000. Metal working machinery gained $3,000,000 for the month.

More Rubber Purchased.

There was an increase in the volume of American purchases of crude rubber, raw wool, undressed furs, and ferro-alloying ores.

Swiss investors accounted for one-fifth of the $49,110,000 purchase of American securities by foreigners during February. The Netherlands had net purchases of $1,081,000, and the remainder of Europe took $1,010,000 of securities.

Under pressure of war purchases, however, short term balances in the United States declined $3,183,000 to $2,991,556,000 at the end of February. The net inflow of capital continued during the month, altho at a slower rate. The net increase was $12,027,000, compared with $37,595,000 in January.

Britain Is Heavy Seller.

Heaviest sellers were Great Britain, which disposed of $9,212,000 net, and Canada, which sold $1,565,000 net.

The United Kingdom reduced its short term balancer thru war purchases by $27,864,000 to $376,587,000. This brought the net reduction for the first six months of the war to $217,910,000.

French ready funds declined $2,111,000, while those of Belgium, Norway, and Switzerland increased. Declines were shown for Denmark, Finland, and Sweden. Japanese short term funds fell by $7,152,000 to $50,817,000.

Shipload of Oats Arrives

Canadian Oats Brought In to Fill Contracts

The first Canadian oats received in Chicago since 1934 were being unloaded yesterday at the Northwestern elevator, East 122d street and Torrence avenue, for Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis grain dealer.

Carrying 378,000 bushels of No. 2 and No. 3 white oats, the steamer Riverton docked at the elevator Saturday. The grain was shipped here from Fort William, Ont.

Wyman W. Fitzgerald, vessel broker and grain trader, said the oats were brought in to help cover May contracts in the grain outstanding at the close of trading May 22.

According to Fitzgerald, there were 669,000 bushels of May oats contracts outstanding last week and the cash grain supply was far short of the amount needed.

Canadian oats have been underselling American oats in New England by 2 to 4 cents a bushel for several months.

Depreciation of the Canadian dollar in terms of United States currency, heavy supplies of superior Canadian oats, and a less than normal supply of domestic oats have been factors contributing to increased imports, according to cash grain dealers.

United Air Lines Adds Two Daily Flights to New York

New morning and midafternoon flights from Chicago to Cleveland and New York were announced today by United Air Lines, effective June 1. AUTOISTS MAY FOREGO NEW MODELS TO HELP AIRPLANE PRODUCTION

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—The American public may have to forego new model automobiles for the 1942 season, Secretary of the Treasury Henry A. Morgenthau Jr. said today, to make more machines available for building airplanes and other defense weapons.

Morgenthau told reporters that an offer to continue production of 1941 models thru the following year already had been made to him by one of the largest manufacturers, believed to be General Motors. The secretary assured the public that new models would be available for 1941.

After conferring with manufacturers of machine tools—basic machines in both automobile and airplane production—he said he believed the automobile industry could get the tools necessary for changing from 1940 to 1941 models within the next month, before demands for the aviation industry gained headway.

"It is in the public interest," Morgenthau said, "to let the automobile people complete their re-tooling.

STEEL INDUSTRY BOOSTS OUTPUT TO 76.9 PER CENT

Steel mills of the nation will operate at 76.9 per cent of capacity this week, the highest rate since the week of Jan. 29, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday.

The industry operated at 73 per cent last week, 61.8 per cent a month ago, and 52.2 per cent a year ago. From a 1940 low of 60 per cent in the week of April 22 the rate has climbed 16.9 points, or 28.17 per cent, in the intervening five weeks.

BRITISH ORDER LIMITS IMPORTS OF U. S. COTTON

Requires Licenses After May 30.

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—The British Board of Trade tonight prohibited the importation of cotton from the United States and other nonallied countries except under a license in a new move to conserve dollars and shipping space for war requirements.

The order becomes effective May 30. It applies to raw cotton, cotton linters and waste, and yarns and thread wholly or mainly of cotton.

It was explained that since the outbreak of the war imports of raw cotton from the United States have been particularly heavy — nearly 1,900,000 bales from August to mid-May, or more than for the whole of any recent year.

"Compelled" to Cut Imports.

Britain was said to be "compelled" to reduce next season's imports. Future imports will be discussed in talks with United States authorities.

The blanket order applies to all countries, but cotton from any part of the British empire, France, and French possessions, Egypt, and Anglo-Egyptian Sudan would be admitted under an open general license.

Doubt Pork Export Rise.

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—Altho the English have been cut off from continental European markets, American pork producers were advised today they could expect little increase in British purchases before late this year or early in 1941.

The invasion of the Netherlands blocked Britain's last important nearby source of pork products. Previously, the seven countries of Denmark, Sweden, the Netherlands, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, had supplied about 65 per cent of the United Kingdom's imports of bacon and hams.

List Three Reasons.

The department of agriculture today listed three reasons why Britain's being cut off from these supplies will not increase American exports immediately:

1. Arrangements have been made to get sharply increased supplies of bacon from Canada and frozen pork from New Zealand and Australia.
2. British pork production at present is relatively large. Short feed supplies have caused a heavy slaughter.
3. Prospects that the United Kingdom will purchase more beef from South American sources in 1940 than in 1939, and more lamb from New Zealand.

New York Bonds.

New York, May 27 (AP).—War scars were less noticeable in the bond market today as volume contracted sharply and rails, utilities, and United States governments extended recent modest recoveries.

Closing fractions to about 2 points higher were Southern Railway 6½s, Wisconsin Central 4s of '49, Alleghany corporation stamped 5s of '50, Delaware and Hudson refunding 4s, Nickel Plate 5½s, Western Union 5s of '60, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s. Most treasury issues improved 2-32ds to 9-32ds in quiet trading.

Foreign loans again recorded wide and uneven swings, and Canadian issues were weakest among the British empire groups, with some losses of as much as 3 points. Those of Belgium, Australia, Denmark, and Germany moved ahead. Italian and Japanese bonds retreated fractions to around 1½ points.

200,000 TRUCKER WORKERS RULED UNDER WAGE ACT

Supreme Court Divided 5 to 4 in Decision.

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—A 5 to 4 United States Supreme court decision held in effect today that the working hours of an estimated 200,000 employés of motor carriers—excluding drivers—were subject to the wage-hour law.

Justice Stanley Reed.

In a decision written by Justice Stanley F. Reed, the court sustained a contention by the Interstate Commerce commission that its power to regulate the hours of service of motor-carrier employés applies only to those whose duties affect safety of operation.

Suit Brought by Truckers.

Both the I. C. C. and the wage-hour administration took the position that all other employés were subject to the fair labor standards act.

The American Trucking Associations, Inc., of Washington, D. C., had won a District of Columbia court decision on its suit to compel the commission to prescribe maximum hours of service for all employés of common and contract motor carriers subject to the 1935 federal motor carrier act. Today's opinion reversed this ruling.

The I. C. C. has authorized a 60 hour work week for drivers. The fair labor standards act, administered by the wage-hour administration, provided a work week ranging from 44 hours the first year of its operation to 40 hours beginning next Oct. 24.

SEC Upheld in Decision.

The court upheld, 5 to 3, a contention by the Securities and Exchange commission that a corporation with securities held by the public may readjust its indebtedness only under chapter 10 of the federal bankruptcy act which "provides detailed safeguards designed to protect the interests of public investors."

Justice Stone delivered the decision.

The United States Realty and Improvement company of New York City had instituted proceedings under another section, chapter 11, which the SEC said "provides merely a rudimentary system of creditor control designed for the corporation which has only trade and commercial creditors."

Refuse Utility Suit Review.

The Supreme court refused to review a decision dismissing litigation brought by the Inland Gas corporation charging the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation with violating the Clayton antitrust act and seeking $52,666,926 damages. Columbia was alleged to have substantially lessened competition by purchasing control of the capital stock of Inland.

Both the federal District court and the federal Circuit court at Philadelphia had dismissed the suit on the ground that it could not be prosecuted, because more than three years had expired since the alleged antitrust violation.

MEMBER BANK LOANS TO BUSINESS DECLINE 20 MILLIONS IN WEEK

A resumption of the downward trend in loans made by banks to commerce, industry, and agriculture was reported by the federal reserve board yesterday for the week ended May 22.

The volume of such loans stood at $4,394,000,000 at the end of the week, a decline of $20,000,000 from a week earlier. In the week ended May 15 an increase was reported for the first time in several weeks.

OPTICAL FIRM OFFICIALS FINED IN TRUST CASE

New York, May 27 (AP).—The Bausch & Lomb Optical Co. and three of its officers pleaded no defense today and were fined $10,000 each on a charge of violating antitrust laws. Attorney Whitney N. Seymour said his clients would consent to the entry of an injunction restraining them from violating the law, but that they did not admit any actual wrongdoing.

The government announced last Friday that it had reached an agreement with the company whereby an alleged Germany-controled monopoly in the manufacture and sale of precision instruments such as rangefinders, gun sights, and bomb sights, would be broken up.

As a result, Great Britain and France will be able to buy such instruments in this country. The individual defendants were M. Herbert Eisenhart, president of Bausch & Lomb; Carl L. Bausch, and Theodore B. Drescher, vice presidents.

ANOTHER UTILITY SEEKS SEC PLANS ON INTEGRATION

Washington, D. C., May 27 [Special]. — Counsel for the Commonwealth and Southern corporation today demanded that the Securities and Exchange commission divulge its plans for integration of the corporation's utility properties under the "death sentence" clause of the holding company act.

The demand, similar to those of several other major utility systems, was made at the opening of a public hearing on the SEC integration order.

J. R. Whiting, counsel for the company, contended the order failed to comply with the constitution and the holding company law because it did not disclose "what determination, if any, the commission has made" with respect to company properties.

BUSINESS HOPES STIMULATE RISE IN STOCK PRICES

Offset Worries of War as Market Influence.

New York, May 27 (AP).—Leading stocks turned upward today as hopes for domestic business tended to offset war worries. Gains of favorites ran to more than 2 points in the forenoon, but selling in the final hour reduced these in most instances. Steels, aircrafts, and coppers were most popular.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held a net advance of 0.7 of a point at 38.8, the largest gain since April 3 and 1.1 points above the year's low. Transfers of 791,260 shares were the smallest since May 8.

News from European battle fronts continued confusing, but traders derived some encouragement from indications the beleaguered allies were putting up strong resistance to the onslaught of the Nazis.

"Fireside Chat" Bullish.

The President's "fireside chat" was regarded moderately bullish inasmuch as it indicated private manufacturers would be expected to supply

Sale of a stock exchange seat for $43,000, off $7,000 from the last transaction to a new bottom since 1915, served to cool sentiment.

Steels were benefited by the estimated rise of 3.9 points in this week's mill operations to the highest level since late January, altho the increase had been predicted. Belief the aircraft makers were in for a long period of capacity business aided this group. Stiffening quotations for copper propped the metals.

Many Issues Advance.

On the upside at the finish, altho some were under the day's tops, were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Sperry, Sears Roebuck, General Motors, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, American Telephone, du Pont, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, United States Gypsum, Santa Fe, and Chesapeake and Ohio.

New York Shipbuilding preferred bounded up 30 13-32 points to 134 1-32 when directors voted to call the issue at 110 and accrued dividends of $24.50. The stock had not sold since last Tuesday. The common was up 2⅝ at 20.

Up fraction to 3 on the curb were Aluminum of America, Gulf Oil, American Gas, Humble Oil, and International Petroleum. The turnover was about 123,000 shares, against 138,000 last Friday.

REPORT NEW WAY OF REFINING LOW GRADE IRON ORE

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 27 (AP).—Discovery of an electrostatic process of recovering 2iron ore from low grade ore deposits was reported today by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

G. W. Penney, research scientist, said that under present methods of recovery commercial iron ore must contain at least 50 per cent iron to justify its transportation and use. He declared experiments with the new process "indicated that an appreciable percentage of iron still remaining in discarded ore can be economically separated."

He declined to disclose details of the development, but stressed "the possibilities of increasing the productive output of the nation's ore deposits."

900 REGISTERED FOR 50TH ANNUAL BANK MEETING

The 50th annual convention of the Illinois Bankers' association will open today in the Palmer House and continue thru tomorrow. More than 900 registrations were made yesterday.

John W. Hanes, former undersecretary of the treasury and former member of the Securities and Exchange commission, and Dr. E. A. Goldenweiser, director of research and statistics for the board of governors of the federal reserve system, are among the scheduled speakers.

Hanes, who resigned his treasury post last January to return to private business, will speak at the annual dinner tonight. Goldenweiser will speak tomorrow on "What About Our Hoard of Gold?"

Court Approves $680,000 Payment by North Western

The Chicago and North Western railway yesterday was authorized by Federal Judge John P. Barnes to pay to the Reconstruction Finance corporation $680,000, representing the last four notes on a Public Works administration loan made to the road before it began bankruptcy proceedings. The payment will restore to the road collateral consisting of $1,350,000 of bonds and $50,000 [par value] of stock of the Escanaba, Iron Mountain and Western railroad.

Traction Bonds Rise on News of Merger Plan, Then React

An early bulge in the prices of Chicago traction company bonds yesterday in the unlisted market was leveled around noon by profit taking and closing trades generally were slightly below those of Saturday. Trading in the bonds was increased by the settlement of the 13 year squabble between the city and representatives of the transit companies over the terms of a new unified franchise ordinance.

Dealers in the traction securities said that Saturday's swift climb in the market was typical of the movement of these bonds. Negotiations between the city and traction company representatives have been the chief factors influencing prices of the bonds.

Prices Follow Negotiations.

At each of the several times during the last year that it appeared a settlement was near, traders said, interest in the issues revived quickly, bringing a rise in prices. When negotiations were deadlocked or seemed to have failed prices reacted.

Most activity was in the bonds of the surface lines companies, especially in the senior securities, which usually pace the market. The first mortgage 5s of 1927 of the Chicago City Railway company and the Chicago Railways company climbed to a high of 48 yesterday morning, lost more than three points in the reaction, and closed around the low for the day, with a net loss of ½ point.

C. C. & C. R. 5s Off ½ Point.

Chicago City and Connecting Railway collateral trust 5 per cent bonds due 1927 rose to a high of 8 and closed at 7, a loss of ½. Chicago Rapid Transit first and refunding mortgage 6½s of '44 were among the few issues which closed higher than on Saturday. The 6½s of '44 were ¼ up at 5¼.

The following table compares closing prices of certain Chicago traction bonds yesterday, Saturday, last Monday, and a year ago:

NEVADA PROTEST DELAYS BOULDER DAM FISCAL BILL

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—An unexpected last minute Nevada objection delayed action today on legislation to readjust the fiscal setup of the Biulder dam development.

The protest forced the house irrigation committee to postpone action to Friday. Wednesday is the last day on which application may be filed with the rules committee for a rule giving the measure legislative right-of-way on the house floor.

C. F. Dearmond, engineer for Nevada's Colorado river commission, said Clark county interests objected to elimination from the bill of language stating that payment of $300,000 each annually to Nevada and Arizona was to be "in lieu of taxes" the states would have collected had the Boulder project been privately built.

"They are afraid," Dearmond said, "that the bill as it now stands discriminates against Clark county and possibly affects the county's ability to levy certain taxes."

STEEL COMPANY TAX REFORM AID ASKED BY C. OF C.

More than 50 executives of steel companies in the Chicago area were urged yesterday by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce to join its drive for a five point reform of Illinois' tax structure.

O. E. Mount, chairman of the chamber's taxation committee, outlined the tax modernization program to the executives at a luncheon meeting in the Chicago club. He urged: [1] a uniform system of accounting and periodic audit of public expenditures of local governing units in the state; [2] reduction in the number of local governing units in the state; [3] classification of real and personal property for the purposes of taxation; [4] revision of assessment methods for more uniform procedure and equitable valuation and [5] enforcement of existing budget laws.

Mount said the chamber of commerce is conducting a state-wide educational campaign on the state's antiquated tax system, preparatory to carrying its plan to the state assembly.

TWO COMPANIES OPPOSE NEW SHIP TO SHORE PHONES

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—Opponents of establishment of a radio telephone station at Rogers City, Mich., told a federal communications commission hearing today that the facilities were not needed.

John Barron, Washington, consulting engineer for the Donnelley Radio Telephone company of Mackinac Island, Mich., said that the Donnelley station at Mackinac Island could cover a radius including Rogers City.

The Donnelley company and the Lorain County [Ohio] Radio corporation are opposing the application of the Central Radio Telegraph company of Rogers City for permission to install the Rogers City station. The applicant company has asserted the new station was needed to provide adequate ship to shore service on the Great Lakes and to protect personnel on ships.

WHEAT DECLINES ABOUT ONE CENT ON WAR SELLING

Winnipeg Leads Downturn in All Markets.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr.ago.
Wheat	$ .84	$ .84⅛	$ .78⅛
Corn	.63¼	.63¼	.51⅜
Oats	.33⅜	.34⅛	.33⅛
Rye	.46⅞	.47⅛	.53
Soy beans	.89½	.89½	.91¼

Wheat prices were on the downgrade yesterday, headed by the Winnipeg market which had showed strength on Saturday. Unfavorable reports from the Belgian war front dominated the trend and many operators who bought futures late last week were selling out on the way down. Closing prices on the Chicago Board of Trade were at losses of ⅞ to 1 cent a bushel. Winnipeg wheat futures were 1¼ to 1⅜ cents lower.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to pressure, closing unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Oats lost ¼ cent, and rye was ⅝ to ¾ cent lower. Soy beans finished unchanged to ¼ cent higher. The July delivery of beans closed at the minimum price for the fourth consecutive day.

Harvesting Started in Texas.

Harvesting of winter wheat is under way in the southwest. A wagonload of new grain was delivered at Olney, Tex., late Saturday. Rains fell over the week-end in parts of the southwest. Chicago statisticians will issue estimates on the winter wheat crop on June 4.

Trading in grain futures has fallen off materially and a large part of recent business has been liquidation of futures holdings, brokers said. The number of uncompleted contracts in wheat futures when trading started yesterday was 76,840,000 bushels, a decrease of 1,492,000 bushels as the result of Saturday's trading.

Ship Corn to Montreal.

Large shipments of government owned corn are being made from Chicago to Montreal for export to the United Kingdom. Over 2,500,000 bushels cleared from here last week, resulting in a reduction of 4,239,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply.

Oats declined about ½ cent a bushel in the early trading as the result of the arrival of the steamer Riverton here with a cargo of 378,000 bushels of Canadian oats. There are only 953,000 bushels of oats in Chicago elevators, altho there are uncompleted contracts for 669,000 bushels of May oats.

Butter and Egg Futures Higher in Quiet Trading

Egg futures gained 0.10 to 0.15 cent a dozen in quiet trading yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Receipts were 9,000 cases larger than a week earlier. The government bought 724,000 dozens in New York and Chicago in its price pegging program. November butter futures gained 0.05 cent a pound.

GROUP CHARGES $500,000 BOOST IN COST OF COAL

Washington, D. C., May 27 (AP).—The Bituminous Coal Consumers' Association of Virginia assailed proposed minimum coal prices today, contending the schedule would impose upon it a $500,000 annual burden in excess of costs warranted by the coal act.

Arthur L. Winn Jr., arguing for the association, questioned whether the report was prepared by the bituminous coal division examiners who heard the testimony.

Charles S. Rhyne, on behalf of the city of Detroit, complained to Director Howard A. Gray that the examiners failed to resolve Detroit's protest. "I searched," he said, "the 4,000 word report in vain for a mention that Detroit even appeared in this proceeding."

BROWN SHOE CO. REPORTS LOWER SIX MONTHS' NET

Hecla Mining Has Profit Gain for Quarter.

Brown Shoe company, a leading company in its field with an output of about 17,000,000 pairs of shoes annually, yesterday announced a decline in profits for the six months ended April 30. Hecla Mining company, fifth largest lead producer in the United States, reported a higher profit before depletion charges for the March quarter of this year than for the corresponding 1939 period.

Brown Shoe's six month net income was $248,737, equal to $1.01 a common share. In the corresponding period a year earlier it earned $282,337, equal to $1.14 a share. The company has nearly a score of plants in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Tennessee, and New York. The main office is in St. Louis, Mo.

Lead Producer Earns More.

Profit of Hecla Mining amounted to $175,194, equal after depreciation but before depletion to 18 cents a share on the capital stock. In the March quarter of 1939 net profit before depletion was $44,570. After depletion, the company had a loss of $21,834 in the 1939 quarter. Depletion charges are based on the amount of ore extracted during the period.

Hecla's properties are mostly in Idaho. In addition to lead the company produces silver and some zinc.

Commnwealth and Southern corporation issued a report covering earnings for April and the four months ended April 30. April profit was $1,336,986, compared with $1,340,352 in the 1939 month.

For the four month period net income rose to $5,710,521, equal after preferred dividend requirements to 8 cents a share on the common stock. This compared with profit of $5,427,791, or 7 cents a share, in the first four months of last year.

Plants Venture Out.

May 27, 1940.

TENDER flower and vegetable plants, some of them started more than two months ago in the greenhouse and kept inside until there is no longer any likelihood of frost, will be planted in the open gardens at the Du Page county farm this week. Some will be started from seeds sown in the open.

Vegetable seeds to be sown include squash, cucumbers, watermelons, muskmelons, and green and lima beans. All these are crops that need warm weather. Tomato plants from the greenhouse will be set out. Tomatoes are more tender than most other garden plants and are likely to be injured by late frosts if set too early.

Flowers to Be Sown.

Seeds of zinnia, marigold, centaurea, cosmos, nasturtium, baby's breath, and other tender annual flowers will be sown. The gardeners have found that there is not much advantage in starting these plants in the greenhouse, since the blooms appear only about a week to 10 days later when the seeds are sown in the garden.

All these annuals will be sown in rows instead of in beds. This will make it easier to cultivate the plants, which are used primarily for cut flowers. The seeds never are broadcast, even when sown in beds; they are planted far enough apart for the plants to be cultivated.

Tuberous rooted English begonias that were started in the greenhouse early in March will be set out in shaded places where they will have protection from the sun for at least six hours during the middle of the day. These fine flowering plants do well on the north sides of shrubbery borders if there are not too many roots from the shrubs in the surface soil. They are easily scorched if exposed to the hot sun.

The semperflorens types of begonia were successful last year as edging plants in full sun, but they require a lot of water. The ground had to be kept moist all the time. The plants were mulched with either decayed manure or peat moss to help hold moisture.

A Rock Garden Plant.

Another good edging plant last year was the nierembergia hippomonica. It did well in full sun and was not affected by disease. Some of the plants from the greenhouse will be set out this week. The gardeners think this is a fine plant for rock gardens.

Summer lilacs, tender flowering shrubs, were planted out last week. The plants are dug up each fall and stored over winter in a frostproof basement.

These shrubs are relatively new, but are becoming more common each year. They blossom in August when few other shrubs are in flower, and the blooms usually last until frost. The blooms are fragrant, and there is a wide variety of colors.

SAWMILL WASTE.

What kind of products are made by the Masonite corporation? What has been the direction of its earnings? What is its capital setup?—D. H.

Answer: The Masonite corporation is the country's largest manufacturer of hardboard products and also makes lath, insulating board and other building materials. The building, automobile, and furniture industries are the leading users of Masonite products.

Masonite board was developed by W. H. Mason, a research engineer. Sawmill waste and southern pine and gumwood are used in the company's patented processes. In the plant at Laurel, Miss., wood scraps are exploded into fine cellulose fibers in a steam pressure chamber. The fibers are then formed into boards under intense heat and pressure. The supply of wood is obtained from timberlands and sawmills in the vicinity of the plant.

The capital structure of the corporation consists of 18,419 shares of series A 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 539,210 shares of no par common stock. There is no funded debt.

With numerous applications of Masonite boards being made in industry, the company is not as dependent as it was formerly upon the building trade, which at one time took the major portion of its output. More than half of the company's production goes into automobiles, furniture, and displays.

Earnings of the company advanced sharply in the 1935 fiscal year and have remained above the $1,000,000 level. Net income and earnings per common share in recent fiscal years ending Aug. 31, and dividends per common share in recent calendar years were as follows:

1935	1,004,000	3.41	$0.50
1936	1,430,000	†2.50	4
1937	1,728,000	3.02	2.50
1938	1,144,000	1.95	1.50
1939	1,163,000	1.99	1.00

*In calendar years. †After 2 for 1 splitup in July, 1936. ‡$1.75 a share was paid on the old stock before the stock splitup and 50 cents a share on the new stock.

Net income in 28 weeks ended last March 16 was $695,932 or $1.20 a common share after preferred dividends, against $442,923 or 73 cents a common share in the corresponding period of 1939.

A quarterly dividend of 25 cents were paid March 11 on the common stock. Similar payments will be made June 10 to stock of record May 25. Regular dividends are being distributed on the preferred stock.

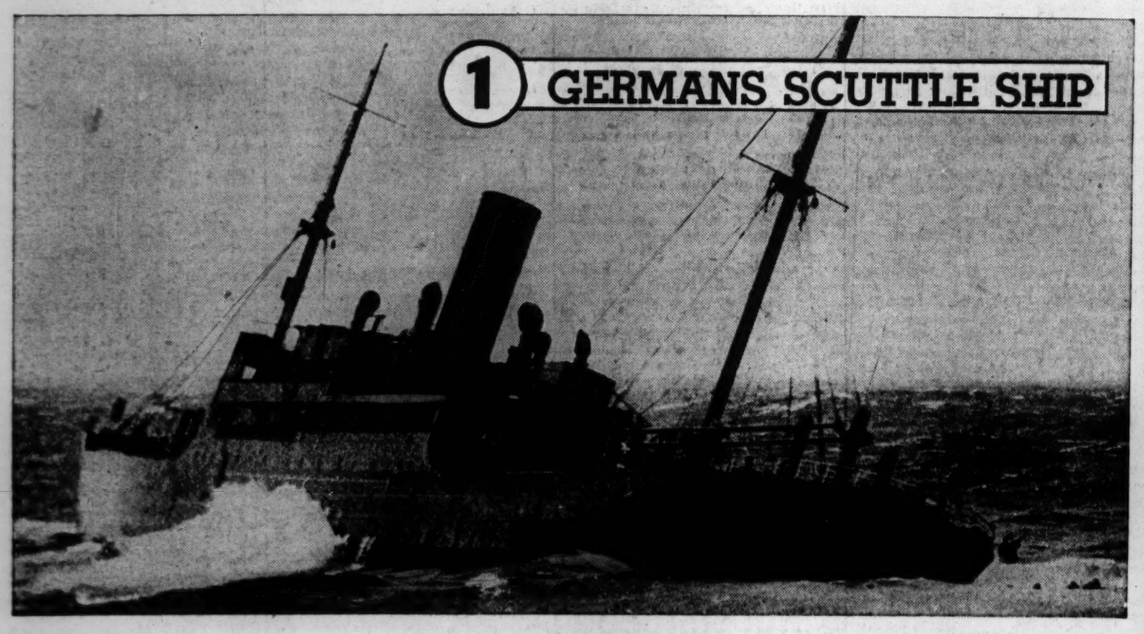
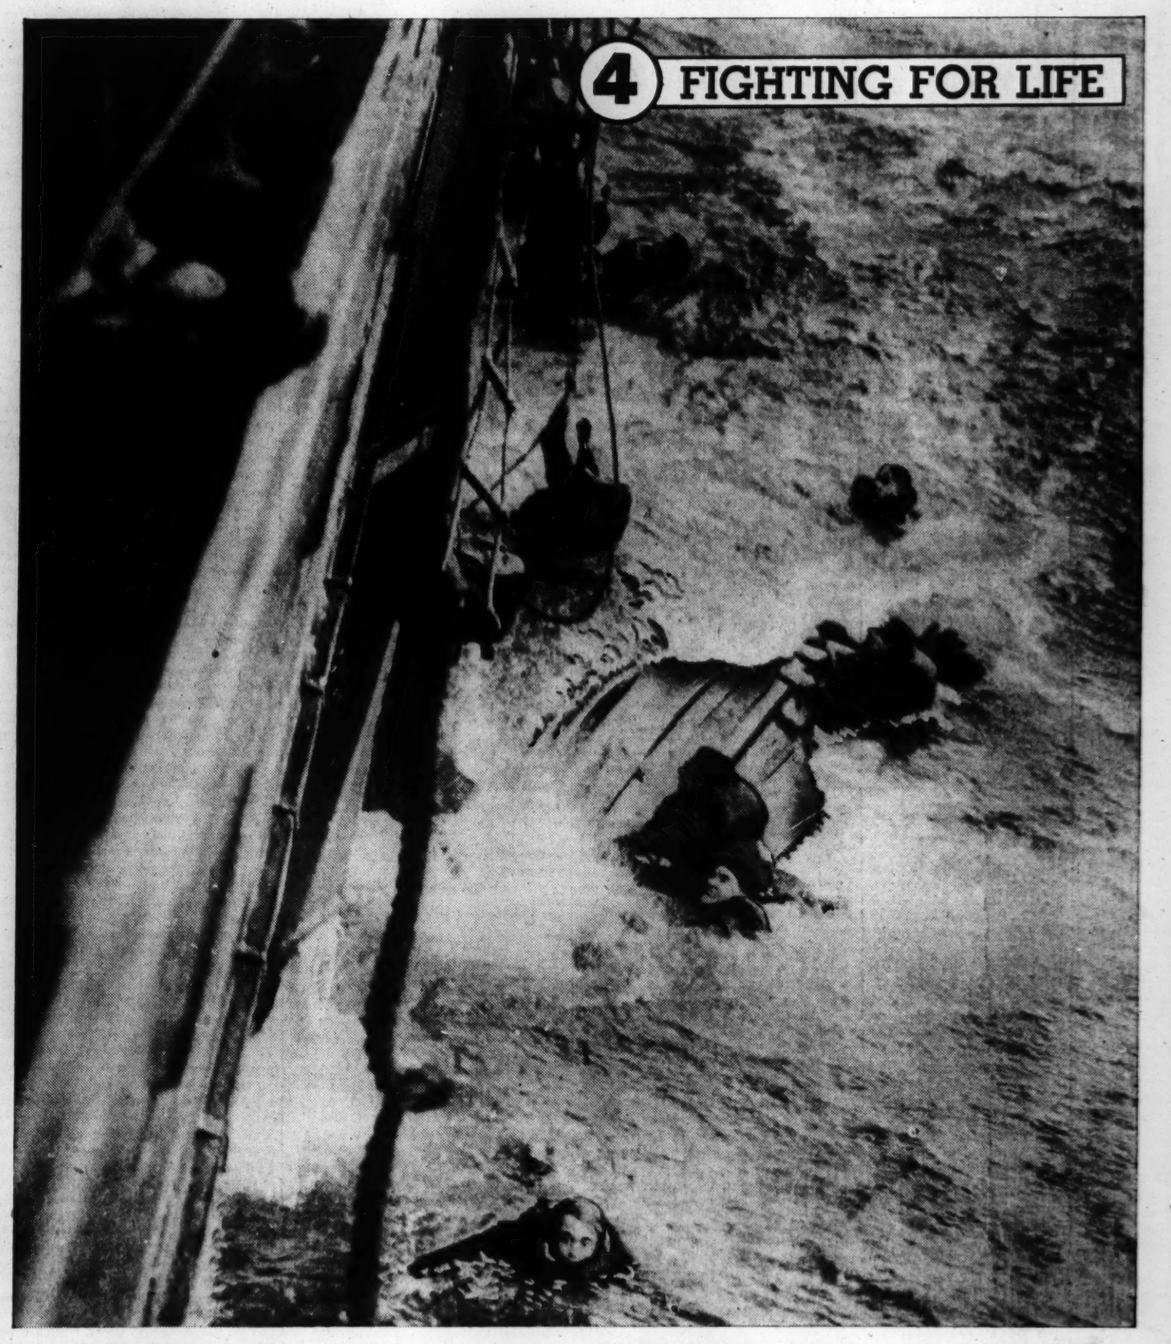
British Release Spectacular Pictures of Rescue of Scuttled German Freighter's Crew by British Warship



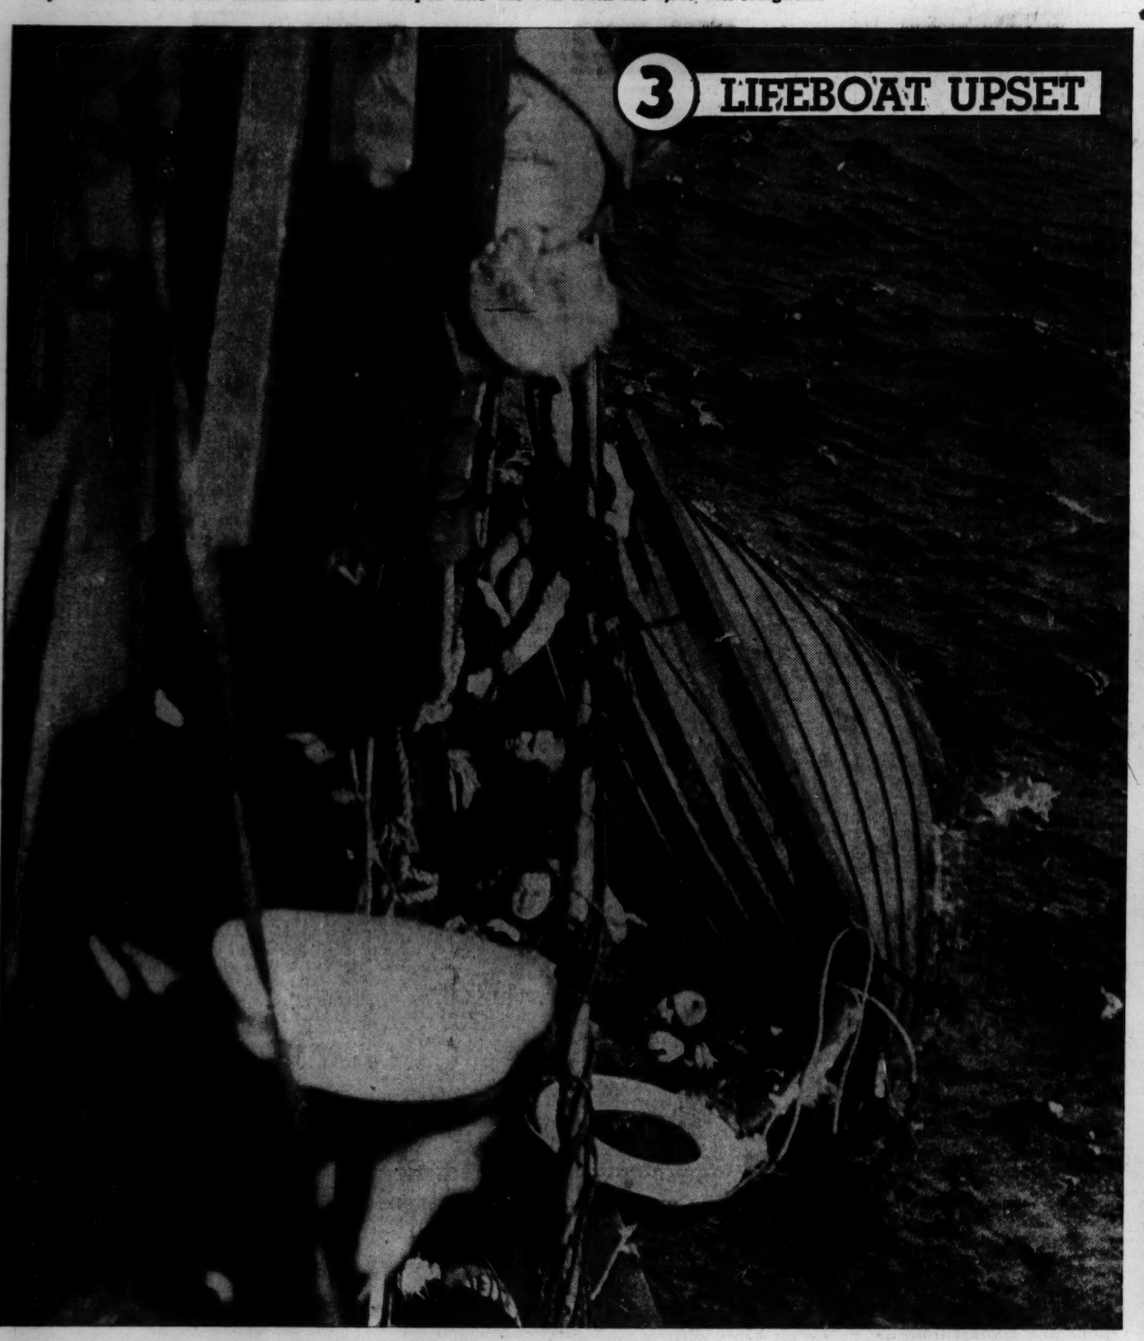
[All British Combine Photos.]

This is the first of a series of pictures appearing on this page which were released by British censor to show how crewmen of German Arucas scuttled their ship and were then rescued by British warship. Here the freighter heels over before sinking.

German sailors clinging to an overturned boat (arrow) as the British warship maneuvered toward them. The British said they rescued 40 of the 53 Germans who leaped into the sea from the 3,369 ton freighter.



Desperately the Germans clung to the overturned lifeboat. Additional lines were thrown down to the men, who were fast becoming exhausted in their struggle against the sea. Heads of men may be seen alongside boats.



The crew of the warship lean over the rails to watch their comrades haul the German seamen aboard after their boat had overturned. The British vessel had been gently eased up to the seamen as they struggled in the water.
